APPLETON'S CYCLOPÆDIA.

We are in receipt of the following communication from the publishers of the above work, in relation to the letters on the subject which have appeared in our columns:

Editors Deseret News:

Referring to the communication in your paper of December 27th, we beg to say that—

I. The article "Mormons" was written by one of our most intelligent and impartial contributors, Mr. Robert Carter, and is entirely correct and just in all its statements. The same is true of the articles, "Joseph Smith," "Brigham Young," "Salt Lake City," "Utah."

II. It is the first time that a book of reference in the English language, or in any other language, has given the Mormon version of the events in their history, as well as the adverse statements on the other side, which are expressly characterized as the assertions of opponents.

III. The current statements on the subject could not have been omitted without violating the law of historical composition, which requires an impartial presentation of both sides of a question, when there has more than one side.

IV. Our article accordingly, contains the statements of Mormons themselves, which of course, are the most favorable that could be given, while those of a contrary character are being ascribed to "opponents" and not accompanied by any disparaging remarks, can have no injurious tendency, and furnish no ground of complaint, to the most devoted Mormon.

V. In this respect Appleton's American Cyclopædia presents a strong contrast to all other Cyclopædias, which eminently adapt it to circulation in Utah, and will make it eagerly sought and highly prized by every intelligent and fair minded Mormon.

[Paragraphs VI, VII and VIII contain nothing but extracts from Johnson's work.—EDS. NEWS.]

IX. It is thus seen that Johnson fully endorses the statements of the enemies of Mormonism, which he endeavors to circulate without a word as to their origin; while Appleton's indulges in no comment on the character of Mormonism, on its founders, and the disparaging assertions of its opponents are traced to their true source.

X. It is hence evident that Appleton's American Cyclopædia is not open to the strictures presented in the DESERET NEWS, and that its fairness and impartiality will not fail to be recognized by all who look candidly into the merits of the case.

THE PUBLISHERS.

APPLETON & CO. ANSWERED.

ABOVE our readers will find a communication from the publishers of The American Cyclopædia. It is designed to meet the objections to that work advanced by two of our correspondents. How far this is accomplished will be better seen after a little further investigation.

The strictures of our correspondents were directed against the misrepresentations on "Mormon" affairs contained in the Cyclopædia. The publishers now assert that the articles entitled "Mormons," "Joseph Smith," "Brigham Young," "Salt Lake City" and "Utah" are "entirely correct and just in all their statements." We do not know who their Mr. Robert Carter is, the breath of fame has not wafted his name across the Rocky Mountains, but taking his article as a sample of the intelligence and impartiality claimed for the gentleman, we are forced to the conclusion that he is sadly deficient in both. However, we have nothing to do with him, the publishers are responsible for the articles and have endorsed them in the most positive manner. Let us see how "correct and just" they are.

In the article on "Mormons" it is stated that the three witnesses to the Book of Mormon subsequently "renounced Mormonism and avowed the falsity of their testimony." We challenge Messrs. Appleton & Co. to produce proof of this assertion. We pronounce it entirely false, and the injustice of it is made apparent by its insertion in that part of the article which the publishers claim to be the "Mormon version of the events in their history." It is also stated that "the fact is fully established that the real author of the Book of Mormon was Solomon Spaulding, &c." Now it is a matter of history that the work claimed to have been written by Solomon Spaulding, if such work ever existed, was totally different in its subject, composition, objects and entire material, from the Book of Mormon. The whole story about Sidney Rigdon's connection with it was clearly refuted beyond dispute many years ago, and the introduction of the absurd gossip into a work claiming historical accuracy and to be used as a book of reference, is a mark of extreme folly and exhibits the animus of the writer against the denomination whose career and tenets he pretends to explain.

