MILITARY MATTERS.

Official Certification and Announcement of Yesterday's Choices.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON FEB. 8th.

Captain Sneder, Company H, Will Probably be Chosen Major, First Battalion, First Infantry.

National Guard headquarters presented a scene of intense business activity today.

Early this morning Adjutant General Dickinson and Lieutenant Lowder provided themselves with no end of sheets of ink, pens and paper, and their top floor, notwithstanding the extreme coldness within outside, permeated and hangs about the executive building on account of considerable heating facilities, and commenced to write and they write all day. At place time Lieutenant Lowder had written cramp, but not so with General Dickinson who developed a genuine case of another cerebral and was still grinding away with no indications of immediate cessation.

The occasion for this extra amount of quill work was yesterday's election for field officers. A neither copy of the result was yet out in writing for each captain in the guard in both regiments. Besides the special orders for another election were drawn up and these will all be sent out with tonight's mail to the militia organizations of all parts of the Territory. A copy of each is appended below.

More pronounced than ever was the regret today that yesterday's election was not definite in its results. The members of the First Regiment are extremely sorry that they were not more decided in the part they took in the contest. They realize now in a manner that very could not thoroughly appreciate before that the loss of the morning under is to the nature of a very unfortunate, crude and unprofessional.

In talking about among the National Guard today and making inquiry as to who would likely be chosen major of the First Battalion of the First Infantry at the special election, a News representative found that Captain H. A. Sneden, company H, (Farmington) was a strong favorite. He is a member of the law and a commander of ease in trying circumstances, together with a presence that is unswerving, are strong elements that will make him a hard man to beat should he decide to enter the race.

THE SPECIAL ADJUTANT GENERAL'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 1, 1895.

Headquarters National Guard of Utah, General orders No. 2.

1. At the election held pursuant to general orders No. 3, series 1894, from those commissioned officers in the one thirty of the following named field officers:

To be colonel, First Infantry, Henry Pepe, Salt Lake City; to be lieutenant colonel, First Infantry, A. H. Dennison; Provo to be major, Second Battalion, First Infantry, W. E. Beatty, Tooele; to be major Third Battalion, First Infantry, Orlando Stevens, Mt. Pleasant; to be major First Battalion, Second Infantry, H. W. Erwin, Logan.

2. A majority of the votes cast not having been received by any one candidate, either in the First Battalion, First Infantry, or in the Battalion First Cavalry, a second election will be necessary.

By order of the commander-in-chief.

O. M. DICKINSON,
Adjutant General.

SPECIAL ELECTION CALLED.

Headquarters National Guard of Utah,
SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 1, 1895.

Special orders No. 3.

1—In the election for field officers held pursuant to No. 3 series, 1894, from the Adjutant General's office, the First Battalion, First Infantry, and the Battalion First Cavalry, each failed to elect a major, a second election is hereby made necessary in those cases. Ballots for major for each of these battalions will be forwarded by the Adjutant General, Salt Lake City, so as to reach him not later than 12 o'clock noon on February 8th, 1895.

Attention is invited to the following clause in art. 28, Military Code: "It is also a duty of all state officers at an election when its necessary to a choice."

2—Company H, First Infantry (Tooele), Company M, First Infantry (Provo), Company K, Second Infantry (Logan), will each hold an election on Saturday, February 16th, or as soon thereafter as practicable, to fill vacancies existing among the commissioned officers. Major W. E. Beatty, Lieutenant Colonel J. H. Dunkelberger and Major H. W. Erwin will appointed these elections respectively at Tooele, Provo and Logan.

3—The resignation of First Lieutenant B. M. Shields, company E, First Infantry, is accepted, to take effect Jan. 31st, 1895.

4—Leave of absence for three months, with permission to leave the United States, is granted Captain Robert H. Cogan, Second Infantry, to take effect at such a date as he shall notify the adjutant general as necessary for his business interests.

A Double Runaway.

A team attached to an empty coal wagon started from the Telephone building shortly before noon today and for some minutes afterwards made things lively in that vicinity. State street was abandoned to the frightened animals by Social Hall alley, down which they dashed the greater part of its length, turned around, emerged into Main street, narrowly escaping a collision with Dr. White's buggy, starting a delivery outfit belonging to the Ryan & Tea Co. into a runaway and then spilling the perfumes by a smaller scared with a telephone pole opposite Peter Christensen and Jennings's entrance on South Temple street. The Ryan & Tea runaway stuff was wrecked on the street car track just south of the Eagle Gate, the horse trotting home and leaving the wagon behind.

