

PRESIDENT TAFT GREETES JAPANESE

He Bids Members of Commercial Mission to United States a Hearty Welcome.

DRANK TOAST TO EMPEROR

Was Very Happy, Gracious and Docile in Meeting and Exchanging Greetings With Party.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19.—President Taft today met the 50 members of the Japanese commercial mission to the United States. He bade them a hearty welcome, assured them of the lasting friendship of the American people, praised their qualities of industry and patriotism and in conclusion drank a toast to the emperor of Japan as "the warm and sincere friend of America."

The meeting was at a luncheon at the Lafayette club on the shores of Lake Minnetonka, tendered by the commercial club of Minneapolis. President Taft greeted the party with a hearty welcome, assured them of the lasting friendship of the American people, praised their qualities of industry and patriotism and in conclusion drank a toast to the emperor of Japan as "the warm and sincere friend of America."

"But," he declared, "Japan today is fighting for victories of peace and we all hope she will succeed. We are not going to yield ourselves in that contest, however, if we can help it."

President Taft's address, which was filled with the warmest admiration for the Japanese emperor and people, followed a speech by Baron Shibusawa, a prominent banker of Tokyo and chairman of the visiting commission. Speaking in his native tongue, he referred to President Taft as one of the foremost men of the age and a warm and true friend of Japan.

The baron proposed the health of the president, and led his fellow countrymen in three resounding "hansais." Mr. Taft proposed the health of the emperor with a "hansai" which was caught up and re-echoed by the American guests.

Proceeding the luncheon, the president was introduced to each member of the commission. His hearty words of greeting, his quick recollection of having met many of the visitors during his

No woman can be happy

"Oh, yes, sir," replied the broker.
"And the limits, too?"
The broker bowed low and passed on.
Kotoku Matsukata, president of the Kobe chamber of commerce and a shipbuilder, was only one of what the president reminded as being a "gratifying sight of Japanese men all along the line." His received most cordial greetings, the president having met him and his father, one of the elder statesmen of Japan, in their native country.
"I bring from my father his humble, but sincere, good wishes," said Mr.
Matsukata, who later, in response to a question from the president said, "the graduate from Yale in '88."
"You ought to know Heffelfinger then," said Mr. Taft.
"Oh, yes, I remember him; he played such football!"

YALE GRADUATES
"Come here, Heff," called the president, and the big Yale guard, towering above the throng on the clubhouse porch, came forward warmly to greet his old classmate.

With Mr. Otani, president of the Yokohama chamber of commerce, President Taft exchanged many pleasant recollections of former associations in Japan.

"Mrs. Taft and I remember Yokohama especially well," declared the president, "and we still value most highly the silver service presented us by the chamber of commerce there and which we continue now to use at the White House. Whenever Mrs. Taft serves tea, that silver makes her the envy of all the matrons that come to the White house."

Baron Shibusawa, in his address, said:
"This is one of the proudest moments of my life. It has just been our good fortune to be introduced to your president, and he has been so kind and so gracious that we all individually feel honored and thank him from the bottom of our hearts."

"On the eve of our departure on the present mission, the emperor honored us in a way quite unique in our history.
He graciously invited us to a banquet at one of his palaces, an honor never before given to any private individuals, however distinguished, going abroad without any official capacity. On that memorable occasion the emperor was pleased to express to us, through the minister, his household, his high approval of our visit to America, and gave us to understand that the success of our mission was a matter of deep concern to him."

"Scarcely less deep was the interest manifested in our trip by the people at large. From ministers of state down to the every man in the street, the whole nation united in giving us a send-off such as is given only to the men going to the front in defense of home and country. From this you can easily infer how strong and universal is the enthusiasm excited in Japan by our present visit to your country."

"This is only another manifestation of that peculiar deep sentiment of friendship and good will which the people of Japan have always felt and actually feel toward the people of this enlightened republic."

"We have a profound admiration for the physicians of Japan. They taught us the way to stamp out the plague. In Manila they taught us to label the rats and by driving them to their holes to wipe out the source of infection. We owe them a lasting debt of gratitude."

When Mr. Inamori, a broker of the Osaka stock exchange, was introduced, the president expressed his great interest in the Japanese market methods and laughingly remarked:
"I suppose you have bulls and bears?"

"May the strong ties of friendship that now so happily bind together the two nations grow still stronger as years roll on, and may their friendship be forever based on mutual respect and common regard for justice and peace and for the good of humanity at large."

TAFT'S ADDRESS
The president said: "I say only what is in the heart of every one who loves me that we are all delighted to welcome this international, highly intelligent and most charming company of our Japanese friends. They have in this company of 50 business men of acute intellect, men of far-reaching commercial experience."

"These gentlemen are here on a pleasure trip, but they belong to a thorough nation, and they will carry back with them all the useful knowledge that on such a visit could possibly be gained. I do not regret that I hope they will take back all the lessons possible, and I hope it will make Japan, if possible, more prosperous and more energetic and widen her commercial and manufacturing interests."

