A Plucky Girl Makes a Capture of Burglars.

TRAIN ROBBER WHO MUST HANG.

Boy Tramp Crushed by a Train—Confessed to Murder While Drunk—Killed by a Cyclone.

The Rev. Anna H. Shaw is coming east in March, to engage in a woman suffrage campaign in California this summer.

Wm. Meakows, a brakeman, was killed at San Francisco on Monday, by an iron bar leaving the track, crushing his life. He leaves a wife and two children.

Jose de la Cruz Bandini, aged 54 years and a member of one of the old Spanish aristocratic families, was accidentally killed Monday night near Yuma, Cal., by being thrown from his cart.

John Bennett was caught by a cave-in Monday evening in his mine about a quarter of a mile below the Hall-way tunnel, on the Leadville Ind. Lake. He was killed instantly so that he died in a short time.

Beside Ballerino and his wife, Maria Angeles Ballerino, of Los Angeles, Cal., have been married ten years and have ten children. On Monday Mrs. Ballerino filed suit for divorce on the ground of her husband's adultery with a young woman of the neighborhood; she asks for half of the family estate of $100,000.

The supreme court of California has denied that W. H. Thompson, the "boy" who killed a railway train at Goshen, Cal., in February, 1894, must hang. In passing upon the case the court was specially severe upon the legislature which permitted to pass such a crudely constructed law as that which makes train robbing a crime.

John McCormack, a sheep herder, received a serious wound Sunday while hunting near Dunsmuir, Cal. The trigger of a rifle that he was carrying caught on a twig, discharged the weapon and the shot took effect in McCormack's thigh. Although the wound is serious it will probably not prove fatal.

Ida Seniger, 15 years old, discovered a burglar in her stepfather's store at San Francisco early Monday morning. The old lady stepfather, who got his pistol but was afraid to go into the store. The girl became disgusted over his cowardice, seized the weapon, and went down and faced the burglars, holding them at bay till the officers came.

Monday evening George Rankleman, a barber, was cut and seriously wounded by Edward Stocklin in the Olympic saloon, San Jose, Cal. The men were friends and Stocklin, who was under the influence of liquor, objected to being jostled on the head. A fight ensued, and Stocklin drew a pocketknife and stabbed Rankleman in the right groin, making a deep wound.

A home for poor working girls is to be opened in San Francisco in a few days. Its purpose is to provide home accommodations on a sort of co-operative plan, so that the poor working girls can live cheaper than singly. The home is not a charitable institution, but if an occupant gets out of work the managers aid in finding employment and give her something to eat in the meantime to pay for her board and lodging.

J. B. Cummins, a barber, is in jail at Phoenix, Arizona, charged with the murder of a man named Matthew Knight at Hackey, Bra ford county, Fla., five years ago. Recently, while drunk, he related that he had to leave Florida because of a murder. Deputy United States Marshal Sullivan communicated with officers of that state with the result that Cummins was arrested. He was known as Charles Franklin, alias Kimrick, and came from Florida two years ago. He is married and has one child.

Antonio Perez, who was clubbed and robbed with a hatchet about a week ago by an encounter with his partner, G. Lorenzo, in a cabin three miles above Saratoga, Cal., died Monday. Lorenzo is badly battered about the head and received bruises. He says Perez hit him over the head with a pot of boiling macaroni. The pot slipped over his head, and he scalded his shoulders, pouring the boiling liquid over him. It was then he threw off the pot and seized the hatchet. Perez, in his dying statement, said the fight grew out of a disagreement between the two about a cheese which he had bought, his partner telling him that it was rotten.

Early Monday morning, as the north-bound passenger train was nearing Colfax, Cal., it ran into two tramps, who were asleep on the track. Their names are Fred Hayes and a colored boy, aged 15, named Alexander Sargent. It seems that the tramps, while walking along the track, came across some "hives" which had been recently dumped from an engine. Instead of burying them they laid it across the rails over the creek, intending to lay there until warned. They were soon fast asleep, and the train struck them. Hayes is the son of a physician of San Jose. The injuries of the boys proved fatal.

A young woman whose name is unknown left Reno in a box car at Marin, Nevada, recently, with a bullet in the center of her forehead, with a bullet in the center and the eye destroyed. On Monday the fellow was attempting, with a dozen of his kind, to beat his way on a freight train, and had persisted, despite being ejected by Conductor Long, who had his revolver with serious effect. The wound existed above the left temple and lodged over the left eye. A visiting physician dressed the wounds, but the man is now before a court for the murder of the little Junction girl. The conductor has not been arrested, and no arrangements have been made by the Southern Pacific Company for the tramp's care. He will probably die.

A dose that is always seasonable is a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator, the "King of Liver Medicines." It keeps the liver active; the bowels in healthy motion. In fact, helps keep you well. I have watched its effects in families where I have practiced, and find it invariable; both effective and humane in action."—Dr. T. W. Mason, Macon, Ga.
