WANT THEIR LIBERTY.

Three defendants were called yesterday and asked that they be given their discharge from their matrimonial obligations.

MONEY VS MONEY.

Delbie Brown has commenced suit for divorce against George Brown on the ground of cruelty and failure to provide the comforts of life. The complaint alleges that the couple were married at Ogden on August 20th, 1898, and that on the 20th of January last, the defendant willfully and without cause deserted her. The plaintiff states that he is able to earn $100 a month and has children to the amount of the same.

SHELLEY VS SHELLEY.

In the complaint of Barbara Bibb Shelley in which she asks that the bonds of matrimony existing between herself and Orson Shelley be dissolved, the plaintiff alleges that they were married at Salt Lake City, on April 15, 1896, and as a result of the union there are three children of which she asks the custody of the plaintiff. The young man is employed in the office of Fowler Brothers and has a good position. The complaint further alleges that the defendant has for some time past neglected to provide the necessaries of life for the plaintiff and children, although he is able to do so and therefore the plaintiff has to rely on her own efforts for support. The defendant is a resident of Salt Lake City and she asks that she be granted a decree, custody of the minor children and such other relief as the court may deem just and proper. The defendant is a resident of Lincoln Bible Institute.

BURGLARS VS SPONGERS.

J. C. Simpson is made the defendant in an action for a divorce filed by his wife, Ellen Simpson. The complaint alleges that they were married at American Fork on January 1st, 1896, and that since then he has deserted and left the plaintiff without support, but that she is independent upon her own labors for support. The plaintiff prays that she be granted a decree of divorce.
