LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY, NOV. 14.

Kaysville Stabbing.—Allen C. Bogue, the young man who, in an altercation at Kaysville, stabbed a man named Hicks, a short time since, is in the city jail. Hicks has so far recovered as to be able to be about again.

Death of William Knowles.—This morning Mr. William Knowles, plasterer of the Twelfth Ward, died from the effects of pneumonia. The funeral will be conducted at 11 o'clock on Thursday. The deceased suffered severely for some time before his demise.

A Literary Lady.—Mrs. Eliza B. Saxon, special correspondent of the Times-Democrat, of New Orleans, La., and the Philadelphia Times, is in the city, and stopping at the Continental. We understand the lady purposes delivering a lecture here on a subject connected with the advancement of women.

Apply the Law.—Three of the four tramps who were connected with stealing an overcoat from M. H. Lipman's establishment were each found $50 and costs by Justice Spiers. That kind of commendable justice will go along way toward ridding the city of the tramp nuisance. Clean them out by a rigorous administration.

Railroad.—Some few months ago, we stated that the third rail on the D. & R. G. line running to the northern limits of this city was only the commencement of the extension of their road to Ogden. This statement at that time was contradicted, but is now affirmed to be the fact. We believe it is only a question of circumstances, when, in the near future, the Union Pacific, and Central Pacific Railroads will have the terminus of their overland roads in this city, instead of Ogden.

Welcome Home.—Elder Joseph Tingey, one of the missionaries who reached home from England last Friday, has been absent since the 14th of September, 1880. He first labored in the Newcastle-on-Tyne Conference, where he remained six months, during which time the additions to the Church were quite numerous in that field. He was next appointed to labor in the Birmingham Conference, where he operated in the ministry until his release. Brother Tingey was employed as a compositor in this office before his departure and enjoyed the esteem of his fellow workmen, who are pleased to tender him a hearty welcome home.

A Visit to Wasatch.—Sisters Z. D. H. Young, E. B. Wells and Louie Wells attended the Ladies' Conference of Wasatch Stake. There were two sessions of the Relief Society, one of the Primary Associations and, in the evening, of the Y. L. M. I. A. All these meetings were numerously attended. President Hatch, Bishops and leading brethren being present. The sisters visited Midway, Charleston, Wallburg and Centre Ward, holding meetings in each place, all very interesting. At Heber the large and commodious new co-operative store is just about completed, the goods have been put in and, altogether, both inside and outside, presents a very fine appearance.

St. Johns and Clover.—A correspondent writes from St. Johns, Tooele County, under date of Nov. 10th:

Last Saturday evening the Saints of this and Clover Creek Wards were visited by Apostle F. M. Lyman, Bishop Edward Hunter and Wm. C. Rydalen, of Grantsville.

They held four meetings, two in each Ward, and the instructions that were given by these brethren were calculated to be a lasting benefit to us. The health of the people in this and Clover Wards is generally good. Our grain crops were an average, but our potato crop, with the most of the people in St. Johns, was very poor, owing to the heavy frost we had in July; but we have plenty of the substantial of life and some to spare.

The Liverpool Conference.—Last evening we had the pleasure of meeting Elder W. R. Jones, of the 15th Ward, who was one of the missionaries who returned with the late immigrant company. He has been away from home engaged in the ministry since September 14th, 1880, on which day he started from this city. During the entire time of his stay in England he labored in the Liverpool Conference, first as Traveling Elder, and since last April as President of that field, having succeeded Elder John Donaldson in that position. He labored devotedly, preaching at every available opportunity, and the fruits of those efforts were additions to the Church in some portions of the Conference.

Perished in the Snow.—The Larimer Boomerang says that U. P. Conductor Peck, with his brother and three friends, went up to Creston from Rawlins on Friday afternoon, on a hunt. Toward evening Peck's companions returned to the station, but he declined to accompany them, saying he would hunt a little longer. Night came, and with it the storm. The wind blew a perfect hurricane, and the snow fell in sheets. Railroad men who were on the road in that section declare that it was the worst storm they ever experienced. This morning news of Peck's disappearance was telegraphed along the road, and as he had not reached any of the stations of that locality, a party of over a hundred men left Rawlins for Creston, to look for him. It is almost certain that he has perished in the storm. The country thereabouts is a perfect wilderness, and as he had on very light clothing and no overcoat the searchers did not expect to find him alive.

