LILIUOKALANI AND THE SAINTS

The Queen and Party Visit the "Mormon" Settlement.

About the 24th of July news was received that Queen Liliuokalani and her attendants would soon pay a visit to different places on the island of Oahu. Tuesday, August 4th, her Majesty left Honolulu, Hon. John A. Cummins being her escort. The Hawaiian band accompanied the party.

Both male and female at Laie for two weeks past had been in a constant bustle preparing suitable accommodations for the Royal party. Work was abandoned for the space of three days on the plantation that all might have an equal show storing away food for the hungry participants of the tearing over. Various committees on arrangements were appointed for the occasion. A lowery stage was erected especially for the festival. Two tables running lengthwise of the temporary structure were made to seat seventy-five Hawaiians.

Saturday, the 8th, Samuel Parker, minister of foreign affairs, arrived on the visit Liliuokalani and company would be at Laiewai on the morning of the 8th at 9 a. m.

From daybreak on the day until the hour appointed all hands were engaged in decorating the road conspicuous parts of Laie with several kinds of form, and in some instances trees loaded with tropical fruit were made to stand on appropriate spots.

As her majesty approached she was greeted by a fair representation of well-drilled school children, also by an equal number of uniformed horsemen. The procession first marched to the dwelling houses of the Saints, then to the Mormon Chapel. After singing and prayer, the president of the Laie branch addressed the congregation. Her majesty and party were cordially welcomed to the homes and hearts of her loyal and loyal subjects at Laiewai. Our ancestors were briefly and logically traced back to the first man—Adam, and we were brethren and sisters together in the great family of God—children of Abraham through the line of Joseph and Ephraim, and on this we met her majesty, the queen of these dominions, and desired to assure her that while at Laie among the Saints she was in the house of her friends. His remarks were brief but well chosen and appropriate, and presented the hearts of all present.

Her majesty was then introduced to the vast assembly by Elder Brigham Johnson, interpreter for the occasion. Several beautiful selections were rendered under the leadership of a native, services continued for one hour and a half, after which the throng moved toward the bowery.

The motions made for the day combined the following: "E Ola Ka Moi," Long Live the Queen; "A Iaha Oe Liliuokalani?" In regard with affection, "E Moe Ka Eae ka Aina i ka Pono," Continuance of freedom.

At 1 p.m. signal was given for dinner. The queen, along with twenty-four of the visitors, took seats around the table in the bower, while the balance headed under the bowery. Six foreign sisters, dressed in white, who served the royal guests, did it exceedingly well, and demonstrated by their works that they had not forgotten the useful knowledge once received in Zion. The bill of fare was of good variety. In addition to what was placed on the table, an abundance of mangoes, bananas and melons were held in reserve as a dessert. Three of the queen's servants prepared her diet. Pul, raw fish and salt are what she eats first, then bread, meat and vegetables, and last of all her dessert.

The tourists numbered between sixty and seventy. Immediately after the feast the royals returned to Laiewaiku, where rooms were provided them for the night.

Liliuokalani has been educated in both the English and native languages and speaks fluently in the same. Her actions and conversation were marked indicative of her kindness, gentleness and forbearance. The refinement manifested in all her acts was observed and spoken of by the majority present. In an interview with one of the foreign sisters she made mention of her visit with Queen Victoria, the three thousand assembled at the reception given in her behalf and the profound reverence extended toward her.

According to the programme as announced through the Hawaiian Gazette, the royal party should have remained at Laiewai two days with the Saints, instead of five hours. That the programme, as announced, was not carried out was no fault of the Queen, not here, as elsewhere, there are litigants who take delight in trying with these arrangements who never lose an opportunity to impugn our motives and to throw us in the fear if possible. We are happy to state, however, that on this occasion we have no cause for regrets.

The reception was quite a surprise to the royal party. Many and sincere were the congratulations and compliments tendered to both brethren and sisters at the mission home by our royal guests. The Queen herself frankly acknowledged that "This is a day that will long be remembered," adding: "Everything is so orderly and well conducted." Her Majesty was certainly favorably impressed with all she witnessed while on her brief visit. One of the sisters gave her a narration of the fact concerning the discovery of the plates from which the Book of Mormon was translated by the Prophet Joseph Smith, which greatly interested her and awakened in her mind a desire to be placed in possession of the wonderful book. On incorporating to read the same, a Book of Mormon was presented to her.

From the intelligence given, we sincerely hope it will tend to remove the prejudice held against the Latter-day Saints in this portion of the Lord's vineyard. Your brother,

C. D. HARDING.

SEEDING GRAIN.

Statements Made by a Manitoba Farmer on This Important Subject.

