TRIAL OF DURRANT.

The Main Witnesses of the Prosecution Now Heard.

TESTIMONY OF THE PAWN BROKER

Sensational Scene in Court When Durrant is Identified by Another Witness.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The sixth week of the trial of Theodore Durrant commenced today. The prosecution now has its case substantially before the jury. Its main witnesses have been heard, and all that the district attorney will now try to do is to substantiate the evidence already given with corroborative testimony.

Adolph Oppenheim, the broker, who stated that Durrant had, about the middle of last April, tried to pawn a ring with a chipped diamond, identified by Oppenheim as one belonging to Blanche Lamont, was recalled for further cross-examination. The witness was questioned at length by the defense regarding Durrant's visit to his shop, in order to ascertain the possibility of a mistake in identification. To test his memory, he was questioned concerning other persons who had visited his pawnshop on the day Durrant is charged with having tried to sell the ring. Oppenheim said only two other persons had called. Both were strangers, yet he described them minutely, and recounted the particulars of their visits as if they had occurred yesterday. Oppenheim was asked regarding other specific days, answering promptly. In the minds of some spectators in the court room he was too good a witness, remembering events on special days months back with extraordinary vividness.

Counsel for the defense tried to confuse Oppenheim by showing him a number of silver articles, and inquiring if he had ever seen them before. In many cases the pawn-broker replied in the affirmative, and described the persons who had tried to sell or pawn them. The defense evidently considered Oppenheim's testimony of great importance, and tried hard to break it down, but without marked success.

W. J. Phillips, a cigar manufacturer, middle-aged man of good appearance and address, testified in a positive manner that he had seen Durrant coming out of Oppenheim's store in the early part of last April. He had no doubt of the identity of Durrant.

A sensational scene followed, when the district attorney requested the witness to step down and indicate the man he saw coming out of the pawnshop. Phillips rose, walked from the stand to within three feet of the prisoner, and with pointed finger and steady gaze, said in positive tones: "That is the young man."

Durrant did not flinch under the ordeal. He returned gaze with gaze, and not a muscle of his passive face twitched. He neither betrayed guilt nor flashed back a glance of injured innocence.

The witness was cross-examined regarding his business enterprises and his family history, with the apparent intent of discrediting his testimony. He said when Durrant's portrait was first published he remarked that he had seen him some place. When Oppenheim's picture was published, the case at the pawn-shop flashed across his mind, and all the details came back to him. Phillips said he came into the courtroom a week ago to see if he could identify Durrant, which he did without a moment's hesitation. The witness said he did not know Oppenheim, and had never bowed to him, although he had frequently seen the pawn-broker standing in the door of his shop as the witness went to his office. He had avoided speaking to Oppenheim since Durrant's arrest, as he wished to prevent any suspicion of collusion between them. Phillips said he said nothing to Durrant as the latter left the shop, nor did the prisoner speak, but Durrant made a peculiar motion with his lips, which he had never seen a man make before. The witness had noticed Durrant make the same lip movement when he came in court a week ago to look at him.

Leigh H. Irvine, a newspaper man, said he interviewed Durrant on the evening of April 14th in the city prison. Durrant's statement was made in the presence of Judge Thompson, who was then Durrant's attorney. It was as to his whereabouts on April 3rd. Durrant then said he left home about 8 on that morning, and met Blanche Lamont at Twenty-first and Mission streets. She invited him to accompany her to the college. He went to the church at 4:30, and took off his coat and hat, and went up stairs to fix the gas. He stated that he met King in the church and left it with King. He said nothing about having seen Miss Lamont in the afternoon.

Mrs. A. B. Perry, of Alameda, who was visiting Mrs. Crossett on April 3rd, corroborated Mrs. Crossett as to her trip to the Mission on that afternoon. Mrs. Crossett left the Haight street car at Market street to go out to Valencia.

THE A. P. A.

Enormous Membership Claimed for that Order.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 23.—J. H. Jackson, of Fort Worth, Texas, national president of the A. P. A., lectured at Turner hall tonight. When asked today about the condition of the A. P. A., he said: "The order is growing rapidly in numbers. We have in round numbers three and a half million members. In California we have two hundred thousand, and in the older states farther east, the number of members we have is enormous and growing daily."

Continuing, Mr. Jackson said: "We are getting ready to surprise Missourians. Missouri is well organized, but we would rather show you by our votes than tell you how big a vote we have."

"Will the order take part in the next national campaign?"

