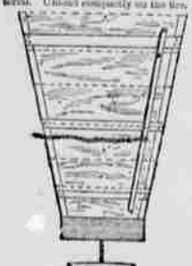
A BRUSH BOAT.

How to Load, Unload and Burn Brush with Least Exposure and Labor.

For removing large accumulations of brush from orchards and elsewhere the brush boat depicted here and recently described in Rural New Yorker will be found exceedingly convenient.

This boat is made of two ordinary small boat planks, placed with the rear ends about eight feet apart and the front ends about four feet. The latter are fastened together by a 3-inch plank a foot or eighteen inches wide and of the proper length, bolted to the curved portion, and there are three lengths of 4 by 4 scantling, one at the rear, one at the front and one at the center, and raised to clear the ground about six or eight inches. Upon these nail a covering of rough boards, and with a hook chain bolted to the center of the plank at the front end, by which the vehicle is to be drawn, the boat is completed. In loading the brush continuous at the rear end, it can project considerably if a little pains are taken to bind it with that in front, the load being kept somewhat in the shape of the boat. The easiest way to dispose of the brush is to burn it as drawn. There is no difficulty in burning green brush if a good fire is started at first with any old rubbish or dry material. Unload compactly on the fire.



A HORSE BARN BRUSH BOAT.

To do this before commencing the load, place on one side of the boat a stiff pole or rail, with a chain attached to the center, and load on this, and when the load is drawn to the fire, to the other end of this chain is attached another sufficiently long to pass over the load and the fire. Then the team is uncoupled from the boat and hitched to the end of the chain, and the team goes ahead, and with proper judgment the load is placed directly on the burning pile better than it could be done by hand, and in a very short time and in the best possible condition for burning. On such a boat can be placed all any team should draw, and more than would be placed on a wagon, and the device being low, the load is out of the way of standing trees, and can be much more conveniently put on and taken off.

Non-Sitting Breeds.

A well known authority on poultry writes:

The question of breeds is one over which very many battles are fought. I purpose simply to state the merits of those which I have kept or of which I have personal experience, without going further into the subject. Much depends, naturally, on where the fowls are to be kept. I have long, narrow pens, which are not big enough to keep in grass, and are therefore suitable for the fowls that bear confinement well. My other yards are each the sixth of an acre in extent and sown to grass. For the young birds there is an acre of grass, divided across the middle, and therefore not all need at once.

The non-sitting breeds I keep and find successful are black and golden spangled Hamburgs, which are not only beautiful birds, but incessant layers. The only drawback is that there eggs are small and white, which color has characteristic of the eggs of non-sitting breeds. For the table the Hamburgs are too small, but have a flavor like the game fowl, and the golden spangled birds are, in fact, more like pheasants, both to look at and to eat, than ordinary fowls. Crossed with any large bird, such as Dorking or Rock, an excellent table bird is produced.

Leghorns, either white or brown, may also be recommended as perpetual layers. These stand confinement well, while the Hamburgs, if closely shut up, need more attention. My own golden Hamburgs bear confinement very well, but no doubt, as a rule, Leghorns are better for small pens.

The term "perpetual" layers must be taken with reservations. No fowls lay, or should be encouraged to lay, during the molting season; but, roughly speaking, these non-sitting breeds may be said to lay steadily, if pullets—which always begin at such a time—be hatched early, say ten months of the year. If hens, these can't be depended on for more than eight months. I have found Andalusians also excellent layers of large white eggs, and these are, besides, non-sitters and larger birds for the table, though not nearly as good table birds. Of the sitting breeds I will write another time.

Improvement in Surgical Dressing.

A new material, which has been named "Chlorin," has been introduced for surgical dressings. It is a membrane-like tissue, made by a process of felting the pure fiber of the manilla hemp. It is very light and strong, impermeable to water, spirits of all kinds, oils and acids. It is made neutral, so that it can be rendered antiseptic with any desired medicament. It will stand tropical heat and arctic cold without being injuriously affected by the changes.

It is particularly adapted for India and other hot climates, where gutta-percha tissue and oiled silk become in short time amalgamated to such an extent as not only to be useless to the surgeon but injurious to anything with which they come in contact. In view of the fact that both oiled silk and gutta-percha tissue have been discarded by the government of the United States, England, France, Denmark and Norway in consequence of their impracticability, there is a large field for the new material, another advantage of which is that it is only about half the price of oiled silk.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK! STOP IT NOW, SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled every morning with Pressure of the kidneys and have tried almost innumerable remedies and have sought aid from different specialists without relief. About the 20th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bed ridden. When I got up I was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when I had Prostration sent by Hansen, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, in my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and in the minute history of all the pills in the hotel, in a few days, I was entirely free from pain, that I was a new man. I would recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

WHAT IS A GUARANTEE?

Many merchants and salesmen are in the habit of indiscriminately "guaranteeing" their wares with no thought of being called upon to make the "guarantee" good. It is a pernicious and foolish custom more respected in the breach than in the observance.

A guarantee, to have any value, should be made with knowledge of the meaning of the word and a set purpose to carry out the terms of the guarantee. On fine ranges the makers instruct us to warrant, and we replace any tool found imperfect in use.

We have used our best judgment, acquired by a considerable experience, in selecting the following items for our stock and sell them to our customers with an absolute guarantee that if they do not prove to be all that we represent them, we will refund the purchase money in full.

"Jewel" Steel Range. A finished article, perfectly proportioned, made of the best material. Don't fail to see it. It will pay you.

"Quick Meal" No Generator, Evaporating. Light it as you do your gas burner. No smell. No danger. No complication. Every objection to the use of a Gasoline Stove done away with. Think of the discomfort attend in Summer by kindling the heat of a big Kitchen Range.

"Superior" Cooks and Ranges. Superior as bakers. Superior in economy of fuel. Superior in design. Superior in construction. Superior in everything that goes to make a perfect cooking apparatus.

The "Fonte Refrigerator." An ice saver. A Health promoter. Cellular stone lined. What is that? Investigate it. It will more than repay you.

Our stock of Builders' Hardware, House Furnishings, Garden Hose, Lawn Sprinklers, Lawn Mowers, etc., is complete in every detail.

E. C. COFFIN HARDWARE CO., Progress Building.

GRANITE IRONWARE is more than a luxury—it is a necessity. It is clean, healthy, handy and neat; there is as much difference between it and tinware, as between a china and a tin cup. It is cheap, because it lasts, and it is always nice. Every good housewife should use it, and those who once try it won't have anything else. It is the best ware made for the Kitchen. Cook Book and Price List Free on application. Be sure to mention this paper. Manufactured only by the ST. LOUIS STAMPING CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

ECLIPSE! IN A FIRST SOUTH ECLIPSE!

The general verdict is that the Eclipse Grocery and Fruit Company carry the very best goods in their line to be found anywhere in the city, and that, coupled with the courteous treatment and obliging manners of their salesmen, make it one of the most attractive places of business in town. We invite our friends and the public generally to call and see for themselves.
