RHODES HAS A PLAN.

He Advises the People of Rhodesia to Look for Independence.

THERE CAN BE NO ANNEXATION

But There Should be Co-operation With Other States in the Matter of the Drifts.

DELAWARE, Maitlandland, June 5.—At a banquet given here Cecil Rhodes made an important speech, in which he briefly sketched the history of Rhodesia, and referred to "the creditable action of the British Chartered South African company" in the matter of compensation for the Jameson raid. On the completion of the railway Rhodesia, he thought, would become thickly populated with whites. If he were allowed to remain to work with them, he looked to the future for the charter to lapse and the colony to become self-governing. This would be possible without detriment to the shareholders.

Mr. Rhodes ridiculed the idea of the amalgamation of the Transvaal or its annexation to Cape Colony. It rested with the people, he said, to co-operate with him to carry out his schemes. The present population, he argued, was too small for self government, but representation in the legislative council would be an intermediate stage to the ultimate object. He advised the people to look to independence in the future and keep in their hearts the idea of free trade and quick communication to the Cape. He also favored a system of joint defense which, summed up, meant federation. He concluded by again inviting the co-operation of the people in his scheme of making Rhodesia one of the South African states.

REFORMERS DISAPPOINTED.

PRETORIA, June 5.—The executive council, after a long discussion, has postponed the final decision regarding the release of four reform leaders, Col. Francis Rhodes, John Hays Hammond, Lionel Philips and George Farrar.

McKINLEY'S POSITION.

His Financial Views as Interpreted by Perry Heath.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—As yet none of the leaders who are to take part in the Republican national convention have arrived. Local politicians say that Marcus A. Hanna, the leader of the McKinley forces, will reach here next Tuesday, and T. C. Platt, who has charge of Levi P. Morton's campaign, will come two days later.

Perry Heath, formerly managing editor of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, who will be the chief McKinley spokesman until the arrival of Hanna, has come, and is keeping the special correspondents supplied with McKinley news. The Republic in the morning will print a lengthy interview with Mr. Heath, in which he gives what he purports to be McKinley's position on the financial question. It will read al follows:

"Wall street has attempted to run every national convention held since I have known anything about national conventions. It will try to run the Republican national convention this year, and it will, as usual, fail. Major McKinley is one of those men who does not believe his judgment should be taken against the combined wisdom of his party. Nobody has spoken for him authoritatively on the currency plank, and nobody will be able to do so, because he is willing to trust the convention and stand by its decision. The best judgment of the whole party must prevail in the matter.

"There are not to exceed four states which will insist on an unequivocal declaration for the gold standard. These states are New York, Maine, Massachusetts and probably New Jersey. In the same way there are about half a dozen silver states which will demand a 16 to 1 declaration. In a great majority of states the one issue in the campaign is protection. You cannot talk the currency question to Republicans in Ohio, Indiana or Illinois. Tariff is the great issue, and whatever the Republican convention adopts as its platform will be the McKinley platform."

Having disposed of the McKinley currency attitude, Mr. Heath, at the request of the reporter, addressed himself for a few moments to Thomas C. Platt, with the following result: "Yes, Mr. Platt is preparing some kind of a coup. I am informed it is to be sprung either before the national committee or on the floor of the convention. He has served notice already repeatedly during the past few days that he would not give up his fight until the nomination was announced and there was no longer any opportunity to raise a hue and cry against the Ohio candidate. I don't know what he intends to do or not clearly manifest at this time, but I have letters from at least one member of the national committee to whom Mr. Platt has written, in which use of his name is made. He intends, if possible, to control the preliminary roll in the convention, and to use the advantage so secured obtain by that success against McKinley."

THE BUTLER BOND BILL.

Argument Against Its Adoption by Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Chairman Dingley of the House ways and means committee today made a report to the House on the Senate resolution to prohibit the issue of bonds without authority from Congress. The statement is signed by the eleven Republican members and the Democrats, Turner of Georgia and Cobb of Missouri, who concur in the recommendations without indorsing the arguments.

The report says: "It is not proposed by the Senate bill to repeal so much of the resumption act as authorizes the secretary of the treasury to borrow coin to maintain the redemption fund; yet this is the legal effect of the language employed. The attempt to clothe this repeal by reference to further authority of Congress is meaningless verbiage, for everybody knows, without a declaration to this effect, that Congress may repeal a law which has been repealed, and the repeal is proposed just as Congress is ready to adjourn for six months, and with the knowledge that the Senate, as at present constituted, would never authorize an issue of bonds to maintain the redemption fund. To propose this when there has not been for three years a large deficiency of revenue, inevitably raises the inquiry whether it is not the deliberate purpose of the promoters of this bill to plunge the government into repudiation and depreciate the greenbacks.

