WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER

Desperate Fight in Missouri Between Posse and Negroes.

ONE WHITE AND NINE COLORED KILLED.

Also Three White Men Wounded During the Attempt to Arrest a Darkey Near Harperville.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 23.—A special to the Commercial Appeal from Forest, Miss., says: As the result of an attempt to arrest a negro near Harperville, Scott county, in the eastern part of the state, one white deputy is killed, three wounded, and according to the latest report, nine negroes have been killed by the citizens of the Harperville neighborhood and the sheriff's posse combined.

The pursuit of about fifty negroes, who had joined the original offender with the avowed determination to prevent his arrest and capture, and which ambushed the party attempting the arrest, continues, and by morning the number of fatalities will undoubtedly have assumed larger proportions. The whole country is terribly aroused and the sheriff's posse has been reinforced with men from all the neighboring towns. Gov. McLaurin has gone to the scene, which is about ten miles north of Forest, the nearest railroad point.

The trouble originated last Friday, when a negro named Burke had an altercation with his employer, Charles Freeman, a white man, in which the negro got the best of the difficulty. The next night a crowd of white men, headed by Wallace Bibby, who was deputized to arrest the man, went to Burke's house, which is about a mile from Harperville.

FIRED FROM AMBUSH.

When they arrived upon the scene and called for Burke they were greeted by a fusillade from the negroes concealed in ambush in the bushes, surrounding the house and in the house itself. Wallace Bibby, the leader, fell dead at the first volley and three more white members of the crowd, James Johnson, James Hamilton and James Wells, were wounded. The whites returned the fire but were unable to do any execution, as their assailants were all concealed. There were not more than eight men in the white crowd and finding it impossible to resist effectively, they dispersed toward Harperville.

It was not known at that time that Bibby was injured, but upon a return to the scene this morning he was found dead in the yard. The wounded deputies were able to get back to town with the assistance of their comrades. This occurrence took place early in the night.

SUMMARY VENGEANCE.

When the crowd returned to Harperville the news spread like wildfire. During the night a large crowd gathered from the neighborhood. They immediately went to Burke's house and got from his mother the names of all parties in the crowd which had ambushed the men the night before. In all there were about forty negroes who had gathered to prevent the arrest of Burke, and a list was made up of her deduction. All of them had fled. Then the pursuit and search for each of the proscribed darkies began. According to the statement of reliable citizens, six negroes were found and killed by the crowd of armed and determined citizens before the sheriff arrived.

This morning Sheriff J. M. Stevenson was wired of the threatening condition of affairs and he was asked to get together a posse and come at once to Harperville. Gathering together a posse of twenty or thirty men the sheriff started at once. When he arrived in the afternoon he was joined by crowds of citizens until a posse of over 100 men were secured.

THREE MORE SHOT.

Immediately after leaving the house where the first tragedy was committed, the negroes scattered through the surrounding country. The sheriff's pursuit has resolved itself into a chase of the negroes implicated and not of a mob which is keeping together as was first reported. A reliable telephone message received at a late hour tonight states that three more negroes have been found and killed, making a total of nine to date, with about forty more to be heard from.

Sheriff Stevenson realizing the danger apprehended, immediately wired Gov. McLaurin at Brandon for aid in quelling a probable widespread disturbance. Upon receipt of his telegram the governor wired Adjt. Gen. Henry W. Jackson to get together a company of the national guard and proceed to the scene upon the first train. Gen. Jackson immediately responded that there was no national guard company obtainable, but that he would get together a company of armed men and render all necessary assistance.

GOVERNOR TAKES A HAND.

In the meantime the governor procured a special train at Brandon and accompanied by a posse of thirty men armed with shotguns, proceeded to Forest. Arriving here early in the evening and finding that there was small danger of the riot assuming proportions beyond the ability of the posse on hand to keep in bounds, he wired Gen. Jackson that it would be unnecessary for him to bring his volunteers from Jackson.

The posse is operating in the swamps about a mile from Harperville, where most of the fugitives are supposed to be concealed. There is a message here to the effect that the citizens are apprehensive of armed negroes entering th town tonight, and guards will be set to prevent a surprise.

The governor and Mr. Jackson are naturally counseling moderation, but in the excited state of the public mind a general fear is expressed that the posse will not regard the suggestion favorably. Their presence, however, will undoubtedly have a good effect in restraining the number of fatalities after enough negroes have been killed to satisfy the outraged feelings of the whites in that section.

GODDESS OF PEACE.

Cross Erected on Mount St. Albans, Near Washington, Unveiled with Ceremony.

Washington, Oct. 23.—A most impressive ceremony in this city was the unveiling of the peace cross on the summit of Mount St. Albans, the site of the new Episcopal Cathedral. This ceremony was in lieu of the laying of the corner-stone of the edifice, which will be known as the cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul.

President McKinley was present and delivered a brief address. Many other distinguished men were present, and 200 bishops and other high dignitaries of the church, which as been holding its convention in Washington. These marched in solemn procession in their clerical robes, accompanied by choir boys of the different churches of the city. An audience of many thousands was present. Bishop Satterlee of Washington delivered the address of welcome, while the sermon of the occasion was by Bishop Doane. The drapery was dropped from the stone while President McKinley was speaking.

Mount St. Albans is some distance from the city proper, but it overlooks the capitol, and from its site the many public buildings, the dome of the capitol and congressional library and the Washington monument are plainly visible. The situation, the surroundings and a beautiful day combined to make the scene inspiring and the occasion impressive.