Wintering Bees.—The following may prove of benefit to apiculturists, of which Utah boasts a goodly number:

I had such good success in wintering my bees in clamps last winter that I shall bury at least 25 colonies the coming winter. Upon a dry, sandy hill I dug a trench six feet long, two feet wide, and two feet deep. This trench I filled with straw. I then laid sticks across the trench, and upon these sticks I placed the hives. The bottom boards of the hives were removed. I then built a pen of rails, and pieces of rails, around the hives. The space between the hives and the sides of the pen was about one foot. This space was filled with straw, and straw was also placed over the hives to the depth of one foot. Rails were then placed over the straw that covered the hives, and the whole pen was then covered with straw to the depth of one foot. Each was then thrown on to the depth of about 18 inches. No holes were left for ventilation.—Thus writes W. Z. Hutchings in Gleanings in Bee Culture.

Labors in England.—This morning we were called upon by Elder James Farmer, another of the missionaries returned from Great Britain. He is a resident of Monroe, Sevier County, and left this city for his field of labor on the 9th of November, 1880. He labored the first four months in Nottingham Conference, when he succeeded Elder John Cooper in the presidency of the Leeds Conference. He labored actively, and attained good success, having had the privilege of baptizing about seventy-five new members of the Church during his mission. He found the Saints warm hearted and kind, and reports the prospects of the work very encouraging in the neighborhood of Bradford and Leeds. Seven persons handed in requests for baptism about the time Elder Farmer was on the point of leaving for home. He purposes leaving for Monroe to-morrow morning.

Elders Joseph A. Smith and Willard Smith, brothers, both young men, from Coalville, are laboring with great diligence and good success in the Leeds Conference, giving promise of usefulness.

Magnificent Hotels.—That Salt Lake who visit the great National Park may know what kind of hotels they will stop at, we append the following from the Helena Herald:

The Yellowstone Hotel in the National Park is to contain 400 rooms. The ground floor will contain the office, museum, parlors, dining rooms, kitchen and laundries. The second and third stories will be devoted to reception and sleeping apartments. The building will be situated on a level plateau at the base of a mountain bluff, which stretches away skyward in the rear many hundreds of feet. The Mammoth Hot Springs, the waters of which are highly medicinal, will be utilized for heating the equally mammoth buildings, and thus are the phenomena of nature brought to serve the physical needs of man. Numerous bathing houses will be erected and supplied with the medicinal water, which has proven to contain great healing qualities. The Yellowstone Hotel is to be but one of twelve hotels in different parts of the Park, all to be built by the same syndicate, at an expenditure of $2,000,000, the first of which, the one already mentioned, will be rushed along this fall and the main building completed during the winter.

The British Premier and the "Mormons."—Some time since the dispatches stated that Mr. Gladstone, the English Premier, had been appealed to to secure interference on the part of the British government to prevent the Elders of the Church from prosecuting their missionary operations. It appears that the request came from a regularly organized anti-"Mormon" League, existing in the city of London, as will be seen from the following extract from Reynolds' Newspaper:

"At a meeting of the Anti-Mormon League, which was formed last year for the purpose of opposing the advocates of Mormonism in the metropolis, held recently, in Darnley's Assembly Rooms, Finsbury square, it was stated that a member of the league having written to Mr. Gladstone calling his attention to the fact that bands of Mormon missionaries visited England annually, deceiving away numbers of young persons to a life of immorality in Utah, and inquiring if the government could not do something to put a stop to the practice, the Premier has forwarded the following reply:

"10, Downing Street, Whitehall.
"Sir—Mr. Gladstone desires me to acknowledge the receipt of your communication relative to the practice of the Mormons to carry off young persons to Salt Lake City, and I am to say that he fears it is not a matter in which he can interfere. He presumes the young persons go voluntarily. He begs you will accept his thanks for your kind wishes. I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
E. W. HAMILTON."

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY, NOV. 15.

Deseret Hospital.—We are requested to state that at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Deseret Hospital, held on Monday, November 6th, Dr. Mattie Paul Hughes was appointed resident surgeon in place of Dr. Ellen B. Ferguson, resigned.

Useful Information.—The following may prove of use, in cases of emergency to explorers and others passing through some of the arid stretches of the Great West.

By thrusting the ends of green scrub wood—"mallee scrub"—in the fire, and catching the sap driven out at the other end in a bark trough, an Australian supplied himself with water and saved his life while crossing a waterless region. He says that a dozen mallee sticks, four feet long and two or three inches in diameter, would give a pint of water in an hour, and suggests that the same device may possibly be found of vital importance to other bush rangers and travelers in arid regions.

