TRAMPS ON RAILROADS.

THEY GET OVER GREAT DISTANCES ON SCHEDULE TIME.

When They Can't Get Inside They Have the Best Than the Exterior Affords, and Sometimes That Is Very Good, Though a Trifle Dangerous.

While trainmen are of one mind in regard to the annoyance which tramps cause the railroad companies they disagree about the methods of these individuals in "doing" the country. In spite of the strict rule of all railroads prohibiting tramps, these professional travelers get over the road somehow or other with astonishing rapidity. They have been known to cross from San Francisco to New York in but a little longer time than it took Mr. Mackey on his record breaking trip. It is by no means certain that one of these nomads didn't accompany Mr. Mackey part of the way across the continent on the fast mail train. Tramps are partial to mail trains. The trucks are roomier than those of the ordinary coach or freight car. Whatever doubt there was about Mr. Mackey's beating the record there certainly wasn't any doubt that Mr. Tramp beat the railroad company.

There are tramps and tramps. Many a poor fellow who has spent his last cent and is out at the elbows wants to try his luck in another part of the country, but [illegible]
