Drug Store Liquor Licenses.

The drug store liquor license question is one that the city fathers have under consideration with a view to early settlement. It is claimed that many drug stores are dispensing liquor without the requisite authority of law. The fact is that there is but one drug store in the city licensed for that purpose and it pays $250 a quarter, or $1,000 a year for the privilege. Officials at work in the city treasurer's office declare that other stores are doing almost if not quite as large a liquor business and pay nothing therefor. Councilmen have investigated the matter and say the contention is correct and that a remedy must be applied. One proposition contemplates the enactment of an ordinance requiring all drug stores to pay a liquor license of $500 a year, or $125 a quarter. Saloons pay just double that amount.

Don't Like "Hog Millet."

Hickman, Smith Co., Tenn.
April 14, 1898.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir—Before me is the "Weekly News" of April 2nd, in which I note an article from L. B. H. of Payson, asking for information of Mr. Coleman, Neb., on hog millet.

As I have had some experience with the "nuisance" in a limited degree, permit me a word of caution. There are many grasses as well as other plants of the vegetable kingdom that will do all right for certain climates and localities; but you transfer that plant to some other section of the globe, where climate, soil, etc., is better adapted for it, and it will become a nuisance. For instance, the Lantana in America is nourished very tenderly as a house plant, while on the Sandwich Islands, where it was transported to adorn the beautiful gardens of the tropics, it has proven a curse to the land, a nuisance to the planter, and an aggravation to the stock raiser. The wind and the birds carry the seeds into every nook and corner; thus it becomes scattered over the land.

So it is with hog millet, only it is much harder to kill out after once started. My experience is that I have had enough of it. About nine years ago there was a small bunch of the roots, joint-rush like, planted in my mother's garden. For two years it grew undisturbed; at the end of which time I saw it was going to take possession of the garden if something were not done. So I commenced at once to dig it up, destroying every root I could find, many of which were about the size of a man's little finger with joints about as close. For two years (summers) I endeavored to kill it out, but was not successful. It could be killed out, though, I believe, by keeping moisture from it.

It would be well for Mr. H. to understand the nature of the grass he is inquiring after before sowing it on his farm. It might prove the ruination of his farm and many others.

These few ideas, if given thought and consideration, may save some farmers unnecessary labor and worry.

The "News" is ever a welcome visitor from "Utah, the Queen of the West."

SERVICES AT THE TABERNACLE

Elder Brigham Young Addresses the Saints Sunday Afternoon.

Urges a More Strict Adherence to the Gospel and Its Principles—War and Patriotism.

The services at the Tabernacle Sunday afternoon, April 24, 1898, were presided over by Elder Angus M. Cannon, president of the Stake.

The choir sang the hymn:

"Guide us O Thou great Jehovah
Saints unto the promised land."

Prayer was offered by Elder Jesse West.

The choir sang the anthem:

"Glory to the Lord, our deliverer."

Elder Brigham Young of the quorum of the Apostles, addressed the congregation. In commencing he expressed a desire to be blessed of the Lord, that each and every one assembled might be spiritually fed and built up in their most holy faith. Times had changed, said the speaker, since the early days of the Church, and there were many of the people that had almost drifted from the truth because of their worldly mindedness. They were too much taken up with the business affairs of life to live in possession of the spirit of the Lord, and in their anxiety to outdo their neighbor in the race for worldly wealth, oftentimes faltered by the wayside and left the Gospel entirely.

Elder Young said that argument was not necessary in convincing honest-hearted people of the truth of the Gospel. It was the spirit of God working upon individuals that brought them into the Church. The still, small voice whispered the divinity of the Gospel and gave the people of the earth an indisputable testimony as to its truthfulness, and this being the case, discussion was not a necessary function in the spread of Church principles.

The speaker deprecated the fact that in the homes of the Saints there was not more order. Games and frivolous pastimes were indulged in to such an extent that the spirit of the Gospel was hardly inevidence. Some families of the Saints were fast drifting into by and forbidden paths; they were beginning to think too much of worldly pleasures—dance halls, card parties, etc.—to be of much use in helping build up the kingdom of God upon the earth; in fact they were throwing off the armor of Christ and taking on the armor of unrighteousness.

Elder Young referred to the spirit of warfare now rampant in the land, and advised the young men of Zion to show their patriotism to the nation by tilling the soil and getting from it that which would sustain those who had been legitimately called to the front to defend the nation's honor and dignity. They could show their loyalty to their country in a great many more ways than one, and should not be carried away by the cries of those not inspired of the Lord.

The speaker read from the revelation on war given to the Prophet Joseph Smith in early days, in which the war between the North and the South was predicted. The same revelation declared that the time would come within the borders of the United States, when slaves would rise up in arms against their masters and internal dissension would become rampant. Such a condition had been predicted, said the speaker, and would verily come to pass. A war of races was now on; the whites were striving against the colored people, and vice versa, and preparations were now making for the fulfillment of the prediction contained in the revelation given through the Prophet Joseph. The nation should strive to build up peace, and in doing so God would bless it and all the people therein.

Concluding, Elder Young impressed upon the Saints that they could exhibit their patriotism to the nation by being true to their God and not throw themselves into the chasm that had been dug by uninspired men. The mission of the Gospel was peace, and the Latter-day Saints should strive to create and maintain it.

The choir and congregation sang:

Our God we raise to Thee.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder E. F. Sheets.

Clean Up Your Orchards.

County Fruit Tree Inspector Sorenson calls attention of the owners of neglected orchards to clean them up or suffer the misdemeanor penalty imposed in section 1173 of the revised statutes. Such neglect works an injury to those who do give proper attention to their orchards. Inspector Sorenson suggests that tree rubbish be removed and burned and preparations made for spraying as soon as the blossoms fade and drop. The inspector also announces his readiness to advise those who needs his services.

Off to Canada.

R. D. Peacock, son of James Peacock, nightwatchman for the "News;" Henry Watson, John Raddon and Alfred Raddon left this morning for Cardston, Canada, where they intend taking up land for the purpose of raising stock and agricultural products. The quartette are all young men born in this city. They started out well equipped with a fine team and provisions enough to last them fully twelve months. It is thought that about thirty days time will be consumed in travel. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for success and prosperity.

Broke His Leg While Plowing.

Davis County Clipper: Jaren Tolman had the misfortune to break his leg last Saturday while plowing near his home on the beach. He was driving a team with one foot on the plow beam and hopping on the other when he came to a rock, giving an extra spring to hop over it, frightened the horse on the opposite side from him which jumped ahead catching Mr. Tolman's leg between the doubletrees and the rock, breaking both bones of the leg above the ankle. He is getting along as well as can be expected.

Twelve hundred white shirts for men go on sale here, commencing with tomorrow—and if you don't admit they are 1,200 glittering examples of a Walker Store Bargain, you're not familiar with shirt qualities and prices.

They have come to us straight from the factory, fresh and clean. Materials of the best, linen or pique bosoms, short and long, cushion neck bands, substantially reinforced at all points, muslin the very best woven for the purpose, sold laundered.

A restriction of six to a customer. Hereafter it will be known as the "Walker Shirt" and sell regularly for $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50; you'll consider it a good buy even at that.