AMUSEMENTS.

JULIUS CESAR.—The Wards and James engagement at the theater closed last evening with an admirable presentation of Julius Cæsar. The grand old tragedy, familiar as it is to theatergoers, can always be relied on to fill the house when it is presented by players of any sort of capability, and last night's audience, while not so large as that drawn by Henry IV, and while it was heavier there than below, was a very handsome one, and one motion in behalf of three ex-deputy sheriffs who had served under the late Sheriff Dyer, was filed by Judge Dey, at whose request judgment in the case was made with Donnan Attorney Judd was temporarily postponed.

THE ELLERSON MIDGLEY SUIT.

Judge Merritt devoted the remainder of the day's session to hearing the case of H. M. Ellerson vs John G. Midgley et al, Bennett & Richards and Judge Hunt appearing for the plaintiff; Day & Street and Attorney J. H. Moyle for the defendants.

The case comes up on an order to show cause why temporary restraining order having been granted at the time the suit was filed.

In his complaint the plaintiff alleges various wrongful acts on the part of the defendants in regard to the issuance of certain permanent stock, etc. He prays that the defendant Lindsay be restrained from transferring 200 shares of stock, or from voting it on January 15th or any other time; that Farrell, Midgley, Asaiah and Green be restrained from selling any additional stock, or from interfering with him (plaintiff) in the discharge of his duties as manager, and that the issuance and sale of the 200 shares of stock to Wilson be declared illegal and void.

The particulars of the dispute were given fully in these columns at the time of the filing of the suit on January 7th, and are the answers of the defendants show them.

MINING SUIT FILED TODAY.

Allegations of Conspiracy Made by Certain Stockholders.

Wm. T. Wyman, R. Charles Barton, J. W. Chandler, O. J. Miller, Warren Rogers and O. C. Chandler this afternoon brought a suit in equity in the Third district court against Tom Ferguson, Wm. Campbell, C. M. Freed, L. M. Haney, E. G. Dawes and the Sheep Rock Mining & Milling Co., alleging conspiracy against the defendants for the purpose of injuring the plaintiffs and others as stockholders, and themselves obtaining the whole control and management of the company. Plaintiffs pray that the defendants Ferguson and Campbell be appointed and sworn city and treasurer of the company respectively, be perpetually enjoined from carrying out their alleged conspiracy—from offering or disposing of certain treasury stock belonging to the company or issuing the same; that the defendant Brown be enjoined from acting as a director, and that pending the final determination of the suit a temporary injunction issue against all the defendants.

A temporary restraining order has been granted and the plaintiffs undertaking bond fixed at $1,000.

Press Notes and Personals.

The Territorial Insane Asylum has had a complete system of telephones put in connecting the various departments of the institution. The work was done by the Inter-Mountain Electric Co. of Salt Lake City.

W. H. Wilson, of Lake Shore, and D. W. Thomas, of Leon, Utah county, members of the Utah Land commission, went to Salt Lake City today for the purpose of meeting with the Salt Lake county commissioners. Offices of the commission will be located and other business transacted.

H. M. Eaton came down this morning and disposed of some property under a trust deed.

A. W. Fox, representing M. H. Wells & Co., of Chicago, is in the city on his way south.

Kate Putnam is billed to appear in the Opera House in a Little Maverick Thursday, February 7th.

The case of N. S. Sandford vs Thos. J. Sullivan came up before Commissioner Dailey yesterday on defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's attachment on defendant's stock of goods in Clear Creek, this county. After hearing evidence in the case the commissioner decided that the attachment was valid.

The Brigham Young Academy library is increasing rapidly through the liberal contributions of local residents, who are very generous in this matter. Scarcely a day passes without some valuable books being forwarded to the institution from the private libraries in the city. Now comes a letter from the American Book Company of Chicago informing the principal, Prof. B. Cluff Jr., that duplicate books have been forwarded to the company, with its compliments, to the academy.

A letter was given to one of the young gentlemen of Salt Lake City who has been employed at the theater replete pulling in electric lights, by one of the inmates, F. Dicks, of Kingsburg, with the request repeat that he deliver it to Governor Wolcott. The note is made up of pieces of newspapers and pasted on brown paper.

CALMED BY SLEEPPHEET.

HOW A CHEROKEAN HAD HIS FEARS ALLAYED IN A STORM.

