LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THEATRICAL.—Last night "The Lottery of Life" was well played, and elicited the most unmitigated signs of satisfaction and pleasure.

To-night Boucicault's great sensational play "After Dark" will be presented for the first time in this city. This piece is considered one of the masterpieces of the sensational school and is very popular with the public both in the East and in Great Britain. Mr. Wheatleigh will personate "Old Tom," a Boardman, a perambulating advertising medium, a well known public institution in nearly all large cities; "Dioy Morris," keeper of a low gaming house, will be personated by Mr. Lindsay. Other characters will be sustained by Messrs. Graham and Hardie, Miss Lockhart, Delle Clawson, etc., etc. The lovers of sensation may expect a fine time to-night.

PROFESSIONAL ARRIVAL.—Mr. Frank A. Howson, the Musical Director of the Howson Opera, Burlesque and Comedy Company, arrived yesterday afternoon from the West. The company are under engagement to Managers Clawson & Co. to perform at our Theatre and will arrive here on Saturday.

CONCLUDED.—The examination in the grand larceny case of Wm. Jarmion, before His Honor Judge Smith, in chambers, was concluded yesterday. The examination terminated in Wm. Jarmion being locked up in the County Jail in default of $2,500 bail, to appear before the Probate Court at its next June term. The persons charged as accessories, and bound in the annexed sums to appear and answer at the same time and place, are Joseph Bean, $500, Arthur F. Mitchell, $300, and R. Connery, $200. Joseph Smith and J. R. McDuff were acquitted. James Coult, being sick, no action was taken in his case.

THIRD DISTRICT COURT.—The court was in session to-day; the case of Brannigan, charged with the murder of Russell, was progressing.

MODERATING.—The excessively rainy spell which has prevailed for the past few days is moderating; to-day, the weather is somewhat chilly, and the sky a little overcast; but it seems to be slowly clearing off.

STREET MINSTRELS.—The first band of professional wandering minstrels ever seen in this Territory made its appearance in our streets on Monday last. It consists of four boys, said to be recently from Italy—two playing harps and two, violins. This is one of the earliest instalments of genuine "civilization" imported since the completion of the railway. We may, after a while, be troubled with the hand organ and monkey nuisance, but we sincerely hope not. We have, hitherto, enjoyed complete immunity from professional beggars, ballad singers, organ and hurdy-gurdy grinders, and all specimens of the vagrant professions, and we hope that Utah may never become at all a promising field for these parasitical exercises of modern, mis-named "civilization."

THE PRICE OF FLOUR.—The importation of flour into the Territory, now rendered easy by the completion of the railway, is proving beneficial to our citizens. Last evening we heard a retail dealer say he did not think there was a pound of Salt Lake flour to be purchased in the city; but there was good States flour selling for seven, dollars and fifty cents or eight dollars a hundred pounds. The ravages of the grasshoppers last season cut off a considerable portion of the crops, and if the importation of flour had been as difficult, it is not improbable that the home-made article would have been ten or twelve dollars a hundred, and perhaps more.

The lovers of unbolted, or Graham flour, as it is called, may be gratified to learn, that it can be bought at about fifty cents per hundred in advance of the superior article. Conscience goes a great way with some folks, doesn't it?

FOUNTAIN GREEN.—Rees R. Llewellyn writing from that place on the 24th instant says that grasshoppers are hatching out a little east of the new survey in huge quantities; the crops at present look well and the people are determined to struggle manfully to save them from the ravages of the destructive insects.

GENUINE ECONOMY.—In order for a community to become rich and happy it must learn to live economically. Real economy consists in utilizing every element that surrounds us, to allow nothing to go to waste that can be beneficially applied in any direction. The question of Home Manufacture is being agitated, and in some branches successfully. It is not in the matter of cutlery, buttons, etc.? We believe that it only requires a combination of capital with the skilled labor now in our Territory to make those branches a success. The only portion of the raw material that it would be necessary to import would be steel, and ivory for the handles of the finer classes of cutlery. Thousands of dollars are yearly thrown away in the shape of the bones, horns and hoofs of the cattle that die and are slaughtered in our Territory. Even writing aside the use of the bones, horns and hoofs for the manufacture of cutlery, buttons, etc., they are invaluable as manure for enriching the soil, one ton being considered sufficient to enrich an acre of land.

