ISLE OF MAN.

O, that beautiful Isle! that beautiful Isle!
Can I forget its thousand charms!
Its hills, illumed with a magic smile,
And locked in Neptune's brawny arms;
The frowning, craggy, rocks of gray, Where the waves are dashed with snowy spray:
While above on the dizzy height is seen The carpet sod of unfading green!

O, that beautiful Isle! that beautiful Isle!
Can boast so many ancient towers;
You can tread Saint Germain's tottering pile,
And mark time's devastating powers;
And dive to dungeons deep below,
And hear the legend tale of woe,
Where the royal lady spent years of gloom,
And pined away in a living tomb!

O, that beautiful Isle! that beautiful Isle!
What memories hallow that beautiful scene!
There was something our weariness to beguile, Where'er our pilgrim feet had been,
Peel had its haunted castle-keep,
Where the guards could neither watch nor sleep,
For at night from the shade, with terrific bound,
Came the dreadful form of the spectral hound.

O, that beautiful Isle! that beautiful Isle!
Douglas has got its crescent bay,
And Castle Mona's princely pile,
The dying pomp of a by-gone day;
Old Castle Rushen guards the south,
With its frowning keep and strong redoubt;
And the queenly gift in its lofty tower Proclaims the stops of each passing hour.

O, that beautiful Isle! that beautiful Isle!
'Tis beauty's footprint in the sea; O'er its very name I pause awhile,— Mona, sweet name, and dear to me.

— The high price of provisions in England is causing considerable agitation among the working classes of that country. More riots are looked for in several of the large and populous towns.
At Worcester inflammatory scrolls, re-it necessary to make preparations to quell disturbance in the event of riots.

— The Westminster Review, the chief organ of political progress in England, speaks of a coming Republic in that country, instead of the present monarsiders the late Reform measure is merely a preparatory step. It does not endorse the American length of term for President, but would make it longer; would throw several important guards around the exercise of the franchise; and would make the members of the Senate hold office for life.

A NOVEL RACE.

On Sunday last at the Driving Park, Cleveland, Ohio, the remarkable race between Indians and horses took place, according to announcement. It was for a purse of $100, the horses were to run six miles and the Indians three.
The horses were the trotter Lady Patchin, pacer Maria Brough, the runner Lady Moody; and the competitors, Steep-rock, Deerfoot and Stevens. The race commenced at half past three o'clock.
It was arranged that the men were to change each quarter of a mile, and the horses each mile. Lady Patchin trotted to sulky, and the others went under the saddle. Patchin and Stevens led off, the former being relieved at the end of the first mile by Maria Brough, who was followed by Lady Moody, the last three miles being run in the same order. At the quarter-pole, half way round the track, Stevens was relieved by Steeprock, and he again at the starting point by Deerfoot, and thus in rotation till the three miles were made, each man being required to run one mile in quarter mile dashes. The race was won by the Indians, Deerfoot coming in on the home stretch nearly a quarter of a mile in advance of Lady Moody, who ran the last mile.—Auburn Advertiser.

I KNEW SHE WOULD. — Deacon W. was a staid and honest deacon in one of our interior towns of this State, who had a vein of dry, caustic humor in his composition. The deacon had a son of some dozen summers, who was inclined to be a little ugly when not under the paternal eye. In school, especially, John was a source of constant annoyance to the teacher. One day the teacher punished him for some misdemeanor, and John went home to enter his complaint, and told his father that mistress had whipped him.

"What?" exclaimed the deacon, elevating his eyebrows, "been whipped?"

"Yes," sobbed the boy.

"And did you leta woman whip you?" shouted the deacon.

"Yes, I couldn't help it."

"Well, John, you little rascal, you go to school to-morrow, and if Miss — undertakes to whip you again, you pitch in; don't let a woman whip you if you can help it.—Don't take any stick to strikewith, but bite and scratch as much as you are a mind to."

The next day the boy went to school, and emboldened by the permission given him by his father, was soon brought before the tribunal of violated rules. The teacher undertook to correct him, and he did as his father had told him. The result was that John got an unmerciful whipping, and was thoroughly subdued. When he went home he went to his father crying:

"Well, dad, I got an orful bad licking to-day."

"What!" said the old deacon, "have you let that woman whip you again?"

"Yes," whispered John, "I kicked her, and fit all I could, but she slammed me most orfully."

"Aha!" chuckled the old deacon, "you tarnel little fool, I knew she would; and she'll give you a trouncing every time she undertakes it, and I advise you to behave yourself in the future."

John began to have some perception of his father's motive, and ever after was a better and wiser boy.
