POLITICAL PABULUM.

Democrats Unable to Secure Envelopes For Their State Ticket.

MORE REPUBLICAN MEETINGS.

Democratic Municipal Parade and Ratification Takes Place In This City Tonight.

Considerable commotion was caused in Democratic circles today, when the various committees in charge of the campaign work, had the fact suddenly brought to their attention that they were without an extra supply of blue envelopes which the Utah Commission has designated shall be used in voting the state ticket at the coming election. There were but 25,000 in the city in addition to those furnished by the commission and the Republican managers were fortunate enough to secure all of them a week or more ago. The Democratic committee telegraphed east for more today but as they have to be made to order it is doubtful if they can be obtained before election day and the probabilities are that the Utah Commission will be asked to modify their "blue envelope" in order to permit the use of the other colors as well.

The Democratic municipal ticket will be ratified at Democratic headquarters tonight, when Hon. Francis Armstrong and the other city office nominees will speak.

DEMOCRATIC MUNICIPAL PARADE.

Following is the line of march for the Democratic municipal parade this evening as per order of the city committee and Joseph E. Cain, marshal:

LAID TO REST.

The Remains of Elder John E. Callister Consigned to Their Last Resting Place.

A vast concourse of friends and relatives assembled in the Seventh ward meeting house at 1 o'clock today, to pay a last tribute of respect to one whom they had learned to love—Elder John E. Callister—who departed this life very suddenly and unexpectedly last Friday evening.

The opening prayer was offered by Elder George C. Lambert and the congregation was addressed by Elders James Quayle, of Cache county, Joseph Bull Jr., H. W. Naisbitt, Angus M. Cannon and Bishop Thorn. The speakers all bore testimony to the high character of the deceased—whom to know was to love. He was not a sanctimonious man, nor yet a man of outward show, but greater than this, he was a man who had within him a heart full of friendship and love for his fellow man. He was a kind, indulgent father, and a loving husband, and had endeared himself to all who had been fortunate enough to have the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Appropriate music was rendered by the ward choir, and the house was decorated in a manner suitable to the occasion. The benediction was pronounced by Elder James C. Watson, after which a long train of vehicles filled with sorrowing relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place. Peace to his ashes.

FISHER HARRIS ILL.

Democratic Nominee For Secretary of State in a Very Critical Condition.

The friends of Fisher Harris, who are very numerous in all the walks of life, will be surprised and pained to learn that he is a very sick man and that he has been taken to St. Mary's hospital, where it is firmly hoped he will be able to secure the relief that could not be secured within the privacy of his own home. The result of his confinement and treatment will be watched in political and social circles in Utah with the gravest concern.

Mr. Harris is the Democratic nominee for secretary of state and for months past has been in poor health. Under the admonition and advice of his physician he has not engaged to any extent in a political canvass during the present campaign. A few days ago he appeared to be on the road to rapid and permanent recovery but unfavorable symptoms developed during the last forty-eight hours and he was accordingly sent to the hospital.

Special Train to Saltair.

The Salt Lake & Los Angeles Railway company have received a good many requests recently to run a special train to Saltair some day before the present spell of fine weather shall have given way to the chilly blasts of winter. In response to these requests a special train will be run out to the great bathing resort this season. The company positively announces that this will be the last opportunity to visit beautiful Saltair this season.

Returned from Wisconsin.

Elder Jens J. Jensen, of Provo, returned last Saturday from a mission in Wisconsin. He says the mission in which he labored is in good condition and that while during his stay there he had to walk a little over 5,000 miles to fulfil his duties, he had an enjoyable time, and made many friends. Brother Jensen baptized eleven persons while on duty in Wisconsin. Last year there were fifteen emigrants from that state, some of whom are located in this city and some at Spanish Fork.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

On November 2nd, Trilby will be at Theater for a matinee and evening performance with the same cast of characters as seen here before.

At the Grand the Galley Slave is the bill for this week, commencing tonight. This should prove a drawing attraction in view of the excellent work at the Grand.

The Ironmaster has two more evenings to run at the Lyceum. On Wednesday, Jim the Penman will be presented, with Mr. Hickman as Louis Percival and Miss Dwyer as Mrs. Ralston.

Returned Home.

