UTAH LEGISLATURE.

COUNCIL

FRIDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

H. J. M. 8, to Congress urging the passage of the Home Rule Bill, calling the attention of the military action of the Governor in vetoing bills passed by the legislature and which were demanded by the people, and asking Congress to pass over the World's Fair bill, came from the House and was read.

Morrell moved the suspension of the rules and the passage of the bill.

McCallister said the Council was as yet unprepared to act just how many bills had been vetoed and how many passed.

The memorial was referred to the committee on memorials who subsequently recommended that it be put upon its passage.

The memorial was read the second time.

Evans offered an amendment added to the memorial, in reference to the vetoing of the mechanics lien law as follows: "In this connection we desire to call attention to the fact that for many years past the Territory of Utah has had a defective lien law. The present legislature passed a law to relieve mechanics, laborers and material men, miners and contractors, from the evil effects of that law. The legislature, during its present session, passed a law which fully met all the evils that have been suffered in the past and which protected fully such persons from loss. This bill, too, met with the disapproval of his excellency." Adopted.

Evans also offered the following: "We also respectfully ask the Congress of the United States to approve the legislation and election law which has passed the legislature, pursuant to the act of Congress which created the Utah commission, and which, if approved by your honorable body, will dispense with the services of said commission, and thereby save Congress from a large and annual expense in the conduct of local elections in the Territory. In our judgment, this bill should be speedily signed, for the reason that the general election will occur on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November next." Adopted.

The memorial then passed. Ayes—Evans, Greaves, Melville, McCallister, Talbot, noes—Baskin, Haynes, Moran, Glendinning.

At 5:30 p. m. President King called the Council to order for the purpose of hearing the message from the governor approving the following bills:

C. F. 35, to allow post patents to commence and prosecute suits.

C. F. 70, regulating the compensation of clerks of the Supreme and District Courts in Territorial criminal cases.

C. F. 95, providing for the payment of jurors, witnesses and stenographic reporters, and creating and defining the duties of Court Commissioners.

C. F. 97, relating to the assessment and collection of taxes in incorporated cities, villages and towns.

C. F. 98, to amend section 2725 of the Compiled Laws of Utah.

C. F. 99, fencing school lands.

C. F. 100, prescribing duties and powers of clerks of the first and second class.

C. F. 120, for the relief of school districts which have failed to keep a special school tax.

C. F. 123, amending the fish and game laws.

C. F. 124, requiring bonds of contractors of public monuments to make property reports.

The messages were received and filed.

At 10:00 p.m. after a long informal recess, the president called the Council to order.

Pankin, by unanimous consent, presented the following memorial:

To the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled:

Your memorialists, the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah, respectfully represent that we have heretofore presented to you a memorial showing the condition of government in this Territory, the helplessness of the people's representatives in the Legislature to pass needed legislation, and praying that you immediately enact a bill for the local government of Utah, introduced in the House of Representatives by Delegate Caine and in the Senate by Senator Faulkner.

Now at the close of this, the fourteenth session of the Legislative Assembly, we again again to represent that our experience during the session has emphasized the necessity for such legislation, and has again made prominent the unprecedented objectionable features of our present system of government.

We, the representatives of the people of Utah, have earnestly endeavored to enact into a law the Federal election act, passed by the proper conditions of the elections in this Territory, which the Governor, as we believe, wrongfully disapproved. This we attach, together with the veto, to this memorial. We also present herewith in response to a call made upon us, a memorial of the City of Salt Lake, and request of a portion of the City Council and of the Chamber of Commerce of such city, we have passed a carefully prepared and well-considered bill for the government of metropolitan cities in Utah, which was vetoed, and which will apply only to Salt Lake City at the present time. This bill, the Governor, as we believe, wrongfully, has also refused to approve. The bill, with the veto, is also herewith submitted.

We desire further to represent that the people of the Territory of Utah, desirous of being represented at the World's Columbian Exposition, to be held at the city of Chicago in 1893, have passed an appropriating act for making a suitable representation of the wealth and resources of the Territory at that exposition. We have in the act provided the means of representation, therefor, permanent residents of the Territory of Utah, who shall constitute a commission to provide for such representation, and bring representatives of all political, social and economic classes of the Territory. This bill the Governor has vetoed. We attach it with his veto to this memorial. The sole reason for the veto is, we are informed, because the law of it he claims the it is in violation of the organic act of the Territory. The reason which he assigns, we are informed, is that he claims the right to choose to make the board of commissioners who shall expend this money.

During the session of the Legislature the Governor has vetoed bills, not of a local character, which bills were all carefully considered by the Legislature, and passed to meet what were believed to be urgent and waste existing in the present system of our legislation. We would so much prolong this memorial and accompanying documents in attaching these bills and veto to it.

We respectfully ask that the Congress of the United States approve and enact into an organic law, the bill which has been passed and which is attached, making an appropriation for the benefit of the World's Columbian Exposition. We do this for the reason that there will be no other session of the Legislature that can make such appropriation, and we have no power, even by a unanimous vote, to make such appropriation over the also-was concurred in by the Council and at the request of the House a conference committee was appointed to adjust the difference with that body.

