BUSINESS NOTICES.

☞ In order to aid in ameliorating the poor, John Shoflebrand will deliver a Lecture in the Scandinavian language, at the 14th Ward Assembly Rooms, on Friday, June 27th, at 7:30 p.m., on the Practical Study of Human Nature and the Duties and Responsibilities resting on Mothers in Moulding and Improving the Moral and Intellectual Character of a Growing Generation.

— It is a by-word, says a lecturer, among the Chinese, that an opium-smoker is never to be trusted. The testimony given by men of all classes, merchants, missionaries and Europeans, opium dealers themselves being the judges, shows that the baleful effects of this drug upon the human system are: the general deterioration of all the mental faculties, debility, sallow complexion, lividness of lips and eye-lids, languor, lack of lustre in the eye, and hollowness of the voice. When the periodical thirst comes on, mucous flows from the nostrils and tears from the eyes; the burning sensation in the throat can not be allayed until the potion is administered. If the pipe is withheld altogether, coldness and aching pains penetrate the body, accompanied with diarrhœa, and death finally ensues.

☞ WANTED.—A House, with two or four rooms, at a reasonable rent. Address, C. Wilkinson, Box 553, S. L. City P. O.

— Here is a bit of information and comment that has larger application than to the case mentioned: "The report is that the eccentric scientist, Dr. West, of Dover, Del., has been acquitted of the charge of murder. The only thing necessary nowadays to make murder a safe operation, is to behave in a very peculiar way before committing it. If one will collect a museum of old boots, bits of brick, broken crockery and other unconsidered trifles, pretend to have invented something that will annihilate man, and then skin his victim and burn him up, his case is pretty sure. The more brutal he shows himself to be the better the chances of escape."

— An applicant for the benefit of our State insolvent law was examined by Judge Staples, who questioned with inconvenient closeness if he had lost anything by gambling. "I knew that was coming," he whispered to his counsel, "the judge is down on that sort of thing I've been through it twice, but I've got him." And then replying to the question, he said he had indeed indulged in card playing, and sometimes for money; but not to an extent or in a manner to the waste of his time or to the injury of his ordinary avocation. He had never played except on Sunday.—Providence Journal.

— Two bodies that were reinterred in Cincinnati cemetary became the innocent cause of a howl of indignation from citizens in the vicinity, who affirmed that the air was impregnated with foul odors from the decomposing bodies. An investigation proved that a German in the vicinity had emptied a barrel of rotten krout in the vicinity, and thus caused the alarm.

— The German philosopher, Immanuel Kant, "though of a naturally weak constitution, preserved the creative activity of his mind to extreme old age." A detail which illustrates Kant's attention to whatever could affect his physical life was his rule to withdraw his mind from everything requiring effort fifteen minutes before he went to bed. His theory, which is fully confirmed by the experience of others, was, that there was a risk of missing sleep if the brain was not tranquilized before bed-time. He knew that the intellectual life of the day depended on the night's rest, and he took this precaution to secure it.

— When riding in the cars one is often forced to listen to conversation upon personal matters. On one of our Eastern trains, the other day, a newly-married couple, starting on their wedding tour, after comfortably arranging themselves in their seats, gave vent to their emotions as follows: Husband (leaning over very tenderly toward the partner of his joys and sorrows)—"Dose little pet lamb is 'out?" Wife (with responsive tenderness)—"Ou's." Husband—"'Oo does 'ou love?" Wife—"'Ou." I. G., being a single man, was completely overcome at this point of the conversation, and joined the euchre-playing crowd in the smoking car.—Ex.

— The following story is told to illustrate the strictness with which the Cunnard steamship line is managed. The captain of one of their New York ships having lately married, asked leave to take his wife with him on one voyage. This was granted, but on going to take command when the ship was ready for sea, he found one of his brother captains on board, from whom he learned that though the company had no objections to his taking his wife to America, they were not willing to trust him with the ship too.

THEATRE.—There is a splendid entertainment before the theatregoers to-night in the concert by Madame Anna Bishop, assisted by Messrs. Wilkie, Gottschalk, and Glider. The programme is an attractive one and the company possesses undoubted ability.

Before the parts of the concert the "Fairy Fountain" will play and modify the arid atmosphere of the house.

