PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - JUNE 3, 1896.

The Midsummer Carnival.

A call has been issued for a meeting to be held in the Opera house Saturday, the 6th, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of taking action upon the matter of representing Utah county in an appropriate manner at the Midsummer Carnival in Salt Lake. The call is a invitation to all the towns in the county to send representatives to meet with Provo citizens interested in the event, and a large meeting will doubtless be the result, as the interest in the great festival is growing throughout the county. The following gentlemen are among the signers of the call: L. Holbrook, H. T. Thomas, Levi Openshaw, Reed Smoot, S. S. Jones, Chas. De Mont, J. C. Graham, J. H. Booth and W. H. Dougherty.

The City Ordinances.

The decision of Justice Stacy in the Paxton case, referred to in yesterday's NEWS, and the interpretation placed upon it by City Attorney Whitmotion and Attorney Gish who assisted in the prosecution, viz: that it practically annulled the ordinances of the city if it should prove to be correct, is not looked upon in the same light by Justice Stacy. He holds that the decision only goes to the case in connection with which it was made. That the complaint in that particular case was defective for the reason that it did not refer to the ordinance and section under which a conviction was sought to be obtained, and that the motion to arrest of judgment was made and sustained on those grounds. There seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the scope of Justice Stacy's ruling, but if he is correct, it is not so far reaching as was at first supposed, and no unusual delays will be necessary in meting out justice to violators of the ordinances.

Judge Wilson's Case.

Considerable speculation is indulged in as to who will be the successor of Judge Wilson of the Fourth district, the understanding being general that a vacancy has occurred through Judge Wilson's absence from the district for over ninety days without obtaining leave of absence from the Governor. Judge Wilson has seen very moderate in being unable to attend to the duties of his office since his election on account of sickness. He took a trip to California, expecting to be benefited by a change of climate; he did not, however, improve, and since his return has been to the St. Mark's hospital and, it is said, is getting better. Sincere regrets are expressed that his friends should have cause to remind him of the necessity of suitably the leave of absence, as he in his feeble condition doubtless failed to think of the formality, and it would meet with general approval if the judge could be permitted to fill his term, providing he is to a fair way to recovery.

Notes.

R. W. Driggs, of Pleasant Grove, came down from Provo Valley yesterday. He reported that a stiff breeze from Provo river above Midway had been washed away by the high water and that there was great danger of other bridges in the valley being destroyed.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Charity Oathouse were held in the Third ward meeting house yesterday afternoon. She died at Mercur last Monday, from consumption, at the home of her son, John Oathouse. The deceased was 72 years of age.

J. W. Nixson, formerly with Grimes Bros. of Salt Lake, has accepted a position as manager of the Excelsior Drug and Paint company of this city.

The following Salt Lakers registered at the Hotel Roberts yesterday: Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Browne, C. W. Fifield and Wm. Tipton.

John Willard Holliday, aged 23, and Lois Berthe Clark, aged 19, both of Santaquin, have taken out a marriage license.

Industrial Cuba.

The Spaniards seem to have adopted the principle that the colony and the colonists are two elements specially created for their benefit, made to work public functionaries and to pay tribute to Spain. The rule is applied with extraordinary consistency. Every position is reserved exclusively for Spaniards, so that Cubans cannot hope that civil offices will ever be open to them. They only have left the task of paying fantastic taxes and entertaining the public officials whom the home government sends them.

To this political cause of uprising are added those of an economic character. The Spaniards have established in Cuba a prohibitive system. Enormous duties are imposed on foreign merchandise, and this aggravating system is asserted absolutely disgusted by the extraordinary taxes imposed on Cuban products when they reach Spain. One can understand that an attention is paid to the interests of the island to such a regime. Foreign nations in their turn also impose high duties on exports from Cuba. Thus little is results that the Spanish colonist has still only to sell his goods and is obliged to pay excessive prices for the manufactures of the.

Singularly, the larger part of the insurgents, who are central people, claim to be descended from the French. The province of Santiago de Cuba is largely inhabited by the French and their descendants. The negroes speak the French language, and, being descended from the slaves of Frenchmen, they constantly show their so-called quality of being Frenchmen. And in those protected Frenchmen, Cubans descended from the Spaniards join themselves quite readily the struggle for the independence of their land. One of the best records of the revolutionary insurgents, Maximo Gomez and Mazeo, has been a French sergeant, Meyer, who joined the revolutionists at the expiration of his engagement of the foreign legion, at a salary of $600 a month. Having become a leader of the insurgents, Meyer established one of the most audacious campaigns, harrassing the regular troops, stealing convoys, and cutting telegraph lines and connecting them with other lines, which led to offices which were in his power. He was thus able to receive and send out dispatches and create interminable confusion in the services of the administration. He counterfeited military orders and was able to bring two Spanish brigades face to face in line of battle, each having been attacked by a band of insurgents. Behind them two thousand Jews devastated the province.—Gaston's Magazine for June.

EARLY CHICKENS.

Hints as to Their Feeding and General Care.