A good story is told of a third cabin man just arrived from a trip across, says the Kansas News. Coming home the weather was strikingly temperate. The wind blew a hurricane, the vessel rolled and the passengers took fright. He left his stateroom and staggered along to the office of John Kavanaugh, the purser, who is a bit of a wag, and said:

"I'm sorry, Mr. Purser, you'll pardon me, but I feel so strangely agitated. Kindly inform me, are we in any positive danger?"

Kavanaugh replied: "Come with me a moment," and he led the way to the Cherokee. "Now," continued he, "just protect yourself here and tell me what you hear."

The sailors were swearing in their hearty sea-way, nonsensical way.

"How shocking! what language!" groaned the person, trembling from head to foot.

"Now do you not a moment think that some sailor would go in to that poor lady if there was any real danger?" asked the consoling Kavanaugh.

"Then, then," replied the person, somewhat calmed by the assurance, "this may sometimes pleck the sweet flower of comfort I am the wife clerk of the. The wave I Providence are indeed inscrutable," and back he crawled to his room in a degree reassured.

Two hours later the storm had increased to hurricane, the wind raged and howled more wildly, the crest waves broke over and seemed to submerge the great ship. The person was out of his room again, but looked than before, and was more slightly, perceptibly hysterical. He was pacing back and forth in the corridor. He was deadly pale and trembled with excitement. He listened. The sailors were cursing and a terrific oath with still the air was heard on deck.

"Thank heaven," murmured he. "They are still at it. They still blaspheme. There is no danger yet, the Lord be praised!"

Why Men Should Marry.

It was clearly meant that all men, as well as all women, should marry and those who, for whatever reason, miss this serious duty are, from nature's point of view, failures. It is not a question of personal comfort (which is with most out of the may—more than probably), but of mere commonsense. The unmarried man is a stubble, who, in order to secure his own ease, leaves some woman, who has a rightful claim upon him, to subsist. And in so doing he defends himself of the opportunities to marrid and moral development which only the normal exercises can provide. He deliberately starts the starve of his manhood, impoverishes his heart and brain, and chokes up all the easiest possibilities of his soul. To himself he is high in regard the man who has done exactly the thing though he is ever so carefully tailored, and allows to surrender his liberty for the sake of an income equivalent of rags, which may save all he is worth, stuffed with sawdust; while, as a matter of fact, his case is that of a cowardly servant in the parable, who, for fear of losing his talent, and it is a tragedy, and in the end was deemed unworthy of his stewardship.—North American Review for February.

LITERARY NOTE.

General Lord Wolseley makes a most impartial contribution to the literature of the China-Japan war. In an article for the February Contemporary he discusses the situation and does not hesitate to saying what China must do in his emergency. Two other noted foreign authors are under interesting articles contributed by Emile Hayet, the famous Parisian diplomat, gives the history of the Italy, and Emile Olivier tells the story of the fall of Louis Philippe. From every part of the world, drawings and photographs have been collected of the instruments used to torture and humanity, and appear as illustrations for a short article, by John Hawthorne, entitled "Strangled Via the Rack." Mrs. Hagland de Kowa, Amelie Fraser, W. Clark Russell, Arthur W. Tourgee and William Dean Howells are among the story writers for the February number of the Cosmopolitan.

Bill Vetoed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The President today vetoed the Senate bill No. 2333 entitled "An act granting to Uinta valley, Grand and Du Chesne Railroad company right of way through Ouray Indian reservation in the territory of Arizona." The reason given for the veto is that there tribes have heretofore caused trouble and had to put the national troops into their lands and such troops may consider new outbreaks.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JANE PARLEY.

Died in Round Valley ward, Salt Lake Stake of Zion, of pneumonia and general debility, on January 8, 1895, Jane Parley. Deceased was born at Hinckleyford, Hants, England, November 26, 1826; was baptized and confirmed by Elder William Hodges April 21, 1850, emigrated with her husband and children to New York in 1856, thence to Iowa City, Iowa county, in 1857, thence to Round Valley, Utah county, in 1859, and to Lake Town precinct and ward, in 1875, and resided there until her decease. She leaves seven sons and one daughter, and quarterly, the daughter residing at Stockton, being the only absentee. Said that through sickness from her former services, which were bold and largely attended at the Lake Town meeting house, Bishop William Gunnell, Joseph Irons and Bishops Ira Nebeker and Isaac L. Pope made suitable complimentary remarks. The general feeling was one tribute to her love and longing to the Gospel. She expressed so many years since and she was ready, her earthly tabernacle, to the Lord, and that "Blessed are they who die in the Lord," etc.
