To the Editor of the Deseret News:

It will be interesting to you to know something concerning the work of the present. The battle goes on a little at a time and there is no cessation. Day after day and week after week the work goes on. Yesterday, in the morning session, Judge Zane, of Idaho, was the principal speaker. He was followed by Judge Powers, of Montana, who spoke for the remainder of the session. In the afternoon session Judge Powers continued his address, and he was followed by Judge Zane, who spoke for the remainder of the session. The attendance was very good, and the interest manifested by the people in the proceedings was very marked. The speakers were very plain in their remarks, and the people seemed to be interested in hearing a plain talk on the subject. The Gentiles who were present were very much pleased with the proceedings, and some of them expressed themselves to the effect that they had never before heard the Mormon question discussed, and that they had never before had an opportunity to hear both sides of the question. The Gentiles who were present were very much pleased with the manner in which the speakers treated the question, and they said that they had never before had an opportunity to hear both sides of the question discussed, and that they had never before had an opportunity to hear both sides of the question discussed, and that they had never before had an opportunity to hear both sides of the question discussed, and
