Ten Thousand Dollar Damage Suit Results In a Victory For the City.

SHERIFF LEWIS FILES ELECTION PETITION.

Asking that He be Placed on the Official Ballot—Mining Case an Trial—Other Court News.

The $10,000 damage suit of Dr. A. K. Smith against Salt Lake City, which commenced before Judge Norrell and a jury last Friday terminated, so far as the present proceedings are concerned, today a verdict being returned in favor of the city.

The complaint alleged that on the evening of the third of February, 1897, he fell into an excavation, eight feet deep, on the sidewalk immediately in front of George M. Scott & Co's. place of business, on East Temple street. He sustained severe injuries, among which was a fractured shoulder and a broken thigh bone, necessitating his having to keep to his bed for a period of five months.

Smith accused the city of negligence and carelessness in allowing the excavation to remain open and unguarded, and without light or warning to passing pedestrians.

The law requires the signature of 250 voters, but Mr. Lewis has 34 over the requisite number. A Mining Case.

Judge Cherry and a jury have been engaged today taking testimony in the case of John Wall against the Niagara Mining and Smelting company of Utah. Moyle, Zane and Costigan represented the plaintiff and W. C. Hall the defendant.

Plaintiff instituted this suit to recover $3,000 on a written contract. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff and Ole H. Petersen furnished the property of the corporation in lieu and under the contract sued upon, were to receive $5,000 out of which Wall was to get $2,000. The agreement was signed by P. A. H. Franklin, as president of the company, and the defense is that Franklin's act was unauthorized.

A conclusion had not been reached at press time.

MRS. VANDERBERG'S DAMAGE SUIT.

Supreme Court Affirms the Judgment of the Court Below.

The Supreme court has affirmed the judgment of the lower court in the suit of Lillian Vanderberg vs J. H. Cummy, the Merchants' Protective Association and Eli L. Price.

Action in this case was commenced several years ago by the plaintiff, who claimed that she was arrested at the instigation of Cummy and thrown into jail, remaining there for two days, on an alleged debt of her husband to Cummy for groceries. The jury awarded her $500 damages, which judgment the Supreme court now affirms. Mrs. Vanderberg is the wife of J. H. Vanderberg, at one time a stenographer for ex-City Recorder C. E. Allen. Cummy claimed her arrest as she was about to leave the city in company with her husband. The lower proceedings were tried before Justice Hilner, who found that Cummy had no cause of action, when Mrs. Vanderberg sued for damages for false imprisonment.

Another Affirmation.

The Supreme court has also affirmed the judgment of the lower court in the case of the Hercules Iron Works company, appellants, vs W. W. Mickenick et al. This suit was brought below to set aside assignment of certain insurance policies, made by Mickenick to Chase, to the amount of $2,000, and judgment was rendered in favor of the defendants, and the Supreme court now sustains it.

ENTERS DEATH'S DOMAIN.

Captain D. B. Stover, the Tooele County, Veteran, Passes Away This Morning.

Captain David B. Stover, one of the early pioneers of Utah, passed away at 2:30 this morning at his home in the Harris building on west Second South street.

Captain Stover met with an accident in the early part of July this year, being run over by a bogsler at the street crossing of Second South and East Temple. This added to an old injury received a year previous, when he broke several ribs falling down a flight of stairs in the Association hall from which he had hardly recovered, caused his death.

Ever since the last accident the old man has been sinking and frequently expressed to his friends that he felt he would die death from it. The end came peacefully this morning when he sighed his life away.

The body was removed to Eber W. Hall & Co's. undertaking establishment, where it will be kept awaiting the arrival of his relatives. The body is in charge of the McRae post of the Grand Army of the Republic. No arrangements have been made for the funeral, pending the direction of Captain Stover's relatives in the East. Commander N. D. Corey has telegraphed to a brother of the deceased in New York and also to a nephew in Chicago, but up to press time had not received an answer. From previous correspondence, however, Mr. Corey thinks the body will be shipped East for interment.

HOFFMAN TO TRY AGAIN.

Another Wager That He Can Carry a Keg of Beer From Fisher's to Wagner's.

