Brief Notes.

MANTI, UTAH, May 22, 1895.—[illegible] report are at work boring a well from Ephraim to convey water to the camp. The contract is twelve miles. A pipe will be laid on the bed and when deep the water will be pumped to the circle. They will be set at work on the job next week. This camp is rapidly forging ahead and when the service is completed the town will make tremendous strides.

The Utah and Pacific Sales is developing and a large force of men are now in put up exceeding buildings and building other improvements.

The Salt Lake and Manti railway line and railroad [illegible] in Sanpete county are beginning to be the talk of [illegible].

Several other properties about the camp are developing and proving valuable to the owners.

Family and complete in the camp. The Manti company's power, capacity is made yet any where near [illegible] in [illegible].

Some pale thieves have been getting in their work at Cedar City. Mr. Clark, who has been staying with his daughter, Mrs. Seth Bailey, at Fremont, said, the last Friday, some time on Saturday, to this day some had been robbed of $ 40 of [illegible] money for [illegible]. Mr. John Dewey's house was robbed a short time ago and a lot of money, a [illegible] and [illegible] other articles were stolen. The parties who committed these depredations are supposed to be the same fellows that "held up" the sheriff of Iron county lately near Cedar, as they have been in and about Cedar City during the winter. Social and Other Notes.

PLEASANT GROVE, May 22, 1895.—

Two prominent weddings were solemnized in the Salt Lake Temple today. The contracting parties are Daniel Hanson Brown, youngest of the oldest living male son, and Miss Hannah Nielson, and Orson L. Hewlett, partner and superintendent of Thorne Bros. & Co's store here, and son of Bishop H. Hewlett, to Miss Nora Brown, daughter of Bishop John Brown. Both couples are worthy and highly respected young people and the best wishes of the community go out for their future happiness. Mr. Hewlett is the son of the late Lewis Hewlett, as well as being favorably known throughout Utah.

Ernest Smith, son of Joseph Smith, accidentally broke his arm today by being thrown off a wagon. The arm is being treated by Dr. H. M. Driggs.

Mr. Henry Clark presented his bride with a new home yesterday, the donor being in the "[illegible]." All congratulate kindly.

Howard H. Driggs was the recipient of a handsome dressing case by his schools at the close of school. The young man is quite popular with his pupils.

Arrangements have been made by the committee to hold the reunion for the old folks of Salt Lake county at this place. The date has not been given. D.

Memorial Day.

[illegible]

Those words of the poet apply with happy propriety to the fitful sunbeams which we annually place upon the graves of the heroes who fell in our great national struggle. Though the stroke of Father Time has with each recurring year been busy in reaping an ever-increasing increment to his immortal harvest, we can delight in honoring the nation's dead. The noble causes to which they pertained, for the cause that the victory of right always is synonymous in the end of its blood struggles. It matters, therefore, no trophy of victory over the mortal graves of those who gave up their lives in behalf of liberty and humanity. In every period in the world's history the reward of liberty is given national prominence has been rendered to a greater extent than it deserved before.

Place of decoration for yesterday last Tuesday. The regiment of the [illegible] dead. Took this duty sentiment one of fitness into many is evinced by the crowds who repair annually on Memorial day to lavish wreaths and crowns on the graves of those who gave up the ultimate sacrifice in the great struggle for liberty and strength. Year rolling years in their flight make an ever-increasing gap in the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic and kindred earlier organizations, and it, perhaps, some loved numbers are leaving from our side with wonderful rapidity, yet we are not yet prepared to see in imagine that those who were the last that wrapped their star, and crying words will continue to rally of their offspring and a recurring anniversary ever effective and [illegible].

Taking a review backward up to [illegible] of earlier years when we would enlist with affectionate zeal in the patriotic duties, when our glorious [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