The events in "Mormon" history which it relates are, many of them, incorrect. The Church was not organized, as stated, at Manchester, but at Fayette, Seneca County, New York. Thomas B. Marsh is misrepresented, and the name of the person referred to is not "March," but Marsh. Relating to the troubles in Missouri it is asserted that the Mormons "fortified their towns and defied the officers of the law." This is well known to be untrue, and that the collision that took place was with armed mobs of "Christian" fanatics. The statement that "in 1838 Joseph Smith persuaded several women to cohabit with him," is unsupported by any evidence whatever, and the quotation immediately following purporting to be "the formal denial of polygamy," is incorrectly given from the Doctrine and Covenants with the evident purpose of altering its meaning and intent. In the description of the orders of the "Mormon priesthood" it is stated that "the offices of bishop, priest, teacher and deacon can be held only by literal descendants of Aaron." This is not true. Joseph Smith is described, according to "Mormon" doctrine, as "the God of this generation," which is another invention of the writer's. Through the whole stream of the pretended history of the Mormons there is a current of misrepresentation and falsehood, which renders it unreliable and contemptible, and exhibits the animus of a bigoted opponent. We do not apply this epithet to the writer of the article; he has evidently called his information without effort to test its correctness, from anti-Mormon works and older cyclopædias, disfigured with the same untruths.

In the article "Joseph Smith" it is stated that "his family was disreputable," that "with the aid of Sidney Rigdon, he brought forth the Book of Mormon," and that "in a town named Far West his disciples gathered, but their irregularities occasioned an outbreak against them;" all of which is utterly false, with the exception of the fact that a few of the Saints lived for a short time at Far West. Joseph's family was not disreputable; it is well known that he never saw Sidney Rigdon until long after the Book of Mormon was published and the Church established; also that the Saints committed no irregularities at Far West unless worshipping God in the name of Jesus Christ be deemed an irregularity. It is also stated that at Nauvoo "the Smiths refused obedience to the authorities," which is as great an historical inaccuracy as the other assertions.

In the article "Salt Lake City" it is affirmed that, "The government is vested in a mayor and common council, but they are really controlled by the President of the Mormon Church." The latter part of this sentence is a gratuitous untruth, exhibiting the same malice which runs through the other articles. It is also stated that we have here "no public schools." But in the article "Utah," the number of public schools is given, also the number of private schools with the average attendance at each, and it is explained that the expenses of schools are met partly by taxation. Will Messrs. Appleton & Co., who vouch for the correctness, impartiality and justice of all these articles please tell us which of the two statements is right, and how much credit for historical accuracy can be given to a work which contradicts itself in such positive terms?

The article "Brigham Young" is all of a piece with the others. For instance, take the following: "On the appointment of a Governor who was not a Mormon, he began to disregard the laws and defy the authority of the Federal Government." Against this, put Governor Cummings' official report, which is a public document and, of easy access to the compilers of such a work as the Cyclopædia. We make the following extracts: "I have been everywhere recognized as Governor of Utah;" "I have been universally greeted with such respectful attentions as are due to the representative of the executive majority of the United States in this territory." "Ex-Governor Brigham Young paid me a call of ceremony as soon as I was sufficiently relieved from the fatigue of my mountain journey, to receive company." Gov. Cummings further reported that the Government records and other property supposed to be destroyed was intact and "in perfect preservation." The alleged destruction of these records was "the defiance of authority" referred to in the Cyclopædia, and which caused the folly of sending an army to Utah before the facts were ascertained.

The article further says, "Young is grand archee of the order of Danites, a secret organization of the Church, which is one of the sources of his absolute power." Who ever heard of such an office before? And who that knows anything of "Mormon" affairs is not well aware that the "Danite" story is as sheer a piece of fiction as anything to be found in Gulliver or Baron Munchausen? And it is such stuff as this which Appleton's Cyclopædia palms upon the public as "history," and which the publishers endorse as "entirely correct and just!"

The attempt to prejudice the public mind against Johnson's work is childish in the extreme. Supposing it is blacker than they would paint it, does this make their falsehoods true? We are not endorsers of Johnson, but merely showing up Appleton. The publishers say their article "contains the statements of Mormons themselves." We have looked carefully through all the mixture of much fiction with a little fact in relation to these subjects, and can find no paragraph which any "Mormon" authority would communicate, or endorse without the elimination of palpable errors.