At a recent Manitoba farmers' institute the following remarks were made in an instructive address reported by The Farmers' Review: Some of someone has been talked about how much seed to use. Even with the press drill seed on good land, it is unwise to be sparing of seed. Always more than a bushel of wheat with the press drill, and up to two bushels with other ways of seeding, is the best as a rule. If you sow thinner it will go on stooling and produce lots of green grain that will not thresh. To avoid this sow on the thick side. It will make an even stand and ripen earlier. If you happen to have frosted seed, or seed partially frosted, it will do well enough if you are careful not to sow too deep, too early or too thin. The germ of a frosted grain requires warmth, but the food supply is smaller, and if it has to go too long in the ground, or is wet and cold, it will do very poorly always. I also contended that for light, loose land the press drill is the best thing we can use, provided it really does press. That was the case in Dakota with the Havana drill, before we saw such a thing here.

"I seeded lately that a tenant near Jamestown was treated by his boss to sow with a press drill, east and west, so as to prevent blowing away. But it proper attention had been paid here to the principle of having always a firm seed bed, farmers on stiff land especially could have done almost without press drills. Last year on some lands even the press drill went down in the loose dry soil for two days, and was taken up. It could not remedy the consequences of bad management. One man wisely stopped his seeder, harked his rolls and went over the field, firmed it up, with good results, but even that would not be as good as having the best firmed down in the fall and as full as possible of winter's sap. Within press drill I would go no deeper than an inch and a half at most. Further on in the season I would go two inches for wheat and still deeper for oats. Let me say that all the harrowing for the press drill should be done before, and not after, the seed is put in. Two rule won't hold for all crops and all seasons.

"Rolling on some lands would do good, but if the land is dry and light the first windy day will carry off lots of mold and often half the seed. As the winds are all from the northwest as a rule, to run the press drill east and west and leave the land enough without harrowing or rolling is the best plan. There is no end of the seeds of annual weeds in all our land, and I strongly urge that all land that has been seeded with the press drill should, both before and after, but especially after the grain shows above ground, be harrowed with a light set of harrows. It will do the grain more good than harm and kill an end of weeds. Those that are left will get choked by the rapid growth of the grain and leave much less seed."

Bee Hangings.

Bees have claws by which they can stick to a board upside down, explains Dr. Miller in Gleanings in Bee Culture. Let a bee fall on a smooth board, and lo! if it's glass the claws will not hold, and then an oily secretion of the foot allows them to stick. Wet the glass and the oily foot will not stick, and down comes your bee.

A woman apiarist tells in The Bee World how she treats wormy combs. "Soak in clear water twenty-four hours and hang out to dry, or throw water set with the extractor and hang to dry on a hook." Dr. Miller's comment is that if the settles the bit old follows an inch long it beats brimstone.

Supersedes are not needed, the old style Holden case is excellent if they are doubled. The Tomper will allow their use (wooden ones preferable in the Tomper) and the cost is much less than for the wide frame case, which, with this separator, is the most perfect method of adapting section cases to hive, its only drawback being its cost, tells a Michigan apiarist in The American Agriculturist.

Mr. J. B. SHEPARD, manager of The Paris Cooperative Mercantile Institution, Paris, Idaho, says that he Colic produced by change of drinking water, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is without an equal. It is quick and effectual and leaves no bad results. For sale by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. dks

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hind, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, enough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles, it cured me and I think God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free of A. C. Smith & Co's Drug store. Regular size, 50c. and $1.00.

OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW,
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with soreness of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought and been offered numerous worthless cures. A friend recommended Electric Bitters to me and I was induced to try them. I am very happy to say that Electric Bitters have done me more good than all other medicines that I have ever taken. When I am down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to get on my shoes. Now I can do my work. Dr. Hostetter, with the OREGON KIDNEY PILL, is my best friend. I recommend everybody suffering as I was to try them.

WHAT IS A GUARANTEE?

Many merchants and salesmen are in the habit of indiscriminately "guaranteeing" their wares with no thought of being called upon to make the "guarantee" good. It is a pernicious and foolish custom more respected in the breach than in the observance.

A guarantee, to have any value, should be made with knowledge of the meaning of the word and a set purpose to carry out the terms of the guarantee. Let the maker instruct us to warrant, and we replace any tool found imperfect in use.

We have used our best judgment, acquired by a considerable experience, in selecting the following lines for our stock and sell them to our customers with an absolute guarantee that if they do not prove to be all that we represent them, we will refund the purchase money in full.

"Jewel" Steel Range. A finished article, perfectly proportioned, made of the best material. Don't fail to see it. It will pay you.

"Quick Meal" No Generator, Evaporating. Light it as you do your gas burner. No smell. No danger. No complication. Every objection to the use of a Gasoline Stove done away with. Think of the discomfort caused in Summer by working the heat of a big Kitchen Range.

"Superior" Cooks and Ranges. Superior as bakers. Superior in economy of fuel. Superior in design. Superior in construction. Superior in everything that goes to make a perfect cooking apparatus.

The "Peerless Refrigerators." An Ice saver. A Health promoter. Cellular stone lined. What is that? Investigate it. It will more than repay you.