The President named McCallister, Evans and Moran.

When the question of having a recess came up, Haynes became desperate, in a dressing the chair, and, not to be polite, damn, and was forced into his seat by the sergeant-at-arms.

Baskin rises against the confirmation of James Anderson for treasurer, but cast his vote for C. E. Allen.

At 3:45 both houses were in session.

HOUSE.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

At 2:30, Pierce arose from his seat, addressing the Speaker, said, to wit:

I rise to perform a pleasant duty which has been delegated to me by the members of this House. The time has now arrived when the Legislative Assembly must adjourn. It is fitting and appropriate, Mr. Speaker, that the House, before its last resolution should in some way express to you their appreciation of your uniform courtesy, your fair and impartial administration of the duties of your high position, and the satisfaction you have given to this body. They therefore wish to present to you this watch, which I hold in my hand.

When you look upon this, may it call to your mind the pleasant moments those of this session may it call up the individual members of this body and their individualities—"Armel's orator," "Evans' smile," "Sargent's nose," "Brown's Rex Elmer county," and, too, Mr. Speaker, leaving aside the individuals, may it bring to your mind a Legislative Assembly with one purpose, the good of this Territory. You may not now test this gift, but take it home as a memento of this session. It may be that other members used the case more for other purposes, when they meet their experiments.

We represent a great Territory in which there should be no differences. Let us hope the time will soon come when all differences will cease. Let us go out from this Assembly, resolved to do our duty to this Territory and our common country. I present you with the watch and with the compliments of the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker replied:

My colleagues of the Legislative Assembly, I am indeed surprised and delighted with this token of appreciation which has been presented to me by you. I thank the donor sincerely with thoughts in my mind, indeed I am surprised. To me the remarks of the gentleman from Salt Lake has impressed me as never before in my life. I have tried to be just, patient and with one purpose, and that that good might come out of this session. I am so glad to have succeeded through your aid as I have done. I am pleased with the generally received long speech from every member. I thank you for this mark of esteem. I trust I shall live long enough that this will be of more service to me than now (holding up the case). I shall take pleasure in showing this mark of esteem to my constituents, and I trust life will not end the good we may do for our Territory, and that we may continue our efforts for its advancement. I hope that our intercourse will ever be pleasant as it has been here. I thank you for this.

This was a beautiful gold-headed cane inscribed, "Hon. Wm. H. Seegmiller, Speaker, from officers and members of House of Representatives, 30th session Utah Legislature."

W. H. Irvine offered a resolution thanking the clerk and assistants for their efficient work during the session and providing for a copy of the Compiled laws to be presented to each, and also to the chaplain, and it was passed.

Neisler gained consent for the introduction of the following memorial:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

We, your memorialists, the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah, respectfully represent that we have heretofore presented to you a memorial showing the condition of government in this Territory, the helplessness of the people's representatives in the Legislature to pass needed legislation, and praying that you immediately enact a bill for the local government of Utah, introduced in the House of Representatives by Delegate Caine and in the Senate by Senator Faulkner.

Now at the close of this, the fourteenth session of the Legislative Assembly, we again again to represent that our experience during the session has emphasized the necessity for such legislation, and has again made prominent the unprecedented objectionable features of our present system of government.

We, the representatives of the people of Utah, have earnestly endeavored to enact into a law the Federal election act, passed by the proper conditions of the elections in this Territory, which the Governor, as we believe, wrongfully disapproved. This we attach, together with the veto, to this memorial. We also present herewith in response to a call made upon us, a memorial of the City of Salt Lake, and request of a portion of the City Council and of the Chamber of Commerce of such city, we have passed a carefully prepared and well-considered bill for the government of metropolitan cities in Utah, which was vetoed, and which will apply only to Salt Lake City at the present time. This bill, the Governor, as we believe, wrongfully, has also refused to approve. The bill, with the veto, is also herewith submitted.

We desire further to represent that the people of the Territory of Utah, desirous of being represented at the World's Columbian Exposition, to be held at the city of Chicago in 1893, have passed an appropriating act for making a suitable representation of the wealth and resources of the Territory at that exposition. We have in the act provided the means of representation, therefor, permanent residents of the Territory of Utah, who shall constitute a commission to provide for such representation, and bring representatives of all political, social and economic classes of the Territory. This bill the Governor has vetoed. We attach it with his veto to this memorial. The sole reason for the veto is, we are informed, because the law of it he claims the it is in violation of the organic act of the Territory. The reason which he assigns, we are informed, is that he claims the right to choose to make the board of commissioners who shall expend this money.

During the session of the Legislature the Governor has vetoed bills, not of a local character, which bills were all carefully considered by the Legislature, and passed to meet what were believed to be urgent and waste existing in the present system of our legislation. We would so much prolong this memorial and accompanying documents to attach all these bills and veto to it.

