JAPAN WINS GREAT MORAL VICTORY.

Russia Achieves a Diplomatic One, And President is First Figure in International Statesmanship.

SUCH IS THE OPINION OF BERLIN

France Feels Justified and Commends Japan's Course—England Gratified—Germany Satisfied.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—Japan has won a great moral victory. Russia is a great diplomatic one, and President Roosevelt has become the first figure in international statesmanship. That is what Berlin thinks of the result of the Portsmouth conference.

The foreign office, where the Associated Press brought the first announcement and the summary of the conditions agreed upon 20 minutes before they were known elsewhere in Germany, says unreservedly that without the president's personal exertions, supported by his unique position and the power of the United States, peace would not have been attained, and that Germany and the whole world will benefit by the statesmanship shown by the Washington government.

The foreign office acknowledges the generosity and moderation of Japan and the steadfast spirit of the Russian government. Astonishment at the result was felt by the foreign office, as it was everywhere else where the Associated Press made inquiries. Certainly it was the first exclamation of one of Russia's principal bankers, who was expecting a different outcome. That Russia would not have to pay any indemnity was at first scarcely believable. The Berlin stock exchange had been preparing for news of a rupture of the negotiations and for consequent disorder in the market.

There was animation at the Russian embassy until late tonight. The ambassador, Count Osken-Sacken, had gone out of town with the countess, who for a long time has been seriously ill, but the staff of the embassy received callers and there were congratulations on what, from a diplomatic point of view, seemed a remarkable Russian success; yet Japan was regarded as having won all she fought for, even in imagination, before the war began, as having gained opportunities for the tranquil development of the extensive territory on the mainland, and as having won a position in respect to the western great powers that will make them extremely civil to her hereafter.

In the down town part of Berlin, extra editions of the evening newspapers were issued frequently and they were eagerly bought up. The opinions of those whose lives are far away from diplomacy and international politics is that Japan has shown a forebearance that no European power would have shown. A street car conductor first said that to the correspondent, and afterwards when the correspondent listened to the common talk the same idea was often repeated.

FRANCE FEELS JUSTIFIED.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The unwavering conviction of France that President Roosevelt's noble initiative would culminate in peace has received its reward. The news of the successful termination of the conference at Portsmouth, which was first made known through the Associated Press bulletin, produced a profound impression when it was communicated to the members of the diplomatic corps and the high officials of the government, who unanimously expressed the keenest satisfaction that the heavy strain and anxiety had been removed, and President Roosevelt's unrelenting persistency was generally considered to have been the main factor in bringing about the happy results.

American, Russian and French officials displayed jubilation, while Japanese diplomats maintained their usual imperturbability, regarding the event as a thing that had been expected. All, however, rejoiced that the disastrous war had been brought to a close with undoubted benefit, not only to Russia and Japan, but to the whole world.

Considerable surprise was shown among French diplomats that the Japanese had surrendered so completely relative to the question of indemnity, on which they hitherto had held so firm. Their action in thus making an enormous sacrifice evoked much commendation. It was known that both belligerents desired peace, but that in order to preserve their national self-respect they did not wish to exhibit signs of wavering. There was, therefore, intense surprise when it was announced that the Japanese had given up their fundamental claims.

Count Cassini, former Russian ambassador at Washington, who arrived from St. Petersburg last night, expressed his pleasure on receipt of the information, but declined to grant an interview, owing to the sickness of his daughter.

The news was communicated to Premier Rouvier at the foreign office, and the premier, while not departing from his determination to refuse to go into the details of diplomatic questions, gave expression to his appreciation of the result which President Roosevelt had attained in terminating the war.

The military clubs received the intelligence late in the evening.

As the news arrived after the publication of the last edition of the evening newspapers, it did not receive widespread circulation among the public. An inking of it, however, leaked out late in the evening, when it became the absorbing theme of conversation in the clubs and cafes and on the streets.

ENGLAND IS GRATIFIED.

London, Aug. 30.—The result of the peace conference at Portsmouth will not be generally known in London and other parts of England until this morning. The bare announcement that the plenipotentiaries had reached an accord on all points appeared in the very last editions of the evening papers, and the terms will reach the public for the first time through this morning's papers. All persons prominent in political circles are out of town and therefore it is impossible to obtain anything like a consensus of public opinion other than as represented by the leading morning newspapers.

Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister, when seen by the Associated Press correspondent, said:

"I got my first intimation of the result of the conference from the Associated Press telegram sent to me here, but I must decline to comment thereon until I receive an official announcement from my government."

A long dispatch was received at the Japanese legation later in the evening, and was forwarded to Baron Hayashi.

In all official circles, in the clubs and elsewhere, the announcement of the terms came as a complete surprise, and responsible persons refused to express definite opinions until more information regarding the terms had been received.

The morning papers, while sharing the astonishment of the public at the unexpected nature of the peace terms, accord the greatest praise to Japan for having chosen so magnanimous a course. It is contended that by waiving the question of indemnity Japan might justly claim the whole of the island of Sakhalin, and that, therefore, the return of half of the island is a concession made entirely in the interest of peace. All the papers express gratitude to President Roosevelt and admiration for his untiring zeal, giving him full credit for being "the one man who made peace possible."

English papers which have been strongly pro-Japanese throughout the negotiations express disappointment at Japan's failure to be reimbursed for the expenses of the war. At the same time several of them admit that she perhaps has chosen the wiser and more business-like course.

The Chronicle attributes the decision which led to peace to the emperor of Japan himself, and says:

"When the Japanese generals and admirals extolled the magnanimous virtues of their emperor as the sole cause of their victories, they did not use empty phrases. The emperor and his advisers have kept their judgment clear. They know that Russia would not pay because she could not, and that at the end of another 18 months, while Japan's debt was doubled, Russia would still be less able to pay an indemnity. That is why we consider, even from the financial side, that Japan has chosen the wiser course. The guidance of the far east is now in Japan's hands, and she holds an opportunity for expansion and commercial growth that in a few years will make the concession of an indemnity appear to be a very small affair."

The Daily Graphic, commenting on Japan's "extraordinary magnanimity," considers that, "coming from a victorious power on the eve of further victories, such concessions point to a higher code of ethics than that which prevails in any of the European nations, and to a deeper appreciation of the causes that make nations really great. Whether her magnanimity will prove costly in the future it is impossible to say, but in any case Japan secures the respect of the world, and that is an asset which may perhaps yet prove more valuable than many fortresses."

The Daily Graphic also comments on the relief to Europe through the cessation of the struggle, on the ground that utter destruction of Russia's power in the far east would have "involved the shifting of the balance of power in Europe and been fatal to the long continuance of European peace."

GERMANY SATISFIED.

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 29.—Baron von Dem Bussche, secretary of the German embassy and charge d'affaires in the absence of Ambassador von Sternberg, tonight declared the outcome of the peace negotiations at Portsmouth "a most happy result." He added:

"Everybody in the world must be thankful for the restoration of peace, in the first place, to President Roosevelt, whose unselfish efforts in the cause of humanity brought the two fighting nations together in order to consider the possibility of peace and whose helping hand prevented a breaking off of the negotiations and led them to the harbor of peace. I am sure that few persons were better satisfied with the results of peace than the German emperor, who stood at the side of the president when he tried to bring the parties together, and who followed the president's noble work with keen interest and sympathy."

LONDON IS SURPRISED.

London, Aug. 29.—The announcement that the Portsmouth conference had concluded peace was received in London just in time for brief bulletins to be printed in the afternoon papers. The Associated Press conveyed the first information to the foreign office, where Sir Eric Barrington, representing Foreign Secy. Lansdowne, expressed profound astonishment, and said this was the first intimation the government had received.

Sir Eric's first impression after he had been handed the report was:

"It is simply extraordinary."

The foreign office, according to Sir Eric, had no idea that Japan intended to concede all points.

The Associated Press understands, however, that it was well known in official circles here that Japan was so anxious to make a good impression on the world that she was ready to make extraordinary concessions.

Sir Eric Barrington also informed the Associated Press that the Anglo-Japanese treaty was released by the announcement of the decision of the Portsmouth conference, but that the terms would not be given out till the government had been officially notified of the result of the peace conference.