If the hens have so free a range as they have on the greater number of farms, the young chicks may also be allowed to run at large after the first few weeks, but they should be kept in the coops until the middle of the forenoon. It is well to remember that a lazy and apparently lifeless chick which has been caught in a sudden shower may often be warmed back to life by bringing it to the fire. It may be necessary to bring them in by basketfuls sometimes, and I have seen some surprising resuscitations in such cases.

A hen running at large will raise her brood with less feeding than one confined in a small lot, but the chances are that she will lose more of them. Not only are they caught by hawks, but there are other dangers which beset them. Most prevailing of all is to have your neighbor's cat dine off chicken daily while you wonder how Dinkie manages to lose one or two chickens every day. Be sure by you catch the innocent looking pussy in the very act of springing upon a chick, and the mystery is solved.

It must never be forgotten that the coops as well as the feeding and drinking vessels must be kept clean. Filth breeds disease always and everywhere. The odors which are so annoying, especially in warm weather, soon infect an unclean coop.

For the first 4 or 5 weeks of their lives they will need to be fed at least five times daily. "Little and often" is a good rule to follow in feeding. Corn bread made by mixing the meal into a batter with buttermilk, being twice as much soda as the measure of milk, as if for the table, makes one of the best foods for small chicks. This quantity of soda will make the bread crumble readily. Possibly the crust may need scaling. It is not a great deal of trouble to bake once a day enough to last until the next day, and as a food it is certainly an improvement on raw cornmeal mixed with water, which some of us can remember used to be the regulation food for young chicks.

If the cornmeal is not fed to the calves or pigs, it can be given to the chickens to drink, or, better still, after it has clabbered four until the curd and whey separate. There is nothing better than the curd for young chickens, especially during the first 2 or 3 weeks of their lives. As soon as they are old enough to eat meat give all they will eat of this grain for the last feed of night. Cracked corn may alternate with the wheat, and at later period whole corn.

To sum up in a single sentence: Food and water often; keep dry and clean.—New York Times.

Oregon Fruit Plants.

Clover can be successfully and profitably produced on soils of the Willamette valley and in most parts of the state. Farmers could give little attention to this most excellent forage plant. Timothy is not so valuable a fodder plant as is popularly supposed. It is inferior to other cultivated grasses and tall oat grass. Clover, as clover, is relatively a poor fodder plant and should give way to timothy, orchard grass, tall oat grass, or these mixed substitutes. Our strain may be made a greater source of revenue to the farmer by feeding it more than is now done and using a greater quantity as fodder, thereby securing a greater material value than by burning. It can well be fed in lieu of some grain with more concentrated feeds.—Bulletin Oregon Station.

"Tell that to the marines" indicates the contempt which, even to the present day, professional sailors feel and express for the landsmen who form a portion of the employment on board a man-of-war.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A proper use of this medicine has often averted long and fatal illnesses. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents a bottle. E. C. M. I. drug department.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Hives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little intermission and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Z. C. M. I. drug department. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

(From The Press, Detroit, Pa.)

A number of our prominent men have been restored to health and manhood by the use of Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt. The editor of this paper was one of the fortunate men who availed himself of the opportunity offered by the Dr. Sanden Electric Belt Co., of 167 Broadway, New York, to test the merits of their celebrated Electric Belt. Our experience with the Belt has been so satisfactory that we feel we cannot do less than to recommend it to our readers who are suffering from the effects of early indiscretions or who are broken down by the cares of business or the infirmities of old age. Our own case is a marked one, and we have no hesitation in saying that the Belt has more than lived up to the claims made for it. We have seen many others who have used the Belt with equally satisfactory results. We know Col. Samuel Stapleton, who would not spend a dollar for a patent medicine, but who was induced by our recommendation to try the Belt himself. We know Capt. Frank Bell, Geo. E. May, C. O. Mathews, Dennis Kelleher, Jacob Hoover, and a host of others who have since tried the Belt, and we know they are all more than pleased with the results. Our word for it, gentlemen, if you are in need of such a Belt, you can't do better than to address the Dr. Sanden Electric Belt Co., 167 Broadway, New York, and get one by return mail.

All of the above testimonials are as well genuine and can always be joined exact with the Dr. Sanden Electric Belt Co. We know of no better way for young or middle-aged men who are suffering from the effects of youthful indiscretions or who are broken down by the cares of business or the infirmities of old age to regain their manhood than by securing one of these Belts. The Dr. Sanden Electric Belt Co. has made it easy for the sick and suffering to avail themselves of the benefits of electricity, and we believe that every man who is not positively incurable should at once send for one of their Belts. We know the Belt will do all that is claimed for it, and we believe the Company to be fully as represented in every respect. We know the Company to be composed of men of the highest character and standing, and we believe that any man who may be induced to send for one of their Belts will be fully satisfied with the transaction, and will be ready to bear testimony to the good it will do him. We know of no other Electric Belt that we can honestly recommend to our readers, and we advise our readers to beware of imitations and cheap Electric Belts, as we know the Dr. Sanden Electric Belt to be the best on the market, and we know the Dr. Sanden Electric Belt Co. to be fully as represented in every respect.
