THE WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

Report of Climate and Crop Service, Weather Bureau.

Weather in Utah the Past Week, and Reports from the State of the Condition of Crops.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Utah Section, for the week ending Sept. 12, 1898:

Salt Lake City, Utah,
September 12, 1898.

There has not been a material change in the temperature during the past week, continuing cool throughout the week and averaging about one degree below the average daily. The weather has been more constantly cool for the past week. The nights have been especially chilly, attended by frost, which was light generally, but in some sections heavy enough to kill vegetation.

No rain or precipitation of any kind is reported from any section of the State, and there was abundance of the cold and threatening thunderstorms of the previous week, the weather assuming a settled appearance incident to the change of season.

WATER WITCH IN IDAHO.

Located a Well with a Supply that Has No Diminution.

There is a water witch operating in this section of the country, says the Boise Statesman. He does not ride a broom, neither does he make perennial trips to the moon. His business lies in the opposite direction. He has been called a crank and a fake, but he has dissipated some of the criticisms and has made several warm adherents by the discovery, through his mysterious process, of a well on Five Mile, where the ground is bone dry excepting the irrigated sections, and where it had been popularly supposed a man would have to dig as deep as the devil's domain to strike even a semblance of dampness.

Some little time ago the water witch appeared at Five Mile. He was derided, and when Frank J. Corbus, the well known sheepman, more out of curiosity than anything else, gave the man a job he had less faith in the success of the enterprise than any one on the creek.