Elder Albert J. Sears, of this city, returned Saturday, October 26, from a mission to England, for which field of labor he left on August 28, 1893. Together with his wife, he accompanied the Tabernacle choir to Chicago and then continued his journey to Europe. He has been laboring in the London conference and reports encouraging results of his work there. He has met many people willing to listen to his message of peace, and has enjoyed splendid health during his absence.

Notes from Kansas.

[St. John, Kansas, News, Oct. 25.]

Elder H. C. Anderson, of the Latter-day Saints' Church, is slightly under the weather, but we trust he will soon be ready for duty again.

Elder Henry Kirkman, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the gentleman referred to in these columns a couple of weeks ago, as an extra fine organist, came in from the Indian Territory Tuesday last and will labor in this field hereafter. Although Mr. Kirkman was not expected for a couple or three weeks yet, his friends were glad to welcome him.

The new organ for the Church of of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will arrive from Chicago the latter part of this or the first part of next week. It is a Kimball organ, and one of the finest make, of the chapel model, containing five full sets of reeds and several other of the latest improvements; also, case of finest workmanship, and without doubt the most handsome and best instrument of the kind in this county. It will be greatly appreciated by both members and patrons of the Church.

Elder W. D. Bowring, secretary of the Indian Territory mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, with headquarters in this city, has returned from Salt Lake City, Utah, Wednesday last, to which place he accompanied Elder Vincent, a sick brother of the Church. Mr. Bowring was also taken sick during the meeting and dedication of the church, lying some time in bed, and the trip was in part for the benefit of his health. We are happy to say he returns to the field of his labor much improved by the trip.

Marriage License.

Richard Jensen, of Vernal, Uintah county, 25, and Miss Eva May Pitt, of the same place, 21, were given a license to wed.

A TRIP TO SALT LAKE CITY.

Mr. Hayda Evans's Story of the Journey.

Incidents of the Great Eisteddfod—Courtesies Shown to the Adjudicators from Scranton—The Tabernacle Choir Recollections of the World's Fair—Interview With Mormon Elders.

The following appreciative letter concerning Salt Lake City and the recent Eisteddfod, from the pen of Mr. Hayden Evans, appears in the Scranton, Pa., Republican of Saturday, Oct. 19.

With expectations high for a pleasant time, Messrs. J. T. Watkins, T. J. Lewis and myself set out for the interesting trip to Salt Lake City. Our anticipations were more than realized and our trip turned out to be a very enjoyable one. We left Scranton Friday evening, Oct. 27, and reached Chicago at 9 p.m. the following evening. We spent Saturday night and Sunday in Chicago. Sunday we could not resist the temptation of visiting the old battle ground of '93, where we experienced so much pleasure. It seems such a pity that all those beautiful buildings should have been destroyed, the only one of any account left standing is the Art building. It is almost impossible even to locate the site of the fine structures which made up the beautiful World's Fair grounds.

All we have left of the White City is the memory of it, which will last a lifetime with those who saw it. After looking over the grounds we strolled down Sixty-fourth street to the Hotel Lamont (the headquarters of the Choral union during the World's Fair contest) and found it had been turned into "flats." The sight of the place brought back memories of the first week of September, 1893, for here we spent our anxious, and, finally, our happy days. The picture of the night when the Choral union won stood out vividly, and I could see the happy and familiar faces around me. I could not help being thrilled with the memory of the event. Sunday evening we left via the Burlington for Denver. This journey of 1,020 miles is very monotonous, nothing but dreary plains, with an occasional town which looked as if it had been deserted years before. Arriving at Denver at 8 a.m. Tuesday, we were surprised at seeing a choir from that place boarding the same train as ourselves and bound for Salt Lake City, where they entered the competition. They were very pleasant and agreeable companions for us during the remainder of the trip. We entered the Royal Gorge about 4 p.m., after passing the springs, Pike's Peak, Pueblo and several other interesting points along the route. The scenery was beyond description, the cliffs towering far above us, the snow capped mountains, and the rising of the grade, until we reached Leadville. Here we were over 10,000 feet above sea level. Before leaving home we were cautioned about the lightness, or thinness, of the air, and to be careful at this elevation. The only feeling I had was that of intense hunger. Messrs. Davis and Watkins were in this respect a surprise to the western people. The balance of the journey to Salt Lake was simply a succession of beautiful scenes. We arrived at Salt Lake City Wednesday at 1:20 p.m., and were surprised to find the station thronged with the representatives of the Eisteddfod and their friends. Carriages were in waiting with two fine bands to escort the whole company into town. We had the honor of occupying the first carriage with Gov. West and ex-Gov. Thomas. The rest of that day was spent in sightseeing, renewing our old Chicago acquaintances and making many new ones.