"It certainly will do so, and it will go in to win. In October there will be a convention at St. Louis, attended by ninety-six delegates, two for each state, and some of our officers, so that a very strong committee will be appointed. It will be the duty of that committee to lay before each present party our principles and explain to each our position. The committee will present our platform. We will demand recognition, put each party on record and then determine what we shall do. You can rely on this: We won't vote with a party that condemns our principles, and we won't support any party that makes a bid for the Roman Catholic vote. When they have acted, we shall act in unison."

"Do you expect, then, to control the next election?"

"We do. The party that we vote with will win. We are not going in as a political party, but we have principles to carry out, and it is to advance them that we shall vote."

"We will have a hand in the elections in every state in the Union. Our method of dealing with parties in every state will be much the same as our tactics in city politics."

PEARY HAS HAD ENOUGH.

He Concludes to Stay Away from the Arctic Regions.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 23.—No new matter has developed today with reference to the Peary expedition. All members will go by steamer Silvia, leaving on Wednesday, reaching New York next Monday. They are engaged today in packing specimens which will be transferred to the Silvia.

In an interview today Lieut. Peary said that he will not undertake any further Arctic work. He denies that any of the bones of General Greeley's party were found at Cape Sabine, but the officers, engineer, firemen and sailors of the Kite contradict his statement. The matter is widely discussed here.

AVIGNON TO THE FRONT.

That City Offers the Pope of Rome a Retreat.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News says the town council of Avignon has agreed to spend £100,000 upon the restoration of the pope's palace. A part will be turned into a museum, and the chapel and conclave hall will be ceded to the Vatican. One of the notable personages of Avignon says the next pope will be elected at Avignon and will live there.

Avignon was sold in 1348 to Pope Clement VI. From that date Avignon continued to be occupied by the popes for more than four centuries, and seven popes reigned there. Upon the death of Gregory XI, the last of the seven, a claimant to the papal throne set up his residence there and was succeeded by two others, these three claimants being called popes. Avignon was governed by popes until 1791. The former palace of the pope, which it is proposed to restore and which has in recent years been used as a barracks, is a vast irregular Gothic structure built at different periods, with strong towers, some of them 150 feet high.

Democratic Convention.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The streets, the corridors of hotels and every place where politicians can gather, have turned into meeting places for Democratic slate-makers and breakers, and so glutted is every avenue in the hotels that it is difficult to move about. Every train since noon has brought in its quota of delegates, from the Empire state express that landed David B. Hill, Comptroller Campbell, Clerk Dafroes and Chairman J. W. Hinckley, and the fast mail with Senator Murphy and ex-Lieut. Gov. Sheehan, down to the slower-going specials, one bearing Tammany, 300 strong, and another with the state Democracy aboard to the number of 250.

It is estimated that at least a third more people are here than were at Saratoga at the Republican convention, and still they will come tonight and tomorrow.

Tonight precedents have been thrown to the wind, and the slate that this morning was in fairly good condition is almost lost sight of behind the swarm of new candidates. The only offices that seem to be out of dispute are those of secretary of state and attorney general. The comptrollership seems to be the main bone of contention, and since 3 p. m. there have developed five new candidates. The leaders smiled at the Donnybrook fight among the candidates and refused to make selections.

Change in Temperature.

EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 23.—The greatest change in the weather ever experienced here occurred within the past twenty-four hours, the mercury dropping from 90 in the afternoon to the freezing point tonight. A heavy frost fell last night.

At Coffeyville the mercury fell 40 degrees in two hours. At Wichita the fall was 50 degrees, and the weather is the coldest for September ever recorded there. Material injury to crops will follow if the cold spell continues.

At Ardmore, I.T., a severe thunder-storm came up this afternoon accompanied by a light rain and a very high wind. The storm was followed by a cold wave, a fall of 45 degrees occurring in a few hours.

CHARITY WELL APPLIED.

One Act of Kindness Saves a Soul from Despair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—When a lonely wanderer was befriended at Harrison street station seven years ago by Sergeant Murphy, that officer little thought he was possibly saving a life and starting a discouraged young man on the road to prosperity.

The travel stained wanderer was about twenty-eight years old and was poorly clad, but there was something about him that impressed Desk Sergeant Murphy when he applied for shelter for the night, that told the old policeman that the applicant for charity was no ordinary tramp. After giving him a quarter to get something to eat, Murphy gave the man a bed in the court room. When the stranger awoke Murphy had given way to another sergeant, and the young man left without having had an opportunity to thank his benefactor. The incident passed from Sergeant Murphy's mind and he gave the matter little thought until last evening.

A handsome, well dressed man entered the Harrison street station and inquired for the sergeant. He was directed to the desk where Murphy was busily engaged in making out the court sheets for the morning. The sergeant glanced up and asked the nature of the caller's business.