Hence it is evident that this work, so far from being adapted to "circulation in Utah" and to be "eagerly prized by every intelligent and fair minded Mormon," is one of which they can place little reliance. Knowing beyond the possibility of a doubt that the articles we have noticed are grossly incorrect and tinged with a deep color of prejudice and unfairness, they will naturally infer that much other matter may be equally unreliable, and therefore will decline to spend so much money as it costs upon a work in which they can place no confidence whatever, if the articles which the publishers vouch for as "correct and just" are to be taken as samples. That is the position taken by our correspondents; that is the position we now take, and we are led to assume it by the very impolitic and blunt communication of the publishers.

A young man fresh from the "second sod" was recently given employment as a hostler in Brooklyn. He was set to driving a yoke of cattle, and at noon, when he wished to feed the cattle, was observed trying to insert a bit between the jaws to get the yoke off the animals.

California Pioneer Annual Banquet.

NEW YORK, 19.—The third annual banquet of the Associated Pioneers of the Territorial days of California, was held last evening at the Sturtevant House. Previous to the banquet the annual meeting and election of officers took place. After transacting the usual routine of business and the adoption of new articles of association, the pioneers, with their guests, proceeded to the dining room, which was handsomely decorated with mottoes, reminding those present of old times. A sketch of Sutter's mill was drawn on a large looking glass at the head of the room, while at the other end was the bear flag of the association. After singing, by the quartett club, of "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow," the company, to the number of 150, sat down to a banquet as only can be furnished by Leland Bros. The tables were decorated by fancy pieces, representing early scenes in the mines, etc. After dinner, the banquet was enlivened by speeches, songs, toasts, etc.

The Silver Question—Memorial to Congress.

The Tribune says: At the Maratime Exchange, yesterday, the following memorial to Congress was signed by many merchants and bankers, and representatives of the leading marine underwriters, steamship companies and shipping houses of the city: "We, the undersigned members of the maratime association of the port of New York, feel it our duty to remonstrate against legislation that shall make silver unlimited legal tender, as in our opinion such legislation would unsettle values, disturb confidence, retard resumption in gold, and impair the national credit."

More Failures.

Powers, Gaston & Co., extensive jobbers in boots and shoes, Deane and Church Streets, have made an assignment; liabilities $300,000; nominal assets $755,000; real $150,000.

Geo. L. Watrous & Co., jobbers in hats, furs and straw goods, Broadway, have assigned; liabilities $100,000; assets not known.

At a meeting of the creditors of John Thomas, mining stock broker and late president of the Queen of the West silver Mining Company, yesterday, schedules were presented showing liabilities of $88,000, and merely nominal assets.

The Silver Men Elated.

The Herald's Washington special says: The silver men are a little boastful. The succession of silver speeches in the Senate encourages them to believe that they are getting stronger, but the anti-silver men are reserving their fire, and there is no reason to believe the silver men have gained any votes. Their object is understood to be to vote down all amendments and pass the Bland bill, pure and simple. They can get but small majority for this, however, for a good many Senators will vote for the amendment giving the profit of the coinage to government; of course, any amendment sends the bill back to the House, and the silver men are very desirous that it shall not go back there. The debate, so far, is on Matthews' resolution. Debate on the bill itself has not yet begun. A considerable number of amendments will be offered after the bill comes before the Senate, and these amendments will also be discussed. The prospect is not changed, therefore, and it is thought the anti silver speeches may even lessen the vote for the bill.

Death of a Veteran.

Thomas Hunt, one of New York's oldest merchants, died yesterday, aged 79. In 1850 Hunt established a line of steamers between San Francisco and Sacramento, sending the steamers Confidence and Wilson G. Hunt around by Cape Horn. In returning to New York Hunt was wrecked on the Mexican coast. In the year of the great Sacramento fire Hunt sent two vessels, filled provisions from San Francisco and distributed them free to the sufferers. In crossing the Isthmus on his return he contracted a fever from which he never recovered. He died possessed of great wealth.

First Victory for Samuel J. Tilden.

