ARRAIGNED.

Joe E. O'Brien, a former deputy sheriff (on bail), was arraigned on an indictment charging him with forging a check for $50 with intent to defraud the American National Bank, by having signed the name of Judge Powers thereon. The defendant waives the reading of the indictment and asked that time be given him to plead. He was ordered to do so at ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

John G. Williams, against whom there is an indictment for burglary, who jumped his bonds, was arrested in California, and brought back yesterday by Police Captain Donovan, was also arraigned. His attorney is J. H. Hatch. The reading of the indictment was waived and the court directed that the defendant appear on Thursday morning and plead.

Williams is about thirty years old and has a very hollow manner. He appears somewhat nervous and seems to be quite pleased to be wrangling.

ROTCH SMITH "PLEADED."

In calling over a long list of old cases, some (several years' standing) which he now desired to have marked dismissed, Assistant District Attorney Howat came across the name of Rotch Smith. The record showed that he had pled guilty to manslaughter and "sentence suspended."

The charge being a serious one, Judge Bartch suggested that before dismissing it the district attorney and people better investigate.

Neither District Attorney Judd nor Assistant Howat had any knowledge of the case, it having been brought up during their appointment to office.

Presently Attorney Sloan came forward and volunteered the information that Smith pled guilty to murder in the second degree and was now serving a term of twenty-five years in the penitentiary, the sentence having been passed by ex-Chief Justice Zane, at the time the courts were held in the old Wasatch building.

Thereupon Deputy Clerk Lemon was directed to "look up" the matter.

A PROSECUTION DESIRE TO PROCEED.

Judge Anderson asked that the indictment charging W. S. Fogarty with embezzlement might be dismissed as he was gone. The prosecution, Mr. Fogarty skipped the country, he said, and gone to France, and counsel was satisfied that he would never again be seen in this country. The prosecution, he declared, nothing but a pack of idle story.

Assistant District Attorney Howat informed the court that the defendant was formerly employed as a clerk at the Walker House, of which the proprietor was landlord. Some disparaging remarks between them over a bill of $10 and Fogarty preferred a charge against Fogarty of having embezzled the money.

Judge Howat said he knew that the defendant's counsel did not like term, anxious to have the charge investigated, but it was not required. Any continuance was granted till the February term.

Judge Anderson said he would not be satisfied with the mere entry on the record of an order of dismissal. He desired to have a jury empaneled and a verdict of not guilty, so that the defendant might be placed in a proper light before the public.

Judge Bartch directed that the case be called up this afternoon.

ANSWERS READY ON THE "DRAW-HOOK."

The case of Dan Daniels vs. Daniel Daniels came on.

On Saturday last Dan and Sidney Daniels and Reg Hodgens were taken before Judge Bartch, Probate Judge Smith having sent them to the district court as Reform School candidates. They had been arrested in the justice's court of stealing an overcoat from a room in the Young Men's Christian Association building on State street. Reg was shown to be an out and out bad boy, and was sent to the Ogden Reform School. Little Dan, however, was turned over by the court to Diana Sawyer, and ordered to attack to report this morning, after conference with the boy and inquiry.

Judge Sawyer said Mrs. Daniels, the latter a very pleasant looking lady, of refined appearance, was present to the court. He understood it was her first offense. Where 12 years old Dan's mother died and his father married Mrs. Daniels. Ever since then the little waif had been growing from one evil to another. He had not turned himself in a responsible way, but unfortunately the Reg Hodgens recently spoiled his path and entered him into the evil ways. The lad's mother, however, turned out to have used Reg. According to the testimony, some of the boys had been down town with money and spent it for cigars and candy and cake and ice cream, and at the time he did not have a single nickel on his desk that he had purchased.

Next Judge Sawyer told the court of the great interest he saw in the little chap's future welfare. He had visited Dan at the city jail several times since he was last before this court, had also taken him to the baths and have got him dressed all neatness which had "mesmerized" him from during the confinement in the city jail, and had likewise "nuggled him up with clothes."

Judge Bartch—Accumulating of wealth in the city jail, eh? Do you like it?

Judge Sawyer—Yes, your honor, I'm told they cannot keep them out. (Laughter.)

Judge Bartch struggled his shoulders as he remarked that there should be some way of changing such a condition of things.

Judge Sawyer informed Danny to step forward and asked—"Did you have any fun upon you?"

Dan opened his large eyes widely as he answered "Yes."

"And where did you get them?" further interrogated counsel.

"In the city hall," promptly responded Dan with a slight shadow of the hate brought of his experience in the "Green hole."

Judge Bartch—I think it is one the grand jury should look into it.

Judge Sawyer acknowledged that the officers had done their best to prevent crime, by immigration and otherwise, but people were so crowded together there that the vermin had the advantage.

As to the boy's future, Judge Sawyer said he had secured for him an excellent home in the country with a Mrs. Rebecca C. Shelton, at whose home he would be well fed, clothed and he would also receive an education.

The court and prosecution readily assented to counsel's proposition and it was stated that the charge against Dan in the police court would be completely erased from the record, thus giving him another clean slate in life.

