MEADOWVILLE, -This settlement is sitrated in a meat little round valley at the south end of Bear Lake, and it is only about two years old. It is a snug location, hills. There is an abundance of timber in the surrounding kanyons, and a large spring in the little valley, which is the main source of the fine stream from which water is obtained to irrigate the farming water is obtained to irrigate the farming tand, and which abounds with mountain treat. Brother Josish Tufts, who has been placed in charge of the settlement, called and informed us that the people were utilizing the facilities there as rapidly as circumstances would permit. A large tract of farming and hay land had been fenced, and much of the former had been broken. A dans twenty feet high had been built on sam twenty feet high had been built on spring Creek that the water might be conveyed to the land. The grasshoppors had, nowever, destroyed nearly all of the present year's grain crops. Probably not one twentieth part of the seed wheat would be realized, yet the settlers were generally determined to stay and, by perseverance, make themselves comfortable homes. Only one death had decurred since the settlement as commenced, that of a young child.

NUDDEN DESTE. - Brother Hugh Findsy writes from Fish Haven, Rich County, that Joseph, son of Henry and Frances il well, died auddenly at that place on the

He was amusing himself in the street with a few young folks when he complain-ed of thirst, lay down, and, with but little struggle, in a few minutes expired. He was fifteen years and seven months old, and was born in Stanton, Newcastle Co. State of Delaware. He was a very good and inoffensive lad, and was respected by all acquainted with

MAHA ITEMS .- The following items are rom the Omaha Bee, of the 8th Instant:

Deputy U. S. Martial, Mat. Patrick, of Utah, brought to this city on this after-noon's train from the West, a prisoner in hains, who is charged with robbing the United States mails. The prisoner was placed in the jali here."

Omaha, lately a resident of Ogden, eloped a CONVEYANCERS! of a well-known brower there. They are now rendezvouing at Laramie city—and all parties doing well as could be expected nier the circumstances.

THE MAN OF DESTINY" IN CORK .- WO received, this morning, a copy of the Cork, Buly Herald, of the 24th ult., which contains a report of a lecture delivered in that ity, by "the Man of Destiny,"-Mr. George Francis Train, to a crowded audience in the Theatre Royal, two evenings previous The lecture, in many of its salient points, is a rehash of those delivered in this city, being epigrammatic, and denunciatory of nearly everything but "G. F. T."

During its progress he was unanimously nominated for the next President of Amer a, after which very important incident he wished all present to write to their friends o America and request them to vote or him, and to call on him at the White ilouse after his election. The lecturer told his audience that he organized the great Pacific railroad, and tickled them considerably by saying that the Irish, "with willing hearts and ready hadds," constructed it.

The discuss claims, his imprisonment

a Ireland, and the stupidity of the author ties in both England and Ireland in reject ing street railroads when he tried to introduce them, years ago, and their recent introduction, were longibily and floridly dilated upon. He announced that Fenianism was a small thing, when one of his au-perches made in America. A Voice—Wern you not arrested for lebt? (roars of laughter). Another Voice—Don't mind that man, coorge, he is drunk.

Mr. Train-I will answer the question-I am not afraid. When I left England in James M' Henry $2,000. I owed nothing.

A Voice—All I can tell you is that I am very glaft to hear it, (laughter)."

He informed his audience that he organised the Paris Commune, which led to several inquiries from them, one person asking him if he killed the bishop. This caused great excitement and hisses; and in answer to his request that they would hear him out, the reply was: "We listened to you quietly up to the present, but we wont hear you now." The hissing was continued and the excitement increased, until the audience left, refusing to hear any more.

The band then played "God have treignd," and while doing so Mr. Train introduced his son to the audience, who greeted the manify little fellow right hearthly, and he and his hearers, the Standard mys, once more parted as good friends.