Arguments in the case of the United States vs. Samuel J. Tilden, to recover $3,000 as an annual income tax for the year 1861, with interest from June 30, 1862, were begun this morning, in the United States district court. There are nine counts in the complaint, to all of which demurrer is made on technical grounds. The merits of the case not being gone into, it was decided to take up each count separately. The first count charges $3,000 back tax for the fiscal years 1861 and 1862. Tilden's counsel claim that the laws passed about that time were recognised as necessary war measures, and annulled the law requiring payment of income tax in that year. Judge Blatchford sustained the demurrer giving Tilden the first victory.

Destructive Fire.

CHESTER, Pa., 19.—John Maxsons woolen mill was burned, this morning; the loss is estimated at from $5,000 to $20,000, fully insured.

Requests His Disabilities Removed.

CHICAGO, 19. — The Tribune's Washington special says: Gen. W. W. Loring, who left the United States army to join the confederates, and who is now second in command in the army of the Khedive of Egypt, has asked Senator Lamar, through a friend, to introduce a bill to remove his political disabilities.

Hayes and the Chinese Question.

There are excellent reasons for the belief that regarding the Chinese question the administration will take the position:

First—Those here must be fully protected in life, property and all rights.

Second—It is not desirable to encourage further emigration, and it should be checked, so far as consistent with the treaty.

An Unmanageable Representative.

Much disgust was caused by the knowledge that during the most impressive portion of Senator Conkling's eulogy of Morton, Representative Patterson entered the Senate, took a seat near the orator, and commenced eating a large apple, which he deliberately finished in the presence of the whole audience.

Dead.

BALTIMORE, 19. — Commodore George N. Hollins died, last night, of pneumonia, aged 79 years. He was in command of the sloop-of-war Cyane which bombarded Greytown, Nicaragua, in 1854. At the commencement of the late civil war he entered the confederate service.

No Tidings.

NEW ORLEANS, 19.—The revenue cutter McLean has returned from her second cruise in search of the McAllister, and reports finding portions of the dredge, establishing almost beyond doubt her loss.

Demonstration of Unemployed Workingmen.

BOSTON, 19.—The demonstration of the unemployed workingmen of Boston, on the Common, to-day, was participated in by some 40,000 men, who were addressed by Chamberlain and Abbott. They afterwards marched to the City Hall, and presented a series of resolutions to Mayor Pelrce, who replied that he had no authority to offer them employment, but that the city council would do what it could for them.

Armistice Conditions.

ST. PETERSBURG, 19.—Persons who helped to draw up the armistice conditions say that they are such as the Turks are likely to reject. The Russian minister of the Interior has instructed the press to be moderate in its remarks about Austria and England.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Queen Victoria and the Sultan.

LONDON, 19.—The Times' Pera correspondent says Queen Victoria telegraphed the Sultan that he was already acquainted with the action of the British government, and that she had herself urged the Czar to make prompt and honorable peace.

Another Balkan Pass for Russia.

The Turks have evacuated Kezan, south of Osman Bazar. By this the Russians secure the head of another Balkan Pass. All the war material, etc., has been removed from Osman Bazar to Erkl Djuma.

Fearful Mortality Among the Turkish Prisoners.

The Times' special from Guirgevo says the mortality among the Turkish prisoners at Fratesshti is fearful. The station of Fratesshti is becoming a terror to travelers between Bucharest and the Danube. Even if there is nothing worse there than ordinary typhus, the mortality evidenced by the numerous graves in the plains surrounding the prisoners' camp justifies the apprehensions of travelers. I saw Russian soldiers digging huge graves, and near them 50 Turkish corpses lying in confused heaps. They were subsequently removed from the dead carts, their ragged, half-clad forms and frost bitten, visible on their naked limbs, gave evidence of the hardships they had suffered on their march from Nikopolis.

The Withdrawal of Bullion.

The Times says: It is expected that yesterday withdrawal of bullion from the Bank of England for America was to be duplicated today.

The Economist also anticipates a further decline thither next week, in consequence of the state of the exchange.

Specie Shipment.

LIVERPOOL, 19. — The steamer Abyssinia, which sailed from New York, to-day, has got on board £200,000 for that city.

TURKEY.

Austria and England Requested to Explain.

