
HOME.

No other word brings to our minds more pleasing reflections than the little word home. Forest Dale is intended to consist only of homes. It has attractions that no other addition in Salt Lake City possesses.

In times like the present people look for homes where their taxes are likely to be as low as possible, and their other expenses in proportion. Forest Dale, a subdivision of the old farm of the late President Young, is just far enough from Salt Lake City to be free from city taxes. Vegetables and fruit are cheaper, and for building purposes brick can be bought for at least one dollar per thousand less than in Salt Lake City. While it is wise to consider the question of economy, other matters are of even greater importance. Forest Dale has its own water system; the springs from which the supply is obtained purifying over 1,000,000 gallons of pure, clear water in 24 hours. The pipes are laid all through the addition, and those who purchase a home can use the water piped to their door as well as the land their house stands on. One electric car system passes right through the addition, while another runs within a short distance of it and will also eventually pass through. Good school facilities exist; two teachers being employed in the Forest Dale School, with a high school for more advanced pupils near by. The social enjoyment of the neighborhood is also at ended to; the Forest Dale Pleasant Hour Club being formed for the express purpose of furnishing a home plenty of harmless yet pleasant recreation. The old farm house furnishes quarters for concerts, dances and socials. These, with the Sunday Schools and kindred meetings giving the young a field for the development of their talents, without which no people can progress. For those who desire a home whether large or small we have property unequalled anywhere. We desire to sell only to home makers. If you want a home, my agents will be pleased to take you to the property, and let you select that which a title you look. Lots of any size can be obtained. Call at room 204 Constitution Building; see plat of the ground and obtain any particulars you wish. No trouble to show property.