The third concert will come off on Saturday instead of Friday, as at first announced.

BEAVER COUNTY WOOLEN MILLS.—A gentleman who lately returned from a visit to this south informs us that those mills cost $30,000. The reason the cost was so small was that the brethren who assisted to put up the building voluntarily reduced their bills 20 per cent below cash price. The building contains 360 spindles, with capacity to double that number. If run to their full extent the mills could turn out 300 yards of cloth per day. The building is two storeys high, with a loft above, which is almost equal to another storey. About twenty-three hands are employed there. Brother John Ashworth is the Superintendent.

The goods manufactured are of good quality, and consist of light and heavy flannels, kerseys, blankets, tweeds, doeskins, &c.

The same gentleman states that he saw, at Cove Creek Fort, kept by Brother Ira Hinkley, one of the finest stud horses he ever remembers having seen before. It is French Canadian and is fifteen and three-fourths hands high. This fine animal is the property of Mr. Jos. A. Young.

CHANGE.—The Utah Southern Railroad Company have changed the order of running the mixed trains. They now leave Salt Lake City, (Sundays excepted) daily at 8-10 a.m. and 1 p.m., arriving at Sandy at 8-40 a.m. and 1-30 p.m.; leave Sandy at 9-50 7-25 a.m. and 2-45 p.m.; leave Sandy at 9-50 a.m. and 4-30 p.m., arriving at Salt Lake at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

FOUND DEAD.—Last Sunday night, as the C. P. train from the west pulled up at the water tank near Montello, about eighteen miles this side of Toano, the body of an unknown man was discovered lying close to the tank. The man was seen alive by some men on the freight train going west about four hours previously. An inquest was held at Montello. An assayer's card, a jack-knife, and a twenty-five cent piece was all that was found on his person. It was evident that dissipation and exposure had led to his death, and the jury returned a verdict accordingly.—Opera Jumpers, June 24th.

CITY COUNCIL DOINGS. — The City Council held their regular meeting last night, Mayor Wells presiding.

Two additional petitions asking the Council not to licence any dram or tippling shops and to prohibit, so far as they had power, the sale of spirituous liquors within the limits of the city, were presented. One had 1,350 and the other 450 signatures of citizens attached. They were handed over to the same committee as that to which the four petitions, on the same subject, presented a week ago yesterday, were referred.

The committee alluded to presented the following report on the matter of the petitions:

"To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council of Salt Lake City:

"Gentlemen—Your committee, to whom was referred the petition of Alexander McRae and twenty-eight hundred and seventy-three others, respectfully beg leave to present the following report thereon as our conclusion, without special reference to the arguments, facts or modes of reasoning by which the same were reached by us:

"Your committee having had constantly in view the gravity of the subject matter of the petition in our deliberations thereon, and having carefully considered the prayer of said petition, and while we accord with the general sentiments as expressed therein, your committee deem it inexpedient, at the present time, to take the action solicited in the first prayer of said petition.

"Your committee would respectfully recommend the granting of the second prayer of said petition to the favorable consideration of the Council, and as a means to the end sought to be obtained in said prayer of said petition, presenting the following propositions

"1st.—That in granting licenses for dram or tippling shops, there be inserted in the ordinance a provision limiting the sale of spirituous and malt liquors to certain hours, say from the hour of eleven o'clock a.m., to seven o'clock p.m., and this provision to be a police regulation.

"2d.—That the number of such licenses be limited, by which provision may be exercised a wholesale restraint over the sale or other disposition of such liquors.

"A. MINER,
"THEODORE MCKEAN,
"JOHN R. WINDER,
"J. F. SMITH,
"ISAAC GROO."

After the presentation of the report the committee was instructed to draft an ordinance, and, in doing so, to consider the advisability of limiting the number of drinking saloons to from twelve to fifteen, to be kept open only on week days and between the hours of 6 a.m. and 10 p.m.

CROYDON.—Mr. John Toone writes from Croydon, Morgan Co., June 21st:

"The smallpox, we think, has quite gone, and to prevent its return, we have vaccinated nearly all the children in the settlement.

"Our crops look fine, and bid fair for an abundant harvest."