CONSTANTINOPLE, 19.—It is stated the council of ministers yesterday decided to order the Turkish Ambassadors at Vienna and London to request an explanation of the protests against the separate peace proposals recently lodged by Austria and England, and to ask how far Turkey may count upon the support of those countries.

Austria and the Peace Terms.

A correspondent at Vienna declares positively that Austria had made no communication to the Porte concerning terms of peace since her answer to the Porte's note of December 12, asking mediation.

The Peace Delegates.

The Turkish delegates met the Grand Duke Nicholas at Tirnova Semenli, and preliminary notes were exchanged. The Grand Duke then announced that he had decided to treat only at Adrinople, which should be immediately evacuated. The delegates having assented, orders were telegraphed to Djemil Pasha to evacuate Adrinople. Upon this decision being communicated to the foreign consuls they telegraphed to their ambassadors for instructions and were ordered to remain and protect their countrymen. Djemil Pasha then prepared to retire upon the fortified lines before Adrianople where reinforcements are now concentrating. The Russians will probably arrive at Adrianople in two days, Tirnova Semenli being 36 kelometres distant therefrom, negotiations will then begin. It is generally thought here the wisest policy is for Turkey to make peace at once.

IMPORTANT LETTER
From a Distinguished Physician.
NO single disease has entailed more suffering or proved more destructive to life than Catarrh. The seeds of health, of taste, of sight, of hearing, of memory, of intellect, of the human mind, are often and sometimes all yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored because but little understood by most physicians, impotently assailed by the quacks, it has become the scourge of humanity. From it there is little hope to be relieved or if in this side of the grave. It is intolerable. Some popular treatment of that terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Cure, has proved nearly specific. I believe it is the only remedy within my knowledge of which I can say that it is not a nauseous dose, that it does not cost a fortune, and that it does not make the patient worse than the disease. It is pleasant, cheap, quick, and, taken in the great majority of cases, effect a cure.
GEO. BEARD, M. D.
NEWCASTLE BLOCK, SO. FRANKLIN, ONT., 1876.
SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE
MAY safely claim to be one of the few popular remedies receiving the approval of medical practitioners, who, by private, not only freely recommend it, but make it a point to prescribe it in preference to any of the preparations usually prescribed by physicians. "I am aware," said a distinguished physician, "that my children owe to your preparation, Sanford's Radical Cure, the probability of escape or protection from the Catarrh, which, but for the use of your remedy, I believe, after a thorough trial of the usual remedies, I have not positively advised its use, and presume I have sent to your store no less than one hundred of my patients for it."
UNIVERSAL SATISFACTION.
GENTLEMEN,—We have sold SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for nearly one year, and can say candidly that we never sold a similar preparation which gave such universal satisfaction. We have to learn the first complaint yet.
We are not in the habit of recommending patent medicines, but your preparation merit the many testimonials we hear. Those who have been cured should be convinced of its great merit so that their friends may profit by it. We have been in the drug business for the past twelve years, and sold and sold everything for Catarrh, but yours leads all the rest. If you think proper you can use this letter or any part of it that you wish.
Very truly yours, S. D. BALDWIN & CO.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER
An Electro-Galvanic Battery combined with a Highly Medicated Strengthening Plaster. It is the best and most powerful Plaster for pains and aches in the World of Medicine.
ELECTRICITY
As a great curative and restorative agent is not equaled by any other or combine in the same the body, restoration to health follows the vital spark has lost within. It is the last resort of all physicians and proves healing when all else has apparently died from an unsightly grave, when no other known agency could have succeeded. This is the leading curative element in this Plaster.
BALSAM AND PINE.
The healing properties of our own fragrant balsam and pine and the gums of the East are too well known to require description. Their guardian, healing, soothing and strengthening properties are known to thousands. When combined in accordance with late and important discoveries in pharmacy, their healing and strengthening properties are increased tenfold. In this respect our Plaster is the best in use without the aid of electricity.
TWO IN ONE.
Thus combined we have two great medical agents in one, each of which performs its function and unitedly produce more cures than any liniment, lotion, wash, or plaster ever before compounded in the history of medicine. Try one. Price, 25 cents.
Sold by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists throughout the United States and Canadas, by WEEKS & POTTER, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.
