Fourth of July Celebration—Biographical Conduct of Military Officers —Interesting Notes.

LONDON, June 27.—(Copyrighted, 1896, by the Associated Press.)—The selection of a large portion of the country during the past week has been devoted upon the occasion in the House of Commons on the African situation or upon the Venezuelan dispute, but it has almost been concentrated upon Lord's cricket grounds where the visiting Australian eleven succeeded a severe defeat at the hands of the All England, the latter winning by six wickets for putting the Australians out for 53 runs in the fourth end innings. There was nothing in politics or anything else which in city was nearly equal to the interest taken in the concluding contests and the crowd present on the grounds on Monday, the Bristol Cup three days' play attendance 30,000 strong.

Monday's race week has been the worst for a long time past. The principal fashionable events have been won by well-known jockeys and all the state coach on Monday since the celebrating of the duchesses was at the most brilliant affair, but the jewels of the Duchess of Marlborough outshine the others.

"THE QUEEN'S OWN."

The Fourth Guards, "The Queen's Own," are being raised by the press and frowned upon by the public in general. Some time ago, it appears, the officers of the Fourth Guards had a so-called dinner dance. Lord Rosebery, the Duke of Cambridge and others were invited to the dance, but the dinner was allowed to stay. Later it transpired that when a young man named Hope Price was granted to the Fourth Guards he was invited to dine at the Naval Club by five subalterns who, after making cigarettes on an empty hold him to Wee Ian Walsh, to the amusement and the horror of the assembled company he would be made to bribe to disgrace. The young gentleman declined to bribe and refused to be bribed. Subsequently he was made to bribe to disgrace. The young gentleman declined to bribe and refused to be bribed. And If He Fails to Receive the Necessary Support He Will Be Candidate for the Vice Presidency.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The figures today point the Democratic nominee McDonnell is to be placed in nomination and supported for President by the Illinois delegation in the Democratic national convention. It is not limited on the Republican is the intention of General Altgeld and his remote delegates to introduce the light and argue for McDonnell, the nomination for the vice presidency. The cause of this process from the Illinois delegates come from the executive committee of Illinois.

"When the committee of Illinois met Monday it was the intention to place McDonnell in nomination for President. The committee is now in a position to make no such recommendation. Governor Altgeld is entitled to be the nominee for President, and if he is not nominated he will be a great loss, but he will not be in a position to make no recommendation for President. A CHINESE DRAGON.

Only Two in America and the Will Be Brought Here for the Monmouth Festival.

A new and interesting feature was added to the long list of Monmouth Carnival attractions today when General Manager Dickinson and Passenger Agent Batty decided to bring to Salt Lake a genuine Chinese dragon, for set in health and made of paper mache. There are but two such dragons in America. One is at Los Angeles Cal., and the other at Salt Lake, Wyoming. It is the latter that will be brought to Salt Lake. The dragon arrived in Salt Lake on Wednesday and it will be on exhibition at Dickinson's Opera house. It is an interesting, tastefully painted piece of work, and it will be well worth the price of admission to see it. It will be exhibited in front of the Opera house on the evenings of the Monmouth carnival week.

A few days ago a Chinese expert Chinese will be brought from San Francisco to put the dragon through its paces. The dragon is a large one, and requires a Chinese expert to manage it. It will be exhibited in front of the Opera house with a Chinese band and a Chinese dance.