Bishop Satterlee said it was expecting too much of the President to respond, but he wanted him to know their appreciation with. The President then arose and said:

"I appreciate the very great privilege given to me to participate with this ancient church by its bishops and its laymen in this new showing for the Master and for men. Every undertaking like this for the promotion of religion and education is a positive gain to citizenship, to country and to civilization. And in this single word I speak I wish for this sacred enterprise the highest influence and the widest usefulness."

While the President spoke the drapery of red, white and blue was removed, revealing a huge Indian cross twenty feet high, cut from a single stone.

After a chant by the choir, Bishop Whipple read a special prayer of thanksgiving for victory.

Bishop Doane, in the course of his address said: "I am speaking here in the name of all Americans. The cross here unveiled stands on a mount which bears the name of holy to all English-speaking people. It overlooks the capitol of a great nation of freemen. The chief magistrate of our great country has added the dignity of his most welcome presence. A representative assembly has gathered. I take it that there is represented to day in this assembly the only union that can exist between the church and state in this country."

He spoke of the magnificence of the peace cross, the peace which had come to the nation and which was commemorated by the cross.

French War Fever.

Cherbourg, France, Oct. 23.—Orders have been received at the military and naval arsenals here to prepare for the arrival of a large body of troops tomorrow. The barracks are being hurriedly put in order for their reception.

A TOTAL WRECK.

It is Feared that There is No Hopes of Saving the Distressed Crew.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 23.—Tugs, which have been endeavoring for hours to reach a large square rigged vessel ashore on Thrumcap shoals, about a mile and a half from here have abandoned the effort to save the crew of the unknown craft. The vessel was discovered on the rocks at daylight this morning, having gone ashore in the heavy gale last night. Only stumps of masts are visible from the signal station and five men have been counted on the deck of the stranded vessel.

At first the unfortunate craft was thought to be a fish barkentine, as one was due here. During the morning the crew could be seen making signals but the breaking spray of the sea breaking over the hull prevented them being understood. Although from the Devil's island were early on the scene, but could not get within a half mile of the wreck. The noise of the surf was terrific.

This afternoon the tugs got near enough for Mr. Crosby, the Halifax agent of the barkentine Iona, which was due from Turks Islands with salt, to venture the opinion that the vessel was the Iona. It was conjectured that the vessel might be the barkentine Ida Maud, but the illustrated hull appeared too large.

A life buoy attached to a small line was sent off from the stranded vessel this evening and was allowed to float down to one of the lifeboats. An attempt was then made to pass a heavy wire [illegible]

Alleged Insurance Fraud.

New York, Oct. 23.—A dispatch to the Herald from Montreal says: An attempt to extort $20,000 insurance money is seemingly at the bottom of the story of the alleged drowning a week ago of Dr. W. H. Ireland, a native of Preston, Ontario, four years a resident of South Africa and surgeon to Cecil Rhodes.

The city was deeply stirred by the event, which was said to have taken place at the Donaldson line wharf, and the announcement that Ireland's widow was at death's door in her hotel. When detectives called to see her, her story did not quite agree with that told on her arrival at the hotel two hours after, it is alleged, her husband was drowned. She afterward made other contradictory statements.

The detectives say frankly that they believe that during the two hours between the alleged accident and the time Mrs. Ireland reported it at the hotel, Ireland went to the depot and took a train for New York, whence he sailed for England. Or he may have made a friend on the Tritonia, who [illegible] were him a berth in secrecy. The Tritonia sailed at daybreak the next morning for Glasgow, where she will be searched on her arrival.

The face value of the policies held by Ireland is $20,000, but as a matter of fact, there is only $12,000 on the doctor's life, as the premiums on $11,000 were not paid on August 1st.

Dr. Ireland was well known in South Africa, having taken a prominent part in the Matabele war. He was wounded in the hip and as a result walked somewhat lame. He was surgeon to Cecil Rhodes for some time and was a clever man.

Word comes from Victoria, B. C., that Ireland is known there, and once attempted a similar scheme in the one now attracting interest here. Mrs. Ireland protests that she knows nothing of it.

A NEW YORK VENETIAN PALACE.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish Will Surprise Society by Duplicating the Famous Venetian Structure.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, one of the most original matrons of New York's Four Hundred, will reproduce in her home the latter part of this month the palace of the Doges of Venice. Many prominent members of society believe that this step will bring to Mrs. Fish the mantle of social leadership so long and gracefully worn by Mrs. Astor of New York, London, and Paris. The exterior of the mansion will, in accordance with modern ideas, be constructed upon most up-to-date plans, but the interior will be a perfect duplicate of the home of the Doges near the Bridge of Sighs.

MRS. STUYVESANT FISH.

The predominating colors throughout the mansion will be crimson and gold. The grand staircase is an exact reproduction of that leading from the interior court to the upper loggia of the Doges' Palace, and Venetian marble is used for the fireplaces. The rarest works of Italian artists will adorn the walls.

Mrs. Fish is a tall, beautiful woman of the brunette type, and has a stately carriage. She is unconventional in her manner of entertainment, and it was this same matron who electrified staid Newport during the past summer by giving a barn dance at which her guests masqueraded as dairy maids and rustics, and at which a real donkey came trotting in the dance, loaded with the favors.

Mr. Fish is president of the Illinois Central railroad, the great North and South trunk line of the Mississippi valley, and he holds positions of equally as great importance in many other famous organizations.

The Fishes are one of the most prominent families in New York and the housewarming of their $1,000,000 palace which is to take the form of "A Venetian Night," will eclipse the glory of any entertainment of its kind ever given in the metropolis.