In conversation lately with Bro. Oguthe, of Mill Creek, formerly of Sheffield, England, he informed us that the Mountain Mahogany to be obtained in our canons, for knife handles, etc., is superior to the wood used for that purpose in England and the States; being harder and more durable. It possesses but one disadvantage, which is merely nominal, it has to be boiled previous to being sawn up for use.

Correspondence.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 26th, 1899.

Editor Evening News.—The subject of cold-water bathing is one which ought to be studied by our people and the practice of it often indulged in. Some people evince a degree of timidity in regard to it, and would not hesitate to inform you that the practice of it would be likely to send you to "that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns." But I would say that if you wish to indulge in the luxury—as indeed it is—proceed, first by washing in water that has stood in the bath-tub all night, and afterwards with water fresh drawn. It requires a certain amount of courage to acquire the habit; but when once acquired it will be found pleasant and health-giving.

There may be some in this community with whom my remarks will have little weight, as I do not purpose introducing quotations with large M. D.'s attached to the signatures, showing the opinions of wise men, but merely to present a few arguments in favor of this subject of which so much has been said and written.

First—I consider it necessary to health and cleanliness, especially in hot weather, and more particularly for those who earn their bread "by the sweat of their brow," to have the body washed all over oftener than once a week. This can be done early in the morning and the loss of time will not be felt.

Second—It is a well known fact that the body is furnished with millions of pores, which, if kept open in a healthy condition, have not only the power to exude, but also to absorb. In proof of this there are many who can testify to having had their thirst quenched by simply washing or bathing in water. There are also instances recorded of men suffering with thirst at sea experiencing relief by bathing in salt water; and I believe it is better and less injurious to the system, especially if the water is of an inferior quality, than to take at least a portion of the thirst in this way than to take into the stomach such excessive quantities as men are apt to do whose labors require them to be exposed to the scorching rays of the sun.

Third—Daily ablutions, when thoroughly and judiciously performed, are an excellent preventative against colds and other diseases; they help the appetite, promote digestion, prevent constipation of the bowels; cause the blood to circulate, and act as a tonic to the stomach, lungs, liver, bowels, spine, etc. In fact they refresh, enliven and strengthen the whole system, and unlike other tonics and stimulants that lose their powers from constant use, they ever retain their pristine virtues. And, finally, a person blessed with good health, in connection with a clean skin, is very apt to enjoy life.

The poet Burns, in eulogizing the Scotch haggis, says, that it is worthy a grace as long as his arm. I am not prepared to say whether such a space would be sufficient to enumerate all "the ills that flesh is heir to" that the devotees of hydropathy have professed to cure or alleviate; but I will mention a few in which wise and judicious applications of cold water, in connection with other remedies, receive the sanction and approval of some of the most enlightened physicians and physiologists of the present time. Namely, inflammation of the brain, headache, delirium, epilepsy, diseases of the eye, earache, rheumatism in the head, loss of smell and taste, deafness, nosebleed, difficulty of breathing, inflammation of the lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., and in most diseases of an inflammatory and febrile nature. The sedative tendencies of cold water render it an excellent remedy in cases of irritability and sensibility of the nervous system, as well as many other diseases. I do not wish to be understood as alluding to the total abandonment of all except cold baths; on the contrary, I believe that tepid, warm, and, in extreme cases, even hot baths may be necessary and beneficial.

In conclusion, I would say that if men and women would devote more time and attention to the study of those laws which govern their physical existence, sickness, suffering and death would be less frequent.
