The Work in California.

Editor Deseret News:

In April, 1891, I received a notice from the first council of Seventies to prepare for a mission to California and Western states. I arrived here to fill that mission on the 22nd of last August. The day I started out and found a few Saints, who were pleased to see me. There was no place to hold meeting in, so Brother John P. Jorgensen proffered his house for that purpose; accordingly I appointed a meeting there for the following Sunday, and notified all the saints I could find. I held meetings at Brother Jorgensen's for three Sundays, administered the Sacrament, and talked to and comforted the Saints all I could. The third Sunday they unanimously agreed that we should hire a hall, which I did for one month to hold our meeting in, it was Sunday, for $10. A number of people who belonged to the Church, but had left Utah for different causes, mostly in search of work, came to our meetings, among them Brother Joseph Nattress and Dr. J. P. Van Denbergh. Sunday morning, October 2nd, I re-baptized Brother Nattress, and in the afternoon of the same day organized the Oakland branch in the Alameda Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, with Brother Joseph Nattress, president, and N. R. Phillips, clerk. On Sunday, the 9th of October, Brothers J. P. Van Denbergh and James P. Jorgensen were ordained as counselors to Brother Nattress, and I set them apart. Monday, the 10th October, I re-baptized Brother and Sister Van Denbergh. Brother Jorgensen was re-baptized last spring.

I can not give you the exact number in the branch but will do so in my next. We have had a few strangers to our meetings. After our first month was up we rented the hall for another month for Sunday mornings and evenings at $15 per month. We hold our meetings in Fraternal Hall on Washington street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. Where we hold our meetings there are two halls in the same building; on Sundays we occupy one, and the Spiritualists the other, there being the largest, they charge 10 cents admittance and their hall is filled, our meeting is free, no collections and we only get once in a while a stranger. We have a card in the hallway telling of our meetings.

On the 11th of October I went to Sacramento. I found some Saints there anxiously looking for me. I baptized two and baptized three children. I shall return there soon and organize a branch there. There are a very few inquiring after the truth; no one seems to have any time or inclination to listen to religion now; all they think or talk about is the election and politics. After election is over, if the weather will permit, I think I shall try outdoor preaching, and if I do nothing more I will at least have done my part.

With kind regards I remain your brother in the Gospel,

J. L. DALTON.

South Alabama Conference.

This conference convened at a place prepared in the woods at Westville, Holmes County, Florida, on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 29th and 30th, 1892, President Alfred W. Peterson of the South Alabama conference presiding. There were present J. Golden Kimball of the Southern States mission, Alfred W. Peterson, President of the conference and traveling Elders John Panson, Joseph Sorenson, Charles S. Cottam, Frank Croft, Wm. R. Ashby, Jr., Joseph Candle, Warren Harris, T. I. Alder, Carlos H. Loveland, Geo. H. Rogers and W. Owen Ridges.

Four meetings were held and an enjoyable time was had. Those present and within hearing heard much good sound doctrine from President Kimball and the Elders.

Three council meetings were held during the conference in which the Elders gave a report of their labors during the past year, and received much valuable and necessary instruction from President Kimball relating to their labors for the coming year.

Elders Peterson and Peterson were honorably released, having spent two years laboring in the South.

Elder Croft was chosen and unanimously sustained to succeed Elder Peterson as President of the conference, and the Elders were appointed to labor as follows: Elders Croft and Rogers in Lamoyne, Crenshaw and Butler counties, Alabama. Elders Sorenson and Loveland east part of Holmes county, Florida, and the east part of Geneva county, Alabama.

Elders Ashby and Alder, west part of Holmes county, Florida, and west part of Geneva county, Alabama.

Elders Cottam and Candle, Barbier, Dale and Henry counties, Alabama.

Elders Ridges and Harris, Jackson county, Florida.

Conference adjourned for one year.

W. OWEN RIDGES,
Clerk of Conference.

HATS OFF TO A TENDERFOOT.

The West Makes Due Acknowledgment to a Sir. Payne from the East.