We respectfully ask that the Congress of the United States approve and enact into an organic law, the bill which has been passed and which is attached, making an appropriation for the benefit of the World's Columbian Exposition. We do this for the reason that there will be no other session of the Legislature that can make such appropriation, and we have no power, even by a unanimous vote, to make such appropriation over the alsolute veto of the Governor, and this Territory must suffer in view of movements in all other states, unless Congress will grant relief.

We again renew our request to Congress, as we believe it is the duty of representatives of others in the Territory, and to give to the people here the privileges of representation in the World's Fair, and at the time the expenses of others are to be borne by the people of other states.

Neisler introduced a memorial asking that the memorial might be put on its passage, and that copies of the Governor's veto be forwarded with the memorial.

Halstead moved to amend so as to take all the bills approved by the Governor and along with the documents and his veto. He then made an earnest speech, in which he said that he had not been an advocate of absolute power by the Governor, but bring this session of the assembly has had been presented which were of such character as to make him feel more friendly towards the veto power of the Governor.

The amendment was voted down. The motion to receive the memorial was passed a united party vote of 12 ayes to 7 noes.

On motion of J. D. Irvine all rules were suspended and the memorial placed on its readings.

Morrell moved to strike out that portion regarding the veto and so amending as to send all the bills vetoed to the Governor with his reasons for doing so.

This was lost on a vote of 9 ayes to 12 noes.

The memorial was then placed on its passage, the vote standing 14 ayes to 7 noes, a strong party vote.

EVENING SESSION.

It was nearly eight o'clock before the Council was again resumed.

The Council message that they had adopted H. C. M. 8, relative to home rule and vetoes by the Governor, with amendments.

A. Smith is not exactly in the amendments was defeated, and then a motion to concur carried.

The conference committee on H. F. 134, making appropriations, recommended the adoption of the amendments suggested by the committee.

Colton and Lawrence made a minority report against cutting down the capitol appropriation.

The majority report was adopted.

A Senate bill to submit the several statutes of a general nature at court in prosecution of criminals, which had been stricken out by the Council, brought out some discussion.

The bill was lost, and the House was carried by a vote of 12 ayes to 5 noes.

Arnett offered an amendment to the effect that the $25,000 appropriation for the Agricultural college shall be expended under the supervision of George W. Thatcher, Isaac D. Haines and William Geddes. This was adopted.

Colton, Arnett and Snow were appointed a conference committee on the other amendments to the bill.

The Council gave notice of the passage of a memorial for remonetizing silver, and the same was considered passed.

At 1:25 a. m. the conference committee on H. F. 134, appropriations, reported an agreement, in which the House receded from some amendments and the Council from others. They recommended that the House recede from the item of $1500 to A. J. Burt. A vote such concur carried by a score of 12 ayes to 8 noes, and the item remained.

The committee reported in favor of striking out the Capitol item of $50,000, for commencing a Capitol building, and leaving the amount $1200. There was a minority report favoring the item of $50,000 remaining. On the motion to adopt the majority report the vote was ayes 19, nays 12.

There was another contest over the report to strike out the $1500 for fencing, etc., the ground for the Executive Mansion. The motion to not concur was lost by a vote of 8 ayes to 12 nays.

J. D. Irvine moved that a conference committee of three be appointed. Carroll, and J. D. Irvine, Kimball and Adams were appointed.

A desultory and informal recess then occurred.

But little was done after this time. The conference committee killed all the items for criminal expenses arising from justices' courts, amounting to some $30,000.

The Capitol Hill building item suffered a severe cut after four conference committees had expended their energy in it. It was reduced from $50,000 to $5,000 and left at that.

The claim of A. J. Burt of $1500 for attendance on the District Court, was unanimously completely.

The enrolling bill was under consideration when the House faced away, at 3:30 a.m., a quorum, however, remaining in sight.

An Attraction.

Next Tuesday evening a delightful entertainment will be given in the Eighteenth ward hall, for the benefit of the school fund of the ward. Part first of the programme will be musical, with recitations interspersed. Among those who will take part are Prof. Nicholas Jenkins, Mr. R. C. Easton, Mr. George D. Pyper, Mrs. Sarah O. Langford, Mr. O. F. Whitney, Mr. H. S. Goddard and Mr. T. C. Dunbar and other talented gentlemen.

The second and concluding part of the entertainment will be Roubault's one act play of "Good Night and Good Morning," to first presentation in this city. The following well-known favorites, members of the Home Dramatic Club, are in the cast: Mr. Wells, Mr. Sawyer, Mr. Young, Mr. Barlow, Bettie Cummings, Nettie Snell and Clara Clawson.

A Fraternal Visit.

This morning we had the pleasure of a call from Brother George Hales, an old and respected citizen of Utah, he having been a resident of this Territory over forty years. He is a printer, and was one of the first of the men employed on the DESERET NEWS. He is also a journalist, having been at one time not only the head of the composing department of the Salt Lake Tribune, but also did considerable of the editorial work for that paper. He now occupies the same position on the Hundall (Sevier County) Advocate. Notwithstanding that he is in his seventieth year, he is still hale and hearty, and evidently good for quite a number of years more. He has come up from the south on business connected with the Advocate.