Curtis Hoffman, the brewer, athlete and sprinter, who attempted to carry a keg of beer from Fisher's brewery to Wagner's at the south of Emigration canyon, but got short of month before he had gone one-third of the distance, will again attempt the feat. He has made a bond wager that he can carry the keg of beer with a few of beer that a few of water such as Syringman is alleged to have had when he made the trip. He weighs over two hundred pounds, is over six feet in height and has shoulders during the journey. Hoffman is confident that he can perform the task this time, and claims he is better prepared than the weather is rather now than it was last July and that he is in better condition generally.

The "circumnavigator" is scheduled to leave the Fisher brewery at 4:00 p.m. on Wednesday next. The course to be traveled will be east on Second South to Fifth South, thence east on Fifth South, thence east to Wagner's brewery, a distance of over seven miles.

It is understood that a large sum has been wagered on the outcome, at odds of two to one against Hoffman. The latter has won considerable fame as a sprinter and athlete, and is said to have lost but one race during his sprinting career.

A fatality occurred at Round Valley precinct, Rich county, Utah, on Wednesday afternoon. A fruit peddler passing through, camped and left a little fire burning. Some of the children of John Early gathered round and began making a bonfire, and the two around the clothing of a little six-year-old daughter of John Early. The little companions got somewhat bewildered and the little girl ran out of the house, the wind fanned the flames and took the sufferer into the house.

All the efforts of loving friends, and Dr. Allgaier who was summoned, failed and death claimed the loved one who expired Friday morning at 3 o'clock. A gloom rests upon the whole community as a result of the very sad and sudden affliction. The funeral was held on Sunday.

Death of Bishop Jensen's Daughter.

Josephine Jensen, daughter of Bishop James Jensen of Forest Dale departed this life last night at 8 minutes past 10. Sister Jensen had been afflicted with Bright's disease for a long time and was a great sufferer. She bore her affliction however with resenting fortitude and saintly patience. For some time she expressed the most unfounded faith in her ultimate recovery, and it was only yesterday morning that she gave up in what seemed to be the inevitable. As soon as she felt the end of her earthly existence was near she called the members of the family, and others, together and gave them each a farewell word of counsel and advice. In doing this she seemed to rally from her weakness and spoke to each in a firm tone. Sister Josephine was born December 23, 1873, in Salt Lake City, and died at Forest Dale where she had lived from her infancy up. The funeral services will be held in the Forest Dale meeting house. Due notice will be given in the daily papers of the time.

Charlie Pike, the Boy Soprano.

Who that ever heard him has forgotten that dulcet, sympathetic boy voice that held its listeners breathless with the "Angels Ever Bright and Fair." San Francisco made him at once the Tabernacle choir's greatest attraction, on their visit to the coast. This came the breaking up of his almost heavenly voice. The boy was verging on manhood, and the boy-voice must go to give place for the manly tenor. It was at the Tabernacle that he was last heard. At the close of the song Prof. Stephens (who invariably accompanied him, transposing the music into the key to suit the voice) went down, and where advice Charlie never failed to heed) took him tenderly in his arms and with a kind smile that spoke volumes, led the boy off the stand. "My boy, to more public singing until the new voice is settled into proper condition for use. We must wait, wait, for it will make the new equal to the old. It was like taking the last look, says Prof. Stephens, at the face of a dear old friend. Alas, who would tell what the future voice might be. Be many Sac Sol voices never produce even a passable voice after the change. Even regular studies ceased, but the faithful Professor went Tuesday Pike composed with his family to Ogden, but at every visit to Salt Lake the growing voice was taken to the choir's study in Alameda street. And sometimes a duet was consulted as to its progress. When hard times full of muscular tension would make their appearance through the boy's throat, suggestions to sing with his much fervor, they were kindly rebuked back, until now after two years' waiting, Charlie receives the message, "Come and make a temporary appearance in the Tabernacle. We are ready to take up the work where we left off. Your voice is again worthy of you." The boy soprano is now the male baritone. Prof. Stephens says: "You will hear all the old fervor and a well developed voice of splendid quality. What the boy was the man will be."

Tonight he will be heard at the Tabernacle during Prof. Stephens' talk on "Our present musical needs."
