ESSENCE OF ART HERSELF

May Morris, Daughter of Poet And Artist, Sees Tiny Ray of Hope for America.

COUNTRY HOUSES PASSABLE

The Dear Girl Is a Little Pessimistic About Art in England—Its Patrons Not Numerous.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—With her arms resting across the back of a black-stained settee such as her father, William Morris, poet and artist, might have designed many years ago, Miss May Morris, some times spoken of as "The Essence of Art Herself," at Hull House, last night, said she saw a tiny ray of promise for art in America.

"Perhaps the only comment that I dare make of art in the states is this," she said, "your country house architecture is original and promising. I had an opportunity to see something of your country houses in Pennsylvania and I was much impressed with them.

"I regret to say that I am a little pessimistic about art in England. Aeroplanes and the motor are weakening the interest in art. The English people just now are more excited about aeroplanes and aviation, but motoring still draws their fancy and the result is those who are supporting art—its patrons—are not so numerous."

Miss Morris was asked if she was in favor of votes for women.

"Oh, I knew that was coming," she replied. "Yes, I am—just a small bit—but I'm not actively engaged in working for it.) It will win, of course, and I'm glad it will be soon, for there are more important things. My interest in suffrage is linked with the guild workers in the arts and crafts."

Miss Morris said she had attended a recent meeting of American suffragettes in Carnegie hall and was impressed with their enthusiasm.

"I should say the American women were as enthusiastic as our women in England. There seemed as much interest in the contest here as in England."

DEAD ENGINEER WAS AT THROTTLE

Pocatello, Ida., Oct. 28.—While leaning out of the cab yesterday afternoon near Felger, Wyo., Engineer William Roberts of train No. 7, Oregon andd Washington limited on the Oregon Short Line, was struck on the head by a bridge or mail crane and almost instantly killed.

The fireman did not notice the accident and for awhile the train ran with the dead man at the throttle.

Roberts's home was in Montpelier, Ida.

MONTANA PEOPLE STAND BY BARRILL

At Meeting at Hamilton Addressed by Dr. Cook Resolution Endorsing Guide Passed.

IT WAS VERY STORMY TIME

Doctor Told Barrill to His Face That His Statements Were False.

Hamilton, Oct. 28.—Queen Alexandra, through a message received tonight from Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, American minister to Denmark, conveys her greetings to Dr. Frederick A. Cook and expresses absolute confidence in his polar achievement.

Dr. Egan's letter, which is dated Oct. 7, in part reads:

"On Sunday night last, at the king's dinner at Charlottenlund, her gracious majesty, the queen of England, was kind enough to talk a long time to me, and you were the principal subject of our conversation. She is almost as ardent a Cookite as my daughter, Carmel, or the Countess Holstein-Ledreborg. She said: 'When Lieutenant Shackleton comes on Saturday I shall endeavor to convert him if he is not already converted.'"

Dr. Cook cabled Dr. Egan as follows:

"Many thanks letter. Appreciate kind words of her majesty, the queen of England.

(Signed) COOK."

Hamilton, Mont., Oct. 28.—At the conclusion of a stormy session in the opera house here tonight, during which charges and counter-charges were hurled back and forth between the friends of Edward N. Barrill and Frederick Printz and those who desire to see fair play given Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the home town of the guides, the audience adopted by a large majority vote a resolution expressing confidence in the veracity of Barrill and Printz, the resolution being presented by City Atty. Wagner, counsel for the guides. This resolution was a substitute for one offered by J. H. Durstan, editor of the Anaconda Standard, in which he sought to have the meeting declare a lack of faith on the part of the entire people of Montana in all matters about which Dr. Cook has made claims.

DR. COOK COOL.

While the action of the meeting was unfavorable to Dr. Cook, the explorer took is coolly and calmly and after the meeting evinced no indications of having taken the matter to heart at all. He sat for a long time chatting pleasantly with interested listeners regarding his trip to the pole.

The excitement of the meeting did not come until after Dr. Cook had delivered a brief lecture on his trip to the north pole and had delivered his supplementary speech regarding the ascent of Mount McKinley. As soon as he had finished Atty. Crutchfield, counsel for Printz and Barrill, arose and challenged the statements of Dr. Cook. This precipitated a discussion and Mr. Durstan offered his resolution seeking to place the people of the state on record as discrediting Dr. Cook in every point of his claims. This caused a furore.

Atty. Roland White of San Francisco, who happened to be in the audience, arose, and as a citizen, made a plea for fair play. United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana also took the floor and urged that fair play be accorded all parties to the controversy. Neither those who were opposed to Dr. Cook nor his friends would accept the Durstan resolution, and it was withdrawn by its author. Barrill was called upon, and taking the platform, declared that Dr. Cook's statements regarding the Mt. McKinley affair were incorrect. Dr. Cook replied by asserting to Mr. Barrill's face that the latter's statements were false.

EXCITEMENT INTENSE.

The excitement at this point was intense. Women became excited, and the tension was almost at the breaking point.

Barrill answered the doctor's assertion by demanding to know why the doctor did not make an affidavit to the effect that he had sealed Mt. McKinley. The challenge had no sooner been issued than it was accepted by the doctor, and an affidavit was made by the explorer on the platform, in the presence of the audience, in which he declared that he did ascend Mt. McKinley, that Barrill was with him at the time, and that the records of his ascent were left on the summit of the peak. The doctor signed the document, but owing to the fact that there was not a notary in the audience, no seal appears upon it as yet. This detail the doctor will attend to, it is stated, as soon as a notary can be secured.

