Leading Bankers Say the Financial Situation is Improving.

AN EASIER MONETARY CONDITION.

Philadelphia Banks Reduce Their Indebtedness to Their New York Correspondents.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Notwithstanding the flurry in the stock market today, bank presidents and others occupying positions familiarizing them with current conditions, are unanimously agreed that the general situation has improved and continues to do so. There was nothing in the financial situation of the country to produce such an unsettling.

Two or three cases were reported today of country banks, mostly in Pennsylvania, coming into this market as buyers of commercial paper in a small way, tempted by the high rates, and the fact that they had money to their credit with their New York agents. The amount of purchases in the aggregate is not large, but it is believed to indicate an easier monetary condition in a certain section of the country.

The condition of the banks in Philadelphia was reported practically unchanged, and New York exchange is only obtainable in that city at a high premium, averaging about $2.50 per $1000. Some Philadelphia banks have reduced their indebtedness to their correspondents in this city but the balances are still large. The New York banks, however, are treating them leniently.

DENVER'S SILVER MEETING.

It Issues an Appeal to the Country and Adjourns.

DENVER, Colo., July 12.—Interest in the silver convention was not in the least abated from yesterday, and when called to order this morning standing room could not be had. After the appointment of delegates to the St. Louis and Chicago conventions, and to the "golden" gathering at St. Paul, the committee on resolutions presented a report, which was unanimously adopted. It says in part:

"To the People of the United States:—Congress is called to meet in extra session August 7th. Preceding the call, the classes which struggled for twenty years to overthrow the bimetallic money standard provided by the Constitution, inaugurated a panic, which they unrestfully charged to the existing silver law, ignoring the fact that there is $200,000,000 outstanding legal tender notes, commonly called greenbacks, that are equally available with the treasury notes issued in payment for silver, to draw gold from the treasury, that the balance of our foreign trade has turned against us, rendering settlement abroad with American gold a necessity, and the great banks of Europe are purchasing gold with which to change the money standard of Austria, and fill the treasury vaults of other monarchical countries.

"The evident purpose is to create a prejudice against what is known as the silver purchasing act, and under pressure secure its unconditional repeal.

"The success of this scheme is only partial. Even the President admitted that in the Senate there is a staunch majority against it.

"Suddenly the news was flashed under the ocean that free coinage in India was suspended and the market price of silver had fallen within forty-eight hours fully twenty cents per ounce.

"Immediately the wires were burdened with appeals to the President from banks and clearing houses and the commercial bodies dominated by them for an extra session and to the Senate to repeal the Sherman act.

"The call was made. The executive of bi-metallism, and they now fairly number all those who oppose free coinage for silver alike with gold, as before the demonetization of silver in 1873, openly declare that they will be content with nothing less than the unconditional repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law. It is in that they struggle.

"Unconditional repeal means striking from the laws the last remnant of legislation to secure coinage for silver; it fixes the United States firmly in the ranks of the single standard nations. It is the consummation of the conspiracy organized at the close of the Franco-Prussian war, to destroy, as money of ultimate redemption, half the coined money of the world, leaving the other half to bear alone the vast superstructure of credit upon which the world's business is conducted; inviting more frequent panics and rendering them more destructive and enduring.

"The Sherman law was not the work of silver-producing states; it was forced upon the country against their will. The constant demand has been that of the agricultural states of the West and South and the working masses of the whole country. They have not sought to impose upon the country some new financial scheme, but asked simply for the restoration of the coinage laws as they were from the first year of the Federal Constitution until the furtive repeal of 1873.

"The charge that the bimetallists demand that sixty cents be made a dollar is a lie. It was a trick of the single standard constructors that lessened the value of silver. Had gold been demonetized instead of silver, leaving the silver in greatest use and evidence together, gold would not today be worth $1 per ounce, and silver's value and purchasing power would be fixed and largely above the former's highest figure.

"What the bimetallists ask, and all they ask, is that the law relating to coinage, as it was for seventy-five years of the country's greatest glory shall be restored without adding or expunging a syllable. They urge the law with the supreme confidence, born with the unassailable truths of history, that it will immediately place every retired American dollar upon a par value, both as coin and bullion, restore the hands of weakened love and confidence and set in happy motion the wheels of all the country's magnificent industries.

"Will you listen to us while we speak in words of sober earnestness of the local effect the unconditional repeal of silver will have?

"The silver-mining states and territories, embracing 1,000,000 square miles of the continent, with 2,000,000 Americans inhabiting them, depend peculiarly upon silver-mining for their prosperity. The industry is the very heart from which nearly every other industry receives support. Agriculture will not thrive without artificial irrigation; its mines of coal, iron, stone and clay, while magnificent, are worked with such dear labor and so remote from other than local markets that their movement would be feeble and their operation disastrous without the stimulus the mining industry affords.

"It supports our foundries, operates our machine shops, supplies our railroads with freights, stimulates travel, keeps bright the fires at the smelters, and sends customers to the shops of merchants.