THE CATTLE STEALING CASE.—Arthur McCabe, Charles Crawford and Jacob Jones, the three men arrested in City Creek kanyon, by Sheriff Brown of Weber County, and officers Hampton and Phillips, of this city, on Monday, on a charge of stealing a number of cattle, were examined before Justice Clinton to-day.

Mr. Andrews was the first witness. He was a resident of Bear River Valley, and was a dealer in stock. Had nine head stolen from him between the 12th and the 16th. He discovered his loss on the latter date. He started out in search of the animals. He struck the trail of the prisoners on the 18th, about four miles from his house. Learned at Laketown that the prisoners had passed through that place going southward and followed them up according to information he received, as far as Ogden, where he lost track of them and the cattle. He placed himself in communication with Sheriff Brown. The latter came down to Salt Lake. Witness received a telegram from Mr. Brown, requesting him to come to the latter place and he came accordingly, and found eight head of the cattle stolen from him, and also found a yoke of oxen belonging to Milligan and Brooks which had been left in his charge by the latter. The animals were in the Tithing corral when he found them.

By the defense—McCabe and a man named Williams visited his place last fall and left thirty-five head of cattle for witness to ranche. They afterwards came when he was away and took the cattle, leaving a written notice to the effect that they had done so. The notice was signed by Williams. He kept the cattle about six weeks, and two animals were left for ranching them. The witness gave a description of the cattle which he alleged to have been stolen from him. Those cattle stolen from him were not a portion of those thirty head given into his charge.

Sheriff Brown.—From information received from Mr. Andrews he visited this city. Mr. Andrews described McCabe and Crawford and also the stock which he said had been stolen from him. He learned that the prisoners and the cattle were in City Creek kanyon, and that the latter had been offered for sale. Officers Hampton and Phillips and himself went up the kanyon, found the accused and also the cattle. The cattle were then driven to the Tithing Office corral. Mr. Andrews went to the latter place and picked out eight head of the cattle, belonging to him, and two head belonging to Milligan & Brooks. The witness was acquainted with stock raising and would have no difficulty in recognizing cattle, even when they were not branded.

When he was talking with McCabe about the stock in City Creek kanyon, the latter picked up his pistol. Witness seized the pistol and scabbard and McCabe threw the pistol, when witness seized it by the cylinder. Mr. Hampton then leveled his pistol on McCabe and the latter yielded, and the three men were arrested.

Messrs. Hampton and Phillips' testimony corroborated that of Sheriff Brown, so far as the circumstances attending the arrest were concerned.

McCabe made a statement, in which he claimed that the stock claimed by Andrews were his property, being part of those left with Andrews last fall by himself and Williams. The latter, he said, had driven the cattle away from Andrews' ranch and left them in the hills, and the animals he had taken were stock, which had returned to Andrews' place. Crawford and Jones were merely employed by him (McCabe) and had no interest in the cattle.

In answer to questions by the Court, McCabe said there was no definite agreement between himself, Crawford and Jones regarding the amount of pay the two latter were to receive.

After arguments of counsel for the prosecution and defense, Justice Clinton summed up the evidence and held the three men accused in $1,000 bonds each, to answer at the next regular sitting of the Probate Court of Salt Lake County, to any charge that may be preferred against them by the grand jury, and in default to be committed to jail.

"JIM."—An Indian known by this name was put in jail last night, at the request of some of his red acquaintances, he being almost helplessly drunk. About eight Indians attended the examination, before Justice Clinton this morning. He was discharged.

It is a pity but the party or parties who gave the whisky to the poor savage could be discovered and punished. He cut some strange capers last evening. He rolled off his horse upon the ground several times.

TIMELY—As it is proposed to build a new mining town in City Creek Kanyon, the City Council, last night, instructed the City Marshal to see that the ordinance relating to nuisances, &c., be strictly enforced, the proposed site being within the city limits. This is a timely action on the part of the Council, as thousands of people are dependent on City Creek for their supplies of water for every purpose, and the prevention of the emptying of filth into that stream is therefore a positive and imperative necessity.

Alfalfa Hay—How to Cure It.