Further discussion of the disputed ascension of the mountain led to the bantering of charges and counter-charges back and forth at a lively rate, Barrill's attorneys and friends denouncing the statements of the doctor and others contending for fair play to all.

THE RESOLUTION.

Atty. Wagner then made himself heard and presented the following resolution:

"We, the people of Hamilton and Ravalli county, assembled, after patiently listening to the charges and counter-charges exchanged by the parties to the Mount McKinley controversy, do declare our firm belief in the veracity of Ed Barrill and Fred Printz."

When this was submitted to a vote it was carried by a large majority and the meeting was brought to a close after the mayor had announced the result of the ballot.

After the meeting Dr. Cook, who did not allow himself to become ruffled or excited in the least during the affair, but bore himself as a calm and perfect gentleman throughout, went to the Ravalli hotel and chatted until a late hour with a big crowd that gathered here to hear him talk about his experiences in the north. The rest of the population gathered about the streets in little knots of seven or eight and threshed out the controversy until a late hour.

When seen by a reporter after the meeting Dr. Cook said he did not care to discuss the result of the meeting at present.

He evinced no special concern about it and did not appear in the least downhearted or grieved over what had happened.

Long before the hour for the lecture tonight the opera house was filled, and by the time the doctor was ready to make his appearance the throng extended into the street, many struggling vainly in an effort to get within hearing distance of the speaker. There was much cheering and the reception accorded the doctor was enthusiastic. The speaker was introduced to the audience by Mayor Drinkenberger.

COOK'S STATEMENT.

At the conclusion of his story of the attainment of the north pole, Dr. Cook took up briefly the controversy which has arisen regarding his ascent of Mt. McKinley. He prefaced his remarks with this statement:

"Satisfied that the people of Montana believe in justice and fair play, I have come into your commonwealth, not to seek revenge, not to enter into a controversy with men in whom I once had every confidence, but to ask for a fair deal. There is no malice in my heart, I am not here to invoke the strong arm of the law. My veracity has been attacked by men residing in this community. They have fallen into evil hands and the temptation was too great. They have sold their birthright for silver, and there probably was more than 30 pieces.

"I am here to give my version of the Mt. McKinley controversy, and then leave my case in the hands of an honest jury—the people of the great state of Montana. I will accept their verdict."

Continuing, Dr. Cook said:

"At the time of my arrival in New York, after two years and three months in the arctic regions, and when all America was rejoicing over the double discovery of the north pole, there began a warfare to rob me of the glory of an achievement which was, and is, rightly mine. Confident that my rival had triumphed after nearly a quarter of a century in quest of the great unknown, I with all good Americans, rejoiced in his success, and, in Copenhagen, I declared that there was glory enough for two. Despite the bitter attacks which have been made upon me, my attitude in this respect is unchanged.

"When this warfre failed, the enemy began this flank movement on the climb of Mt. McKinley; men with money to burn in the flame of infamy entered the arena. Men of this community whom I had previously believed honest, fell as victims. Their statements were absolutely untrue. Still I nurse no spirit of revenge or malice against these misguided men. My counsel, however, has been instructed to continue their investigation until we catch the guilty money-givers higher up.

"Hamilton and Missoula have clearly shown their disapproval of this battle of injustice. They have shown that they do not believe this malicious turn of rival powers. Your fairness and your faith is a pledge of human nature worth more than millions thrown into the hell of hirbery.

"For the present I am willing to trust my case to the citizens of Montana as a jury. After you have read the mass of testimony which my counsel has collected, I am ready to abide by your verdict. Then, with a new expedition to Mount McKinley, I will guarantee our future position. My records are on the summit of the Alaskan peak, and, accompanied by unbiased, fair-minded men, I pledge you my word that I will again reach the top of the mountain and bring back this unquestionable proof of the success of my former expedition."

AGONY OF ECZEMA BEYOND WORDS

Whole Body a Mass of Raw, Torturing Humor—Hair All Fell Out and Ears Seemed Ready to Drop Off—Clothing Would Stick to Bleeding Flesh — Hoped Death Would End Fearful Suffering.

CASE SEEMED HOPELESS BUT CUTICURA CURED HER

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I suffered with. It broke out on my head and kept spreading until it covered my whole body. I was almost a solid mass of sores from head to foot. I looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. The pain and agony I endured seemed more than I could bear. Blood and pus oozed from the great sore on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my body. My ears were so crusted and swollen I was afraid they would break off. Every hair in my head fell out. I could not sit down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding flesh, making me cry out from the pain. My family doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. My condition was awful. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to come and end my frightful sufferings.

"In this condition my mother-in-law begged me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Ointment. It cooled the bleeding and itching flesh and brought me the first real sleep I had had in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Soap, then apply the Ointment freely. I also took Cuticura Resolvent for the blood. In a short time the sores stopped running, the flesh began to heal, and I knew I was to get well again. Then the hair on my head began to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured. I cannot praise Cuticura enough. I wish I could tell everybody who has eczema to use Cuticura. My condition was so terrible that what cured me cannot fail to cure anybody of this awful disease. If any one doubts the truth of this letter, tell them to write to me. Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newark, N. J., Sept. 28, 1908."