"I am not one of those who believe it is wise to keep back to ourselves the progress of their own progress may be great. We have much to learn from Japan, and they have much to learn from us, but we improve both will learn lessons, and we grow to be greater in commerce and in business, we shall grow to be greater customers each of the other."

"The old colonial idea that it was necessary to keep dependencies in a state of tutelage so that their people did not know the price at which they ought to sell goods, that the home governments might get them cheap and sell them at a high price, is a game that works a little while, but in the end it does no good to either party.
And so it is as between nations. The development of each is for the benefit of the other, if friendly relations exist and those commercial conventions exist between them that ought to exist between friendly nations."

"It gives me personal pleasure of a very acute character to meet these representatives of Japan. It has been my good fortune to have seen the emperor, to visit that wonderful country and to enjoy the hospitality of that wonderful people."

VISITS TO JAPAN
"You cannot visit there once without having a deep impression made upon you, and you can imagine the impression I have had. I have been there six times and having two or three times been the guest of the emperor and people of Japan."

"We are a curious people. We have got to run our newspapers. We have to have at times emotions stirred in order that newspapers shall have circulation, and we cannot always do that with a statement of the facts.
Therefore, we have to draw on our imaginings and make that to appear which in fact is not true, just in order that there shall be a circulation of intelligence among the people."

"Now, in times past we have been stirred up. Those of us who know the facts were never so stirred up as by announcements of trouble between Japan and America. I believe that even the newspapers have now given up any such idea. Those of us who were in Japan, who came in contact with all of her great men and talked with them personally, had no trouble on that score."

Japan is engaged in a contest. In a struggle—I had almost said, but I won't say it because it is not a correct expression—in a war, and preparing herself for it. That struggle is in the development of her resources and the making of her people a great and successful commercial nation. She has proven her ability on the field of battle. She has shown what can be done by the thoroughness of preparation and courage and careful, deliberate steps in the direction of her ambition, in the defense of her rights, and maintaining her prestige on the field of battle."

"But she is not engaged in that now.
She is preparing for victories of peace, and in that we all wish she may be successful. We are not going to yield in that controversy; if we can help it. We are entering the contest, and I hope we will strip ourselves of some nonsensical ideas that we have, that we make greater strides than heretofore in the orient and other far-distant countries. The truth is, if I may so say, being an American, our business men are a little bit concerned over their tremendous success with the trade they have at home, and therefore they have not given so much attention as they might, and as other countries give, to the wishes and the tastes of customers in far-distant lands. They are a little disposed to say, 'Well, those are deliberate steps we make and they are the patterns that our looms turn out, and if these foreigners have not sense enough to take them as we make them, why, they can leave them.'"

JAPAN MUST TAKE HEED
"That is all right, gentlemen, when the foreigners cannot get any other than those looms and that kind of goods, but if they can and do find other countries that are willing to manufacture to suit their tastes, why the Americans are going to be second, or third, or fourth, in the race. But we are acquiring sense in the advance of our business interests, and warn our Japanese friends that while we may be a little slow in getting to work and in understanding what we have got to do, we will be stripping ourselves in a while, and they must look out."

"It gives me great pleasure to propose a toast to the personage who in his life and service to his people has shown a devotion and a remarkable ability for selecting the men with which the wonderful advance of Japan has been made possible; and in government there is no ability higher than the power to select the right men to do the right thing. I propose a toast to a warm and sincere friend of America, to a monarch whom it has been my high honor to know personally and to be entertained in the most hospitable manner, to a ruler who has devoted all his long life to the benefit of his people and to their success, his imperial majesty, the emperor of Japan. Banai."

COURTESIES RECEIVED
To Mr. Midano, the Japanese consul-general at New York, fell the lot of informing the president of the many courtesies the commissioners are receiving from the representatives of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific coast. He said that J. D.
Lowman, president of the Seattle chamber of commerce, had qualified as the most genial of hosts.

"I want to meet him," said Mr. Taft.
All this occurred at the luncheon, and Mr. Lowman was escorted to the room of honor at the main table.

"I have heard, word of word, the warmest praise in your efforts to entertain our distinguished visitors, and I am sure you deserve them all," said the president in greeting Mr. Lowman.

Not being a speaker and being restless in the limelight, Mr. Lowman hurriedly took from a leather case a beautiful gold and enamel badge, which he pinned on the president's breast. It shows the American eagle extending a welcome to Japan, depicted by the rising sun. The medal was suspended from a bar showing the American and Japanese flags intertwined. The stars of the American flag were diamonds.

"We want you to be one of the American commissioners," said Mr.
Lowman.

"This I will," responded the president, "and an active one."

President Taft attended morning services at the Westminster Presbyterian church.