"One excuse which has been given for the passage of the Senate bill is that the secretary of the treasury has sold bonds to syndicates instead of offering them first as popular loans. While he was appointed with this objection, yet this affords substantial ground for amending the act of 1875 so as to require bonds issued under it to be first offered to the American people, and not ground for the absolute repeal of all authority to borrow in an exigency.

"Another excuse is that the secretary of the treasury has indirectly issued gold bonds to meet the deficiency of revenue by using the redeemed United States legal tender notes for current expenses, and thus placing them in a position for a second redemption. This affords grounds for such legislation as will make it practically impossible to continue this practice, but not satisfactory ground for taking from the secretary all power to borrow for the purpose of maintaining the redemption fund.

"Of the twelve witnesses examined today the most important was Detective Herman Wills. He is of the Cincinnati police force, and had but very little to do in the case. He said that on February 7th, by Walling's direction, he recovered Scott Jackson's blood-stained coat from the catch-basin at the corner of John and Richmond streets. Walling in giving him the instructions said Willis: "We went west on Richmond with a lot of bundles." By "we" Walling meant himself and Jackson. Detective Wills, after finding Scott Jackson's coat in the sewer, reported to Walling that he found no other bundles. Walling replied: "We put several bundles in the catch-basins on Richmond street; go and hunt further." Witness said all further search was futile.

Albert T. Root, an attorney in Newport, testified that he and his wife took supper at Hayden's restaurant in the last week of January, and Jackson and Walling came in with Pearl Bryan and sat down at a table with her. Pearl Bryan was in great distress and Jackson and Walling were utterly heartless.

Mrs. Bryan, mother of the girl, when she heard this, exclaimed: "Thank God, they took her to one decent place after dragging her around the slums all the rest of the time."

Madagascar a French Colony.

PARIS, June 5.—The committee of the Chamber of Deputies has unanimously approved the bill making Madagascar a French colony. Previous to so doing the committee was addressed by M. Hanotaux, the minister for foreign affairs who stated that the United States government, in a dispatch, had insisted upon the necessity of a categorical declaration regarding the annexation. M. Mascuaux added that the government of Great Britain had urged that the treaties between Madagascar and foreign powers existed until the annexation of that island was proclaimed by France.

Continuing the minister said the French government, therefore, was obligated to ask the chamber to approve the annexation of the island of Madagascar to France in order to clear up the situation. The attitude of the government of France, he continued, had already had a good result, as it has received an entirely favorable reply from the United States, in the very important fact that the government of the United States recognized that the former treaties between Madagascar and foreign powers were annulled if that island was converted into a French colony.

MOVING TO CHICAGO.

Headquarters of the Republican National Committee.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The first steps looking toward the removal of the headquarters of the Republican national committee from New York to Chicago were taken today at a meeting of the Republican state central committee by the adoption of the following resolutions:

"Whereas, It is generally conceded that the great battle in the campaign of 1896 will be fought in the West and South, thereby making it absolutely necessary that the headquarters of the Republican party should be near the geographical and political centre of the country; and

"Whereas, Chicago has unexcelled facilities for communication by rail and wire with all parts of the Union; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That this committee, representing the Republican party of the state of Illinois, hereby request the Republican national committee to establish its headquarters in the city of Chicago, and we further request the delegates to the national convention at St. Louis and the national committeemen from Illinois, when selected, to use all honorable means to secure the location of the Republican national headquarters in the city of Chicago."

tea-roasting in Japan. Tea in hot basins; sun hot; everything hot—sweaty men and women (the lowest and dirtiest) standing over the basins, mixing the tea with their dirty hands, mixing in dirt and gypsum and poison (to color with), dropping their sweat into the mixture.

They won't drink that tea—they know what's in it.

That is the tea you're drinking, if you drink any other Japan tea than Schilling's Best.

Schilling's Best is young tender tealeaves, carefully picked, and roasted by machinery in San Francisco—clean.

At your grocer's—money back if you don't like it.

Schilling's Best coffee, baking-powder, tea, soda, spices, and flavoring extracts, are also money-backed.