THE EISTEDDFOD.

Thursday morning was given over to the preliminary contests on the soprano, tenor, contralto and piano solos. The work on all was good, with the exception of the tenor solo.

The afternoon session opened with the band contest, two entered, and both played remarkably well. We had not expected to hear such renditions. An amusing incident occurred in connection with this, as the competition began before the adjudicators were in the hall. The reason of this, I believe, was the poor light in the building. The conductor could not see whether we were there or not, but took it for granted that we were, as it was past time for commencing the meeting. However, when we came in they very graciously consented to play again. In most eisteddfods this would have caused a half hour's wrangle, but not so here, everything went along without a ripple. The other musical contests of the afternoon were the Ladies quartette, tenor or contralto solo, musical composition, and "The Summer," by Gwent. Competitions were all good excepting the ladies' quartette (two entries and neither worthy of the prize) and the tenor solo.

Thursday evening the competitions for this session were ladies' chorus, male quartette, soprano solo, piano solo, and male chorus. These contests were very interesting, both the male and female choruses doing splendid work. In the piano contest the entries were all young ladies under sixteen years of age (judging from a distance of 200 feet). The work of each one who entered being creditable, many of them displaying considerable merit as to technique, tone, time and expression.

The last session of Friday evening opened with an address in "American-Welsh" by Governor West. The governor made a great point especially in the final when he wound up with our old familiar cry, "Cymru am byth," but had to call for assistance. The contests for the session were: Baritone solo, soprano and tenor duet, harp contest and the final contest, mixed choral $500 prize. The baritone competition brought out two unusual good voices. In the chief contest there were four choirs, two from Salt Lake City, one from Ogden and one from Denver. One of the Salt Lake choirs took first prize and Denver took second. The choral work was good and proves that in this line the West has a bright future before it. The Eisteddfod was interesting in far more than one point. The courtesy shown to us as the judges, by the committee, the audience, the people in general, and also the contestants is something very pleasant to remember.

This was the largest Eisteddfod ever held in America excepting at the World's Fair. The average attendance was estimated to be about 11,000 at each session. It was a pleasure to us as Welsh men to note the prominence and popularity of the young Welsh men. Among the young men who are forging ahead is Mr. John James who was the general secretary of the Eisteddfod. Too much cannot be said of his work and ability, the successful issue of the great Eisteddfod in which we played so prominent a part, proves him to be a man of unlimited executive power.

The people are well bent on making our stay as pleasant and as long as possible. Saturday afternoon we were taken for a trip to Salt Lake, a beautiful summer resort, eighteen miles from the city.

Saturday evening a concert was held in the Tabernacle, all the successful competitors participating. It was a pleasant summing up of the interesting sessions. The concert over, the Salt Lake City band honored us with a serenade at the hotel.

Sunday morning ex-Governor Thomas took us to one of the city parks. We gathered much information from him about the historical and geographical features and resources of Utah. In the evening we dined with ex-Governor Thomas and spent a delightful evening with him and his family.

Among the interesting points to be seen about the city are the court house (which is one of the finest in the West), the Tabernacle and the club house. We were fortunate in being shown over the latter by Governor West. Sunday evening we attended services in the Tabernacle and were enabled to hear the great Tabernacle choir, a truly magnificent organization. Monday (our last day) was crowded with engagements. The forenoon Mr. Evan Stephens took us for a drive over the city and surroundings, and the close of the afternoon found us invited down to dinner with Mr. Stephens as host.

Mr. Stephens, as most of our people here know, was conductor of the Salt Lake choir which took the second prize at the World's Fair Eisteddfod. I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Stephens both before and after the contest at Chicago and it was a great pleasure to renew our short acquaintance in the west and at his home. I know of no man who is more devoted to his work and to his people. His influence is felt not only in Salt Lake City but throughout the entire territory.

Monday afternoon we had a pleasant interview with Presidents Woodruff, G. Q. Cannon, and Joseph F. Smith, and other prominent men connected with the Mormon church.

We regretted very much leaving Salt Lake City and her people. Our stay had been for less than a week but those few days are among the most delightful ones we have ever spent.