A. D. WHITE'S OPINION.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 29.—Andrew D. White, former United States ambassador to Russia, said concerning peace:

"I am glad that peace has come. I am glad that the Japanese seemed so very magnanimous. I expected that it would be necessary to leave some points to the decision of the commissioners or to The Hague tribunal. Japan will now take her place among the nations of the world. The name of Togo will rank in history with that of Nelson. President Roosevelt is deserving of great credit, and the result of his efforts will make him a historical person. I am satisfied that there now will be great reforms in Russia, similar to those following the Crimean war."

"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, haphazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1903 my health was poor," writes Mrs. J. Hack, of 242 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered from falling of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical; life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, ache and pain, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another physician's medicine for nearly three months, but had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equaled.

THE ROGERS HAVE BEEN LOCATED IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Aug. 29.—John W. Rogers of Washington and San Francisco, and his wife, who disappeared from the Hotel Ten Eyck at Albany, N. Y., last Friday night, leaving behind two young children, were in Providence today. The missing man was identified in the office of Dr. M. W. Houghton, the government physician of this port, to whom he applied for employment and related a story of ill-luck.

According to Rogers' statement, he and his wife arrived here yesterday from Boston, having walked the distance in three days. Dr. Houghton secured a position for the man. The physician says that later he was informed by Rogers that the latter, when in New York last Friday, wrongfully made out a check on a southern California bank for $1,500, which was cashed for a portion of the face value. Dr. Houghton did not learn the name of the institution. Rogers shortly afterward left Dr. Houghton's office and when last seen by the physician was waiting for his wife on a street corner.

As excuse for his actions, Rogers said that he had been in bad company in Washington and in New York, and had arrived at the end of his resources when he decided to make out a check on a California bank. The local detective bureau was advised of Rogers' presence in this city and officers were looking for him during the afternoon.

Dr. Houghton stated that he had met Rogers and his wife in Washington last November, when he attended Mrs. Rogers. Rogers at that time was employed by the commissioner of Indian affairs as a stenographer. Since then Rogers has been out of employment. The man told Dr. Houghton that he was penniless.

SECRETARY SHAW FORGIVES GOVERNOR CUMMINS

Washington, Aug. 29.—Another chapter in the controversy between Secy. Shaw and Gov. Cummins of Iowa, growing out of statements in a speech of the former, was added tonight, when Secy. Shaw made public the following:

"My Dear Gov. Cummins—I have seen a copy of your letter of Aug. 28, which was published, in which you justify yourself in quoting me as saying that the senate had refused to consider the French treaty because it 'gives everything to France and nothing to the United States,' by an excerpt from an editorial comment on my remarks, in which it is said that I demonstrated that we were offering France a tremendous bargain and getting practically nothing in return.

"You take several positions in your letter in which I cannot concur. I do not agree that public men are bound by editorial comment, however friendly. Neither do I agree that an expression of opinion, however erroneous, is a violation of the properties of debate. I expressed, however, no opinion whatever concerning the French treaty in my Des Moines talk, as you would have observed had you read the report instead of the editorial comment thereon.

"I did state three incontrovertible facts and dismissed the subject. I stated that by the terms of the French treaty we agreed to admit 70 kinds of French merchandise at a less rate of duty than we collect upon the same kinds of goods coming from any other country, and expressly consented that 70 kinds of American products should pay a higher rate when sent to France than was charged on the same kinds of goods from several other countries. I stated that I favored the ratification of the French treaty, which I certainly should not had I thought it gave everything to France and nothing to the United States, as you quote me as saying.

"I also stated that some senators thought it unwise to discriminate against the country of our principal market in favor of another country. As you do not take issue with any of these propositions, what I regard as a hasty statement in your letter is that I violated the proprieties of debate, when at the most you attribute to me an opinion with which you take issue, I forgive without your asking it. I doubt not the balance of your speech was more carefully considered. Certainly the subject was more worthy of consideration than any statement I might have made or any editorial comment."

BARON KOMURA MAKES A GENEROUS GIFT TO CHARITY

The management of the hospital has requested the Associated Press to make public the fact of this "munificent and unexpected gift," and to announce that it has been decided to perpetuate it by endowing two beds in the hospital and placing over them the tablets inscribed with the names of the donors.
