DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Tuesday, - - August 8, 1893.

GRAVITY SEWER STOPPED.

The Step Is Taken as the Result of a Clash Between the Board and Contractors.

The board of public works met last evening to discuss the gravity sewer squabble. During the afternoon the board had visited the sewer line in order to post themselves on the matter.

At the meeting the engineer notified the board that he refused to confirm the order allowing the contractors to sublet the work. A long debate then ensued on the matter and manner of construction. Mr. Hobson, one of the contractors, asked permission to speak. The request was granted, and among other things he said:

"When we made our bid we sent sample brick in with it, and they were part of the bid, and the basis on which our figures were made. If the sampler were not satisfactory the bid should have been rejected, that's all. We were willing to have those bricks submitted to any test the engineer can devise, either by crushing or otherwise, and then let our material be judged by the standard thus attained."

After a number of questions had been propounded and squarely and fairly answered by Mr. Hobson the discussion turned to alleged unsatisfactory work by some of the inspectors.

The question of employing outside workmen also came in for consideration, and finally work was ordered stopped until an investigation can be had.

The board will meet again tonight to deliberate further on the question.

Charter Amendments.

The Western Loan & Savings company through Francis Armstrong, president, and Clarence George, secretary, filed with Territorial Secretary Richards, late yesterday afternoon, two amendments to their charter. The first is "to make insurance of every kind connected with titles to real estate, and to act as assignees, agents, receivers, guardians of the estates of minors," etc., and to receive deposits of money and pay interest thereon; and the second increases the capital stock from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Tufts vs Tufts.

An answer was filed in the Third district court last evening in the divorce suit of Laura G. Tufts vs Don Carlos Tufts. The husband denies the allegations of the complaint in regard to cruelty and habitual drunkenness and makes some very strong charges against his wife. Mr. Tufts alleges that the complaint, for the past three years, has been a habitual drunkard, frequented saloons and acted in a manner unbecoming a woman by using profane and vulgar language. Mr. Tufts further denies that he is worth the amount claimed by his wife in her complaint, and alleges that his income does not exceed $1,150 per annum. He opposes her application for temporary alimony on the grounds set out in his answer, and also files a number of affidavits to substantiate his allegations with regard to his wife's misconduct.

Wasatch Stake Conference.

The Wasatch stake conference convened at Heber on Saturday and Sunday, July 29th and 30th. On Saturday morning Elder Abram Hatch, president of the Stake, Richard Harvey and Joseph Lambert were the speakers. In the afternoon Elder F. M. Lyman, after hearing the Bishops' reports, commented upon the same and advised the people how to live. Sunday morning Elder John M. Mackintosh, E. S. Alexander and T. H. Giles and Elder George Reynolds of the Presidency of the Seventies, were the speakers. The general and local Church authorities were then presented and sustained, after which Thomas Hickon and Elder Abram Hatch made few remarks. Sunday afternoon Elder George Reynolds gave a short lecture on the Book of Mormon, Elder Lyman then spoke on Church discipline and after the closing exercises conference adjourned for three months. A large representation from all the wards were present at each session of the conference.

ALFRED ROSS, Clerk.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

The opening of a new Congress always brings to the front a thousand and one schemes new and old to curtail the number of bills introduced in Congress, and it is again seriously proposed that the House have a special committee, the approval of which shall be required before the bill can be introduced. At first glance one is apt to regard the proposition as a good one and in the line of a needed reform; there is certainly a lot of time and money wasted on bills that are utterly absurd. But a little consideration will convince most people that a committee entrusted with the power of deciding what bills shall and shall not be introduced would be a much greater and more dangerous evil than the shower of bills now poured upon Congress. Such a committee would always be controlled by partisans, and there is already entirely too much partisanship in Congressional legislation.

The usually large number of financial bills that will be introduced as soon as Congress gets down to business will not be an unmixed evil. Every bill will contain an idea, good, bad or indifferent, and a careful study of all these ideas may bring forth something in the shape of a financial bill that will meet the approval of a majority of Congress and of the people, regardless of politics. If ever there was a time when politics could be profitably laid aside for a while that time is right now.

The positive statement is now made by those who ought to know that in addition to recommending the repeal of the Sherman law, President Cleveland's message to Congress will contain a substitute, the enactment of which will be recommended. But the nature of that substitute, if one has really been agreed upon, is still kept a profound secret. It is said to have been originally suggested by Secretary Carlisle and to have been somewhat modified by Mr. Cleveland.

The telegraph companies would have been out a good round sum of cash, if Secretary Carlisle had made known a few days before his departure his intention to go to Hazard's Bay to consult with President Cleveland, upon the invitation of the latter, and the readers of the metropolitan press would have missed all of the sensational stuff sent from Washington relating to the failure of the President to recognize the claims of his secretary of the treasury to be consulted upon such an important financial document as his message to Congress. Messrs. Cleveland and Carlisle may not agree in some things, but it is safe to say that they agree in enjoying the discomfiture of the sensation mongers in this case. They will return to Washington together tomorrow.

Senator Gorman, who probably knows, if anybody does, says no radical tariff bill will be passed by the Fifty-third Congress, because of the belief of so many business men that it would be a most dangerous experiment to make at this time, owing to the financial stringency and business depression under which the country is already staggering. According to Mr. Gorman the most that will be done will be to revise the McKinley tariff, slightly lowering the duties on such articles as have had placed upon them outrageously high duties for no better reason than to put money into the pockets of a few men, already rich, at the expense of the consumers. Other members of his party do not agree with Senator Gorman, and his opinion is nevertheless entitled to great weight.

It is now stated that Representative Bland is to be tendered the chairmanship of the coinage committee of the House with a string tied to it in the shape of the information that the majority of the committee will be anti-silver men. This information is expected to lead to his declining the chairmanship, as he intends here stated that he would not care to be chairman of the committee with a majority of its members opposed to him. There may be a surprise for somebody in this business.

Monday Leslie's Weekly says the end of the Sherman silver law will afford no relief to the country, and that if it be repealed it will require more months than some people seem to imagine weeks necessarily to accomplish it. The week of date will believe that it is possible for Congress to furnish any relief, because the time of the trouble lies in the fear of the people, which is causing them to hoard money. While the weekly does not say so in so many words it is evident from its conclusion that he believes that the people must look to themselves and not to legislation for relief.

It is said by those who claim to know the confidence of Speaker Crisp that it has been fully determined upon to make Wilson, of West Virginia, chairman of the Ways and Means committee in place of Springer, of Illinois, who held that position in the last House, and Mayers, of Texas, chairman of the appropriation committee in place of Holman, of Indiana. Speaker Crisp has been here all the week, but he positively declines to answer a single question.

Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Spencer, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg; doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at A. C. Smith & Co's Drug Store. 24

A Good Thing for Summer Complaints.
