Mr. Speaker, in connection with this case. Let the resolution that has been proposed by the majority of the Committee on Elections be adopted and what will be the result? Nearly eighteen months have elapsed since the election for this Congress. President Hayes was President of the United States at that time. President to do the same thing with every man who may be elected under that superior men, will feel amboldened to do the same thing with every man who may be elected under that law, and who may be displeasing to a majority of that board. They may assume the same right, and say to the man, "You have received the votes, but we question your right, your eligibility, and we refuse to give you the certificate." Gentlement of the control of the rinciple is involved in this case. It the representation of Utah Territory will not be the Mormons always.

There will be some one else, perhaps, who will be unpopular. There will be some party in the minority against whom strong prejudices will shall leave this Hall of Representation of than Territory on this floor.

If the report of the majority of this committee shall be sustained, I shall leave this Hall of Representation of than Territory on this floor. be aroused and strong feelings evoked. This case will be cited as a precedent for refusing right and Justice to such persons, and it will be pleaded in justification that this Fortyreport of the majority declaring this upon this floor by the gentleman from Pennsylvannis, [Mr. Beltzhoover,] and he assigned it as a strong reason for joining in the majority report, that in the Forty-third Congress I had unequivocally denied that I was what I have since acknowledged myself to be. And the gentleman from Tennes ee [Mr. Pettibone] made that the foundation for his argument. He read from the statement which I made in the Forty-third Congress, and he cer-tainly has an admirable way of reading anything so as to make it suit the purpose of his own argument.

And then he paused. Well, if that were without qualification it would look as though the gentleman from Pennsylvania was quite correct in saying that I had unequivocally dealed the accusation. But there is something else in the sentence. There is a parenthetical sentence—"for that I am living or consisting with any wives"—which may be omitted. It will read then in this way:

I denied it then and I can deny it ow. I never defiantly or willfully olated any law. In response to as tenth allegation contained in the

Every lawyer knows that in pleading for the purposes of the action in controversy, allegations are defendant might violate the old common-law rule that a man is not bound to secuse himself, but to leave the burden of proof to rest upon his opponent. But to show that the Forty-third Congress understood exactly my position, for I want to make it so clear that it cannot be disputed, that that issue was raised and was accepted and was recognized as the true issue, I will read from their report. Before doing so I may say that the full committee decided, notwithstanding the accusation that had been made that I was not entitled to my seat because of marital relations, that these relations were not a disqualification for a seat upon this foor, and the majority reported these resolutions.

The saved, That George E Marwell was not exceed and to the law of the county decreased since, and the county decreased since and the county decreased since that at the date of last-named report the rate was from tan to exceed and the county decreased since.

Here the hammer fell. The Speaker. The time of gentleman has expired.

That is all cerning marriages, and the commit-this sliega-tes was authorised to investigate the Utah have matter. The committee, in submitthere is connected with this sliegaion that the people of Utah have Crystalize this fraud, make it effective by your votes, and its consequences will be far reaching and extensive. The Delegate-elect from Utah may be an insignificant person, but a great principle is involved in this case. It were a member of this House and voted in favor of the adoption of the report of the majority declaring this seat vacant. I am a resident of Utah ed in justification that this Fortyseventh Congress indorsed such action by sustaining the report of the majority of the committee on elections. A great wrong of this character cannot be perpetrated even upon the people of Utah without producing terrible results, which will be far-reaching and wide-spread.

There is one statement which I feel that I ought not to permit to pass unchallenged. It was stated upon this floor by the gentleman from Pennsylvannia, [Mr. Beltzdown a people against whom popular down a people against whom popular sentiment is strong.