Worthy of Emulation.—During the past season, the Primary Associations of this Stake, being encouraged so to do by their presiding officers, donated a sufficient sum to emigrate from England two children, a boy and a girl, aged respectively 13 and 10 years. The children arrived with the last company of emigrants, and the little boy has found a home with Sister Jane Mollen, of Hyde Park, Superintendent of the Primary Associations of this State.

The emigration of these children is not by any means all the good that has been done in stimulating the children to donate for the purpose, but all the little ones who contributed have been taught a most useful and valuable lesson in liberality towards the poor Saints whom it is the duty of those in Zion to assist in gathering.—Logan Journal.

A Sad Case.—Some time ago we noted the fact that James Castleton of the Twenty-first Ward had been operated upon by Dr. W. F. Anderson. The surgeon removed a quantity of diseased bone from the skull of the patient, who has been a sufferer for about thirteen years. The operation afforded great relief for a time, but as the complaint which caused the decomposition of the bone is beyond the reach of human skill, the unfortunate man has again, for a considerable time been suffering indescribable agony, the pain being at times so exquisite as to overturn his mental balance. It is a case calculated to excite the strongest sympathy, its worst feature being that it is beyond hope of alleviation to any extent until death steps in to give relief. Mr. Castleton is about sixty years of age.

The Beef Question.—The days of cheap beef in Utah have departed, and the rise in prices is universal in every part of the country. The Scientific American offers the following reasons for the change:

"The reasons given for the current high price of beef are many. The winter of 1880-81 was exceptionally severe and heavy losses of stock were suffered on the great cattle ranges of the West. The drought of the ensuing summer acted not less unfavorably upon the smaller herds of the East. The hay crop was short, and the summer and fall pasturage failed over many States; so that farmers were forced to kill their young stock. In this way, we are told, the beef supply was diminished both in quantity and quality, leaving the demand for good beef far in advance of the supply. The exportation of nearly 200,000 cattle contributed still further to lessen the beef supply for home market. Advantage was taken of the situation by speculative dealers and combinations controlling millions of capital, and by local rings of butchers and marketmen, and the price of beef was thereby raised far above what it would have been in the ordinary course of trade.

The Idaho Election.—The Idaho Democrat of the 12th inst., has the following:

"The smoke of battle has lifted sufficiently to show that Ainslie, democratic nominee for Congress, has been defeated by from two to three thousand majority. The circumstances which brought about this unexpected and disastrous result we will not now discuss; but we will say that with the election of Singiser departs the hope of electing a democratic delegate for years to come, if ever again in our day. We will also say that with any other nominee placed in the field by the democrats the result would have been the same, so far as defeat is concerned, although Singiser's majority might have been reduced a trifle by some other opponent. The powerful combination of influences silently and irresistibly at work for months past, would have elected Singiser or any one else adopting his course, over any man in the Territory. The scheme of defeating the nominee refusing to take certain pledges was concocted in the east, fostered and fanned and licked into shape in Salt Lake City, and carried out by willing tools found in every county in the Territory. It was backed by two gigantic corporations—the Central Pacific in eastern and the Northern Pacific railroad company in Northern Idaho, and no available means could have checkmated it and averted the blow. Those prominent democrats who were induced to trail under Singiser's banner may possibly regret it before another year comes and goes, while a majority of the people who voted for him will more fully realize what they were deceived into doing and deeply regret it before the adjournment of the approaching legislative assembly. We can truthfully, at all events, bid good bye to a democratic delegate in congress with the expiration of Mr. Ainslie's term. The same power that elected Singiser will elect him again or another just like him at will.

The Wilmington (Del.) News says: J. E. Shaw Esq., proprietor Grand Union Hotel, New York, indorses St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism and neuralgia.

Without a Rival, and the reason is obvious after a trial of over a quarter of a century. No family should be without a supply of that good old remedy, Emil Frese's Celebrated Hamburg Tea. It is purely vegetable, mild, yet efficient in its action—carrying off all impurities from the system, and imparting a glow and vigor which only those who have used it can appreciate.

Those Complaining of Sore Throat, Hoarseness, or "taking cold," should use Brown's Bronchial Troches. The effect is extraordinary, particularly when used by singers and speakers for clearing the voice.

Satisfactory Evidence.
J. W. Graham, Wholesale Druggist, of Austin, Tex., writes: I have been handling Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the lungs for the past year, and have found it one of the most saleable medicines I have ever had in my house for Cough, Colds and even Consumption, always giving entire satisfaction. Please send me one gross by Saturday's steamer.