As many farmers are cutting alfalfa for hay who have had no practical experience in curing the same, a few words of instruction may not be out of the way. In the first place, to make good hay, the alfalfa should be sown so thick on the ground that its stalks will crowd each other, and thus be forced to grow somewhat spindling. A single bunch of alfalfa grown from a seed placed in the ground so as to have plenty of room to stool will produce large, coarse stalks, and if allowed to stand and mature its seed these stalks become almost like dry sticks. In this condition the hay becomes comparatively of but little value. Therefore the seed should be sown so thick as to create a pretty even growth all over the ground and to create a pretty strong sod. The stalks will then be thin and slender, and the leaves will bear a good proportion to the stalks themselves. Alfalfa should be cut as soon as it has fairly commenced to blossom, and should be allowed to remain spread upon the ground as left by the mower only long enough to wilt it well. It should then be raked into winrows and allowed to remain in this condition only long enough to guard against heating when put into the cock. It should then be put into the cock and dried so as to prevent heating and mildewing when in the stack or mow and no more. When packed in the stack or mow it should be sprinkled with salt pretty freely—say two or three pounds to a ton. Alfalfa hay cured in this way is among the most valuable varieties of hay we have for horses, cattle or sheep. Those who have fed their working teams upon it have found it to be fully as nutritious as the best of oat hay. When horses have become accustomed to eating it they will prefer it to all other kinds. For milch cows good alfalfa hay is next to green grass in value, and sheep will eat it when they would leave oat or barley hay. Our own experience in feeding stock of all kinds has been considerable, and we do not hesitate to pronounce good alfalfa hay more hearty and nutritious than the other varieties of hay now in this State. While we make this assertion we are fully aware that there are those whose experience has been equally as great as our own, who differ with us. The reason of this difference arises more from the manner of curing and handling the hay than from any other circumstance. If allowed to be dried in the sun as spread out on the ground by the reaper, the stalk not only becomes dry and brittle and loses much of the gluten and saccharine matter that it naturally contains, but the leaf also almost entirely drops off, even while handling it is sufficient to transfer it into the barn. If then it is handled over to bale and send it to market there is nothing but dry sticks left, and it is justly condemned. The great secret in making good alfalfa hay is in the time of cutting and manner of curing.—Sacramento Record.

— A barrister, to avenge himself on an opponent, wrote "rascal" in his hat. The owner of the hat took it up, looked ruefully into it, and, turning to the judge, exclaimed, "I claim the protection of this honorable court, for the opposing counsel has written his name in my hat, and I have strong suspicion that he intends to make off with it."

— The English Methodist press is mourning over the fact that although the body is rich and powerful, with 1,400 traveling ministers, 11,000 local preachers, and 360,000 members, the Church is visibly declining, and has been losing in point of numbers for the past two years.

PROCLAMATION!

THE CITIZENS OF UTAH TERRITORY should be acquainted with the fact that there are about

FOUR FIRST-CLASS ORGAN FACTORIES IN THE UNITED STATES,

☞ AT THE HEAD OF WHICH STANDS THE ESTEY!

It being by far the LARGEST!

And turns out

10,800 per Annum,

Being

1,200 ORGANS PER ANNUM MORE THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY!

☞ THE REASONS WHY THE ESTEY ORGANS HAVE BECOME SO POPULAR wherever introduced are,

FIRST: Because they are UNRIVALLED in SWEETNESS and PURITY of TONE, being entirely destitute of that brassy harshness which is always found in second-class instruments.

SECONDLY: Because only the choicest of timber is used and the most accomplished mechanics employed in their construction. The timber, after receiving the proper amount of Nature's seasoning, passes through drying kilns erected in this manufactory for the purpose, which process tries the timber more than any or ultimate under the sun. Every board which will not stand this test is discarded. No class of material, whether it be ivory, ebony or walnut, is converted into these instruments till it is known to be strictly reliable. Consequently in the last twenty-eight years the ESTEY Organ, while it has been the finest in tone, has also been the most durable instrument in the market. This company originated all of the most valuable improvements, including the celebrated

VOX HUMANA,

Which has been universally adopted; also the wonderful

VOX JUBILANTE

And the Improved Bellows, which preserve the instrument in tune by preventing too great pressure of wind on the reeds.

The "ESTEY"

Is THEREFORE NOT A CHEAP ORGAN, but bulks the cheap class it is.

An Honest Organ!

At an Honest Price.

This is testified to by the leading musicians and mechanics of the country, and our sales show that we are constantly enjoying the patronage of the best judges and most prominent members of the community.