"But, because agriculture is so limited in area—confined to the narrow strip along our few and scanty streams—our labor is so high and handiwork so remote from other than local markets, the coal is mined, the ore burned, the rail rolled, grain grown, fruit gathered, in the main for the owners and workers of the silver mines and smelters, and the proprietors and workmen in these industries and callings are dependent upon them.

"The reduction of the price of silver to about 70 cents shut down 99 per cent of the silver mines of the country and the smelters must soon follow their example. The stone quarries are nearly all shut down, the railway companies are laying off train crews by the score, the foundries are nearly all out of orders, the farmers and fruit growers will barely be paid for the cost of raising their crops. The merchants are countermanding orders, traveling men for eastern houses are looking almost in vain for customers.

"This is not an exaggeration. The destruction of the silver industry will devastate the country as if swept by a cyclone, reaching from the British possessions to the Mexican border line.

"All the mining states and territories are in the debtor class. Stop and consider, men of the East, how many millions of your money are invested with us; family estates of widows and orphans have been loaned on our lands and built our edifices.

"But if, by bad congressional legislation, if through Congress you shall wipe out the great industry of a section around which all others are clustered for vigor and profit, the values of our properties will shrink, our business will be contracted, our towns and cities will be largely depopulated, and the railroads traversing the western half of the continent will be sent into bankruptcy.

"Certainly, in the face of such unmerited ill fortune, you cannot blame us if we are thus deprived of all ability to meet our obligations. You may, it is true, take the country in payment, but after you get it, what will you do with it?

"But, though you may do all in your power, whether in ignorance or through selfish greed, to destroy us, we will not submit to the destiny of poverty without a struggle. We shall seek to open up new markets and build up our silver industry along new lines and with new and more sympathetic neighbors.

"To the south Colorado appeals with more solemn words. Two years ago you feasted with smiling hearts and pulsing lips the enactment of a law that threatened to deprive you of self-government and turn your skeleton bodies over to the tender mercies of Federal taxgorers on election day. To save you from the outrage of the Federal force bill, Colorado's two senators, Republicans, defied the edicts of their party caucuses and defeated what to you meant certain humiliation and the horrors of subjection to the electoral will of your former slaves.

"We saved you then; you can save us now. With us now it is more of a death struggle than it was then with you. If the schemes of the gold kings are accomplished, if the present silver law is unconditionally repealed, the great bulk of us will be made paupers, and our beautiful and wonderful states will be set back in the march of progress more than a quarter of a century.

"Hopeful of speedy delivery from the crushing burdens of a financial system begotten of greed of Great Britain's tremendous money power, and of the prosperity inseparable from the American system, which includes free coinage of gold and silver at the American ratio of 16 to 1, we submit to the people of the United States this statement of our cause."

The convention, after arranging for a final with which to disseminate free coinage literature in the East, adjourned sine die.

The Silver Question.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Regarding the silver question in the West the president of a prominent down-town bank has received the following letter:

"In regard to silver mining in Colorado we candidly believe the present situation very much exaggerated, and as soon as there is any prospect of obtaining a definite price for silver a great many of our mines will be operated on as large a scale as formerly. The talk and threats indulged in by a few rapid silverites is, in our opinion, taken too seriously in the East, as the parties who do most of this talking have no credit or standing at home.

OUR NAVY.

Disposal of Vessels that Took Part in the Parade.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The disposal of the vessels that participated in the naval review continues, and as fast as they can be made ready the white ships are being sent to the four quarters of the globe. The latest to receive orders to sail is the Yorktown, now at the New York navy yard. Her voyage will take nearly three months under ordinary cruising power, and probably the ship will bring up at San Francisco, unless events at Peru seem to require her to return there.

The Yorktown will go out under a new commander, for an order was issued at the navy department today, detaching Commander Herrington from duty as inspector of the North Pacific steel district and ordering him to command the Yorktown.

The cruiser Charleston, which has been undergoing repairs at the Norfolk navy yard, is now ready for sea and will leave for the Pacific station in a few days. She will go from Norfolk to Valparaiso, Chile, and if no orders await her there, she will proceed to Callao, Peru, where instructions will be sent her.

Secretary Herbert has taken action in two cases of importance concerning the navy yard commands. He has decided to make permanent the assignment of the orders of Commodore Kirkland to take command of the South Atlantic station, and will allow him to remain in command of the League Island, Pa., navy yard. This will probably result in sending Commodore Staunton to the South Atlantic station.

The secretary also today issued an order, making Captain Howison commandant at the Mare Island, Cal., navy yard. The report of the Mulloney naval board, which made a close examination of the workings of the yard, spoke so slightly of the efficiency of the Commandant and Naval Constructor Taylor as to justify what might be regarded as a departure from precedent in the case.

Secretary Herbert today accepted the resignation of Commodore Wilson as chief constructor of the navy, and appointed Constructor Philip Hichborn to succeed him.

Meeting at Chicago.