"I guess you don't recognize me," said the stranger, and Sergeant Murphy replied that he did not.

"Well, I remember you and always shall," was the reply, "for you saved my life nearly seven years ago and gave me courage to face the world and its hardships, and I am now a prosperous man."

Then the stranger recalled the incident. The stranger, who said his name was Edward Burnell, told the sergeant the story of his life. His father was a wealthy manufacturer, in Manchester, England, and he was the only son. His father wished him to marry a certain young woman, but he declined, and in a quarrel which his father and left home.

He came to America and after wandering about the country for several months, finally landed in Chicago, penniless and hungry. He wandered into the Harrison street station and was befriended by Sergeant Murphy. This gave him fresh courage and the next day he wandered to the stock yards, where he met an old ranchman from Idaho, who invited him to his home. He accepted the invitation and since that time has lived in Idaho. All his ventures proved profitable and now he is the proprietor of a large ranch about thirty miles from Pocatello, Idaho.

After he had accumulated some of his property Mr. Burnell wrote to his father and begged his forgiveness. The old gentleman readily granted his son pardon.

A week ago he received a letter from his mother announcing his father's death, and begging that he return home and assist in settling up the estate, valued at £100,000.

Irish Home Rule Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The great national convention of Irish societies will be opened in the Young Men's Christian association hall tomorrow morning with a large representation of Irishmen from all parts of the country. Today delegates were arriving on nearly every train. The headquarters at McCoy's hotel presented an animated appearance, countenance and welcoming of new arrivals being the order of the day. John F. Keating, state secretary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and secretary of local reception committee, estimates that there will be fully 1,400 delegates in attendance when the convention opens.

The convention will last three days. The general object is the formation of a united open organization for the furtherance of the Irish cause. Those who issued the call for the convention claim that it is not contemplated that physical force should be used or advised in the attainment of the independence of the Irish people as a nation unless such means be deemed absolutely necessary, and the object in view be probable of attainment. It is believed the convention will serve to revive interest and to infuse new life into the Irish cause, both in America and Great Britain.

FROM CUBA.

Battle in which the Spaniards Lost Three Hundred Soldiers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—News of a battle in which the Spanish were defeated by the Cubans, and lost 300, was received today by President Palma. It came in a letter written September 14th by Pedro Rovira, a Cuban private who deserted from the Spanish ranks at Fera Lago, when Campos was defeated. In a later engagement Rovira was captured by the Spanish, courtmartialed and sentenced to receive 400 lashes and to be shot. The sentence was carried out while Rovira was shouting for Cuban liberty.

The letter says all San Diego, where the execution took place, was incensed against the Spaniards, and then goes on to describe a hard-fought battle.

PRESIDENT ELECTED.

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 23.—A letter received today by prominent Cuban leaders states that on the 10th a national convention was held at Najosa, at which Bartolo Maso was elected president of the Cuban Republic; Marquis of Santa Lucia, minister of interior; Thomas Estrada Palma, representative of the government in the exterior, and Maximo Gomez, general-in-chief. Some time ago when delegates were called, Santa Lucia was mentioned as president of the convention, and the impression prevailed that he was destined to be elected president.

Maso was born sixty years ago at Manzanillo. He is highly connected and thoroughly educated. He left Manzanillo February 20th last, and was considered as the head of the revolution in the eastern department.

HEART DISEASE 30 YEARS!

Short Breath, Palpitation.

Mr. G. W. McKinsey, postmaster of Kokomo, Ind., and a brave ex-soldier, says: "I had been severely troubled with heart disease ever since leaving the army at the close of the late war. I was troubled with palpitation and shortness of breath. I could not sleep on my left side and had pain around my heart. I became so ill that I was much alarmed, and fortunately my attention was called to recovering from the illness attending child-birth, or who suffer from the effects of disorders, derangements and displacements of the womanly organs, will find relief and a permanent cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Taken during pregnancy, the "Prescription"

MAKES CHILDBIRTH EASY

by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "labor." The painful ordeal of child-birth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted. If be delicate, run-down, or overworked, it worries her husband as well as herself. This is the proper time to build up her strength and cure those weaknesses, or ailments, which are the cause of her trouble. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep and makes a new woman of her.

Mrs. Annie Lyon, of Lorraine, Jefferson Co., N. Y., writes: "I had been suffering from ulceration and falling of the womb for several weeks, at about the birth of my youngest child. I consulted all the physicians around there and they gave me no relief ... At last, almost discouraged, I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and took five bottles. ... I feel very grateful, and in fact, owe you my life, for I do not think I should have been alive now if I had not taken your medicine."