On by one the roses fade. The gentle tenderfoot from the distant east, whose doings in our western country have been a subject for ridicule, exaggeration and entertainment, suddenly turns the tables on his calumniators. We have all heard of his listening wide mouthed to the startling stories concocted by the wild westerner, of his being made to dance to the music of the fearful six shooter, of the innumerable jokes of which he has been made the butt, of the jeering and joking he has over been subjected to; of the ridiculous appearance he has made in the presence of the cowboys, the knowing miner and the frowzy denizens of the boundless prairie. Always a guy, usually a coward and generally a nervous dude, the tenderfoot from east of the Mississippi has been the plaything and the shuttlecock of our worthy and self reliant citizens.

But suddenly all this is changed, and the tenderfoot blossoms out to be "as mild a mannered man as ever scuttled ship or cut a throat." Shortly after the witching hour of midnight a train was held up on the Union Pacific, between this city and Cheyenne. Three masked robbers, looking like the heavy villains in the fourth act of the average melodrama, suddenly entered the coaches with glittering pistols cocked, and hoarsely demanded that every passenger hold up his hands. The train was filled with cowboys, Indians, typical westerners and Mooses from Montana. They glanced at the murderous guns of the robbers, listened to the fierce demand and sullenly obeyed. All but one poor, lone tenderfoot, from away back east, who instead of heeding the call of the thugs and thieves simply pulled his pistol and began, alone and single handed, such a murderous, steady and lively fire on the three masked holdups that one of them fell before the volley of cold lead, while his companions, amazed and mortified, picked him up and hastened from the scene.

Immediately following their departure the valiant cowboys, Indians and "bad men" from Butte became intensely brave, grabbed their pistols and talked loudly for an hour or so about following the scoundrels and hanging them to the nearest tree. Meanwhile of course the holdups escaped into the mountains, doubtless very wrath at the white faced youth from the east who had wounded unto death one of their fellow and prevented one of the neatest and richest robberies of the age, it being understood that several of the passengers had with them at the time large amounts of what is known as "the stuff."

We rather regret that the action of Mr. Payne crushes to earth an idol we long have cherished. That he alone and single handed should scatter the wild western robbers, while his terrified fellow passengers got under the seats and dodged out of sight of murderous missiles, sets at defiance our preconceived notion of the genius tenderfoot. He is clearly an iconoclast. He violates all western tradition. If he or his kind repeats the instance related many more times, we shall begin to cherish a sneaking regard for the hopeful and brainy young fellow who comes out to our Rocky mountain region in search of fame and fortune, and chance some what askance at the bad Yonced, leather breeched and jaunty native who alleges that he keeps his own private graveyard, but who is frequently behind a tree when the bullets are thickest.—Colorado Sun.

Children in the Caucasus Mountains.

Among the wilder tribes of the Caucasus every child is taught to use the dagger almost as soon as he can walk. They first learn to stab water without making a splash, and by practice acquire an extraordinary command over the weapon. Their pistols are flintlocks, with long, very thin barrels, and must have been handed down for generations. They do not look very formidable. The rows of little pouches worn across the breast do not contain cartridges, but small wooden cases tipped with bone or metal, and formerly used for carrying loose charges of powder and shot; now they are only worn for ornament. All the men speak a little Russian, but their own language is more allied to Armenian. They belong to the orthodox church. —London Saturday Review

When Birds Face the Wind.

The aborsal sparrows, vireos and many other smaller birds usually sit upon nests built on horizontal limbs, with the head from the trunk, and when the nest is much elevated the position is usually chosen so that the sitter will face the prevailing wind. Birds will nearly always, when on or off the nest, face the wind, and if observations are taken nearly all birds on the nest will be found in one position if a strong wind is blowing. —Science.

M. Renan's Parrot.

M. Renan has a high opinion of birds, and likes parrots. He was bequeathed Coco, the parroquet of Mlle. Desclee, the actress. it was a bird with an astonishingly fine ear. Mme. Viardot used to sing scales to Coco, and he would repeat them just as they issued from her mouth.—London Truth.

True to His Name.

The late Rev. Samuel A. Clark was in attendance upon a church congress in New York when a friend sitting behind him leaned forward and asked in a whisper:

"What, Brother Clark, are you going to read an essay today?"

"Certainly," was the instant reply. "I am known to the church as S. A. Clark."—Cor. Christian Union.
