The Labor Trust Meeting.

The Labor Trust meeting last night was largely attended and enthusiastic speech making and demonstrations were the order. In the matter of organization and show of public officials there was an evident attempt to make the gathering a sort of Boyle-Stubbs-Gibson affair. Mayor Baskin was nominated as the first man to sit with officers in the chair, and the memory of Wm. Jennings Bryan was thrown to the winds when he was called to the chair by a vote of the meeting. The first man to speak on the little piece was "Governor" McMillan, who read a "Proclamation" against which he objected. A petition which it was proposed to present to the City Council was read asking that it be discontinued to reduce wages of laborers from $2 to $1.75 be recommended, it also protested against the wages the gravely were not paid in lieu of paying in their work. Then a resolution was adopted asking that the Council change its course with reference to completing the sewer. That was work that could be dispensed with. Two resolutions were adopted. Then Boyle and Jones, of Salt Lake, Hoover, of Ogden, Mr. Morrow, spoke in the older words. A motion was carried unanimously to the effect that they visit the Council in a body this evening and present their cause. A committee to draw the memorary resolutions were appointed in the persons of Henry, Boyle, Wilcox, Howard and Riley.

Military Matters at Morgan.

General Stringer has returned from Morgan, where he organized Company I of the Utah National Guard. The new company has a membership of 40 men. The officers are as follows: Captain, Thomas Wadsworth; first lieutenant, M. J. Harrington; second lieutenant, Fred S. White.

In Morgan as elsewhere in the Territory, the military spirit has taken possession of the young men and they are greatly pleased with their organization.

Snowflake Stake Conference.

At 10 a. m. of May 27, 1894, in the stake house, at Snowflake, the regular quarterly conference of the Snowflake Stake of Zion convened, and was called to order by President of Stake Jesse N. Smith. Each of the Stake presidency was present, the majority of the High Council, Bishops of the various wards, quite a number of visiting Saints from St. Johns Stake, and a very goodly number of the Saints from the adjacent settlements.

The conference continued in session during Sunday and Monday, May 27th and 28th, holding two regular meetings each day, besides a very interesting and instructive Priesthood meeting held in the evening of the 27th.

The speakers were the Stake presidency, Elders J. N. Smith, L. H. Hatch and J. H. Richards; Patriarch Paul Smith; Elders Chas. Stowe, J. W. Smith and A. J. Rendell; also Elders David Pulsipher, Chas. Jarvis and C. I. Kemp of the St. Johns Stake. General good feelings and moderate prosperity were reported in general in the Stake. General and local Church authorities unanimously sustained by the vote of the conference.

A board of trade was appointed to watch the temporal interests of the people, which action, it is believed, will prove of great benefit to this locality.

On Sunday afternoon the sacrament was administered; and all seemed to enjoy the influences of the good spirit. The people were urged to live their religion more strictly; also to throw every available legal protection around their temporal interests; especially to incorporate their irrigation companies in accordance with the requirements of the laws of the land, and make every reasonable effort to obtain title to the lands they occupy and improve.

Missionaries in Mississippi.

The following is extracted from a private letter from Elder Angus K. Nicholson, written at Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, June 11th, 1894:

"Last Sunday my companion (Elder Hendricksen) and I took services at the house of Mr. John Bordis, a very staunch and amiable friend, residing in the locality of Bay St. Louis. A large and sympathetic audience assembled at the place of meeting. I addressed the people first, dwelling upon the theme of the necessity of present revelation and the functions of the Holy Spirit. Elder Hendricksen followed in a peculiarly explanation of some of the distinctive tenets of our faith. The spirit of God was poured out in strength upon the people, and after the services, Mr. and Mrs. Bordis took a share unto Mrs. Hendricksen and myself in addition into the Church and Kingdom of our Lord.

"On the spring banks of a very broad and beautiful river, which bears the name of the sacred stream where Jesus was baptized, a group of seven fifty persons assembled. Upon some clean and secluded, or we may say one of the solemn spots, contrary to the warmth of Lattermay Saints, I then administered them to a short time upon the nature and effect of their change of heart, and Elder Hendricksen confirmed, kindly the same rather, the companion then as the time gave prompting into the waters and received them into the fold of our Lord and Savior.

"The onward march of the Lord's cause, though it has through a labyrinth of prejudice and seemingly insurmountable difficulties, is sure and certain as the star star. Ministers of the early, when dwelling the 'Mormon' Elders are the broad plain of religious jealousies, soon vagrancy and hostility to truth in that sense or later burst asunder political supineness and regaining most always stand beneath the invincible mask of divines utility and truth. The shouts of darkness and superstition with which a benighted and blinding generation has for decades endeavored the disciples of Christ and salvation, are beginning to wax feeble, and the shouts of gone rabbinism—modified and unperverted, which are sent forth by the Elders of Israel cannot but have a dim, mellow and grange of effect. E'ends for are persuaded that the venom of light and certainly will have a mellow result in this generation, because of the widespread doubt and dissatisfaction which at present seem to permeate the very hearts of Christendom. May God grant that the seed we may have power to awaken the people from the deep religious apathy that wraps the world into unconsciousness, and let the light of the Gospel by practice thus shine, that they be saved, rising and towards in the great and dreadful day of the Lord."

Sale of Levi Savage.

The well known pioneer, C. R. Savage, of this city, received the following letter this morning addressed to Postmaster Nash, and written from Silverwood, Fremont county, Indiana, under date of June 15th:

Mr. Postmaster—Do you know of any people by the name of Savage living in or near Salt Lake City? If so please inquire and find out if they are of my kindred, and if so, whereabouts people. My uncle, Levi Savage, moved to Salt Lake a long time ago and I have not heard from him for 50 years. The reason I am inquiring. Our ancestors in one a large estate has been left by a new country lawyer, and the inhabitants are out with the lawyer now. My father was born in the neighborhood where the estate is located.

By answering this you will greatly oblige.

LEVI SAVAGE.

Mr. C. R. Savage is to be my client in the family in question, but was well acquainted with Mr. Levi Savage, who was a member of the Mormon Battalion and came to this city about 1848. He resided in the Ninth ward for a long period and moved to Weber about twenty years ago and died at that place some time afterwards. He raised a large family and has some living at Wilson, in the Weber and in southern Utah.