CLEVELAND, O., July 12.—The Sacogefest really begins with the midnight concert today. There was a large attendance, and an excellent program was rendered in fine form. The orchestral numbers were heartily applauded, as was the Jungermannsonne of Philadelphia, and a chorus was created by the united singers of Cincinnati. The famous Lozier-brass of New York added to its laurels when it sang "Charm of Night."

The evening the Saengerfest hall was packed full. After the opening orchestral number the great mass chorus made the welkin ring with "Land Sighting." Rita Elandi sang an air from "Fidelio," and was warmly received. Baron Berthold's rendition of Walther's prize song drew forth a storm of applause. After him the mighty mass chorus sang a folk song, electrifying the audience later with a magnificent rendition of Schwaim's "Death Song of the Gotha." The last of the program, but the best thing yet heard in the festival, was the cantata "New World."

The Indiana Conflagration.

PRINCETON, Ind., July 12.—A destructive fire broke out here this afternoon and raged beyond control for several hours. The Methodist and Presbyterian churches, Baker's Hotel and the Farmer's bank were entirely consumed and also a large number of business houses. The loss will run beyond $200,000.

Satisfied on the School Question.

DENVER, July 12.—Rev. T. H. Malone, editor of the Colorado Catholic, made public today an important decision of Mgr. Satolli on the school question. Two years ago Bishop Matz of Denver issued an order that no children be received for first communion and confirmation who had not for two years previous at least been attending the parish school, or some other Catholic school. Bishop Matz is a bitter opponent of Archbishop Ireland's policy. Satolli has issued instructions countermanding the Matz decree as a harsh and injurious measure which must be ignored, and further, that greater care and charity are to be exercised in giving religious instruction and administering the sacrament to children who do not attend the parish schools.

A Terrific Storm.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The steamship Franklin arrived this evening, and reports that a terrible storm swept the coast of Honduras July 6th. Many vessels were driven ashore, and the damage to the fruit plantations was exceedingly large.

India and Silver.

LONDON, July, 12.—The government of India has decided to accept the silver of the exchange banks, which will lose the insurance freight, but will save the seigniorage.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

The Silver Trouble Alarming Business Men in South America.

Transferred His Allegiance to the Other Side—Storm in Honduras. India and Silver.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Mail advices from Panama under date of July 5th say: The trouble in silver has created general consternation among the business men who trade in the countries which are exclusively silver-using communities. The extent to which the credit system prevails throughout Spanish America is unknown in the North, and the debtor who sees his resources diminished by half through the sudden depreciation of the money he uses is inevitably forced to the wall.

Henry Cramer Not Killed.

PANAMA, July 12.—A dispatch from Nicaragua states that Henry Cramer of San Francisco, who joined the forces of President Sarasa and who was supposed to have been killed while fighting at Barranca Pass, is not dead, as reported, but has transferred all allegiance to the other side and now holds a commission as captain and aid-de-camp to Machado, provisional president.

War Vessels for Victoria.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—A statement is printed here, based upon a letter from an English army officer that contingency orders have been issued to the Fifth battalion, Royal Rifle brigade, now in England, to hold itself in readiness to proceed to Victoria. The letter further says the powerful ship Minotaur is also specially commissioned to duty at Esquimault and the commandant of the ship is appointed naval commandant.

The British officer writes to acquaint friends the climate and manner of living at Esquimault and seems to indicate that the sudden activity on the part of the British authorities has direct connection with the fleering sea controversy.

Sexton Still Fighting.

LONDON, July 12.—Tom Sexton, the anti-Parnellite leader suspended yesterday, has determined to be set right in the matter.

In the house today he asked Speaker Peel if he could obtain the judgment of the house on the conduct of Mr. Mellor. The speaker said Sexton had the right to give notice of a motion questioning the conduct of Mellor. Sexton thereupon gave notice that he would move the adoption of a resolution, declaring that the chairman of the committee of the whole exceeded his power or office in suspending him. Gavin B. Clarke, supported Sexton, and also gave notice that he would introduce a motion to recruit by $1,000 the amount of salary paid the chairman.

The Cholera.

BUDA PESTH, July 12.—Cholera now existing in Hungary is pronounced to be of the Asiatic type, and prompt measures have been taken to prevent the spreading of the disease. The number of deaths, it there has been any, is not reported.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12.—The city has been officially declared to be in a healthy condition. The last weekly official report on the cholera epidemic gives the following figures of the provinces where the disease prevails: Podolia, 610 new cases, 300 deaths; Kherson, 16 new cases, 7 deaths; Tomsk, 8 new cases, 3 deaths.

The Brazilian Trouble.

PARIS, July 12.—Senor Gonzalez, Brazilian delegate to Europe, has made public an official telegram from Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, saying that no conflict has taken place, and that the defeated insurgents took refuge in Uruguay. The government is supported by all the land and sea forces. Admirals of the fleet have joined the and declared unanimously in favor of the government. Authorities taking energetic measures to suppress the outbreak.
