TO

CONFERENCE VISITORS.

I BELIEVE that the Citizens of the Territory could afford to pay a committee a proper day to examine into the merit of machines offered, thus preventing the taking off of inferior articles on the market, and the unnecessary loss of thousands of dollars to be repeated semi-occasionally by making a few changes and offers to sell machines. When this time comes the Branch Knitter and New American Sewing Machine will take a great rank for simplicity of parts, durability, ease of learning, utility, etc.

You are respectfully invited to call at the Tithing Store, see them work, buy one on a guarantee, and be learned to operate them free of charge.

EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday - - April 17, 1878.

SHORT AND SHARP.

"Do you shave?" asked a six-year old of a young gentleman who had just begun to be "down on the mustache question." "Yes," was the reply. "Well, you lift some."

Two hundred and fifty new doctors stepped across the threshold in Philadelphia a few days ago, and are now calmly, patiently, even cheerfully waiting for the first green apples to open business.—Hawkeye.

"Who," said Mr. Peter Mitchell, a member of the Canadian House of Commons, to the members who were trying by interruptions to choke him off, "who tried hen?"

"It was an echo," retorted a member, amid a yell of delight.

Might have known better.—Small boy (entering the shop)—"I want a pennyworth o' canary seed." Shopkeeper (who knows the boy) "Is't for your mither?" Small boy (contemptuously)—"No! it's for the bird."

A gossiping woman intent on slander, went into a neighbor's and exclaimed, as she threw herself into a chair: "One half the world doesn't know how the other half lives." That isn't your fault," quietly responded the neighbor.

Noses are built to suit climates. A writer in the New York Post observes that the Esquimaux nose is short and fitted to the extreme cold of the far north. A long, cold nose is one of the horrors of a severe winter.

Lord Beaconsfield, in the course of an impassioned speech, denounced the occupants of the Treasury Bench as "extinct volcanoes." "What does he mean by that?" an Irish member was asked. "Sure, he means that they're used up craters," was the answer.

Several men lately swam the Mississippi River above New Orleans on a wager. A reporter on the race says: "None of them seemed to be putting forth much effort till it was discovered that an alligator had struck out from shore as a competitor, and then—well, every man did his best to keep the alligator from carrying off the stakes."

A clergyman in one of the Hudson River towns united a German couple in marriage. When the knot was tied, the bridegroom said, "Dominie, I've got no money, but I'll send you von leetle pig."

It was done, and the circumstance was forgotten by the clergyman. Two years afterward he met the German in another town, for the first time since the marriage ceremony was performed.

"Dominie," said the German, "you remembers you married me, and I gave you von leetle pig?"

"Yes."

"Vell, if you'll unmarry me, I vill give you two leetle pigs."—Editor's Drawer in Harpers Magazine for April.

BRITISH GENEALOGY.

LATTER-DAY Saints from Great Britain who require the genealogies of their forefathers (originally natives of England, Scotland, Wales, Channel Islands, or Isle of Man) are hereby respectfully informed that, with the sanction of the proper authorities, I have undertaken the important task of collecting the same for religious purposes, from those countries.

Having traversed Great Britain extensively by land and sea, in many capacities, I rely on the earnestness and integrity of the British race of both sexes, for support, and offer my services to them as an humble instrument in the hands of God.

All persons desiring to employ me should apply immediately as this is a rare opportunity in connection with the great events of the Latter-day Work.