Judge Bartch acknowledged the kindly interest which Judge Sawyer had taken in the lad, who went away with his counselor full of delight.

A DEFENSE TO INDICTMENT.

On behalf of W. H. Hammond, Attorney Jesse Jones & Solicitor Neal argued a demurrer to the indictment returned by the late grand jury against that defendant accusing him of perjury, the ground of his objection being that the indictment failed to charge that the offense was knowingly committed.

Hall was brought in the Third district court by ex-Judge Boreer against Herbenen. The alleged perjury is claimed to have been committed by the defendant in his final answer, statements wherein are declared to have been false.

Judge Howat replied for the prosecution and the court took the matter under advisement.

This afternoon the court overruled the motion, and the defendant will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

DISCHARGED.

Samuel G. Spencer, unlawful cohabitation; Tom McBride, grand larceny; Fritz Hagman, manslaughter; Wm. F. Jenkins, perjury; Tom. H. Ollo, fornication; Maine Sharp, fornication; Artie Jones, adultery; Frank Simmons, adultery; Frank Hallett, adultery; Lizzie Gartner, fornication; John Hollis, fornication; Jessie Rogers, fornication; Anna N. Hess, adultery; Walter Gillespie, fornication; R. M. Hughes, fornication; Mary Thorman, adultery; Wm. G. Newbauer, fornication; Geneva Tolls and Jennie Sorensen, adultery; Lena Carter, adultery; R. W. Lodge Jr., larceny; Norton Cutts, larceny; J. Hamilton, burglary; Ellen Thomas, burglary; W. H. Harrell, larceny; G. M. Wood, larceny; Thomas H. Jones alias Harry Brooks, larceny; James Hopkins and Harry Lawson, housebreaking; Harry Thompson and George Hamilton, robbery; Frank Wilson, assault with a deadly weapon; Walter Walker, assault with intent.

Some of the foregoing date back as far as the year 1888. In certain of the cases the defendants are now serving or have served terms in the penitentiary, and I can see scant justification which the prosecution will set forth, for which still appeared on the list for 1895, having been carried forward from term to term. In some of the more recent cases the charge against the defendants has been abandoned altogether.

THAT ALLEGED ABDUCTION.

Nellie (alias Minnie) Davis was placed on trial for abduction on a charge of enticing Edith Kathrens, daughter of the city marshal of Lehi, into a house of ill-fame in this city, for an immoral purpose.

Assistant District Attorney Howat appears for the prosecution; Attorneys S. P. Armstrong and J. M. Hamilton are defending the accused.

Mrs. Davis is a rather condemnation specimen of humanity about fifty years of age. Her alleged victim is a girl of about fifteen.

AMUSEMENTS.

AN ORIGINAL MARCH.—We don't know what politicians will attempt to do with us on the stage of the Grand one night, but we generally have been able to see the entertainment and enjoy something into the bargain. PAT members of the audience will recall the interludes of the Original March at 10 and 2 o'clock tomorrow. T. D. Forbes, manager.

Further than to have in the experience of the Rock Company in this city their opening entertainment must be entirely lucky, and that all on account of the people in the east coming up in their droves, a fact altogether inexplicable to prominent citizens, and one that induces the conclusion that since their engagement to Salt Lake is so nearly at an end, they are growing indifferent as to wonder of not being pleased as they used to. A STATE COUNCIL.

Veteran Firemen's Association Call Out for April Next.

A BIG MEETING LAST NIGHT.

The Local Association to Become a Part of the Great National Organization.

The largest and most enthusiastic meeting of the Veteran Firemen's Association of this city held in recent times convened at headquarters No. 42½ east South Temple street last night. President George M. Ottinger occupied the chair, and the time was spent in speechmaking and considering the question of taking steps to have the local organization become a part of the general association.

After a full presentation of the necessities of the case it was decided to proceed at once with the work indicated and early in April, about Conference time, the Utah State Council No. 1 of Salt Lake City, of the Order of American Firemen will be organized. In the meantime the executive will be fixed and invitations sent to all fire departments in the Territory to unite in making the movement a success.

A feature that commends it to the favorable consideration of all firemen is the burial and endowment fund to be used for defraying funeral expenses of deceased members and caring for the widows and orphans of such persons. A black shaded, certificates of membership and other necessary papers and instructions have been received from the officers of the national organization, together with the requisite authority to carry on the proposed work to a successful issue.

There are at present about one hundred and fifty members of the Veteran Firemen's association in this city, most of whom were present at last night's meeting, and some of them were brave soldiers of severding flames as early as 1858, when Mayor Jeredish M. Grant issued the city's first fire department charter. All are highly pleased over the action of the meeting, and can see in it a benefit to themselves and others for a time that will extend far into the future.

BULLION-BECK MEETING.

George Q. Cannon Retires From the Directory and is Succeeded by Abraham H. Cannon.

The Bullion-Beck directory met shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon, to transact its usual business and incidentally to receive the resignation of Hon. George Q. Cannon as a member of the board.

Mr. Cannon in his letter of resignation gave as a reason for his action the press of other business, and that it is unfair to himself and the company to sell that he should be retained. He was succeeded on the board by Abraham H. Cannon.
