MINING, BUSINESS AND STOCKS.

DELINQUENT SALE OF SOUTH COLUMBUS CON.

Thirty Thousand Shares Sold This Morning—Company Now Has $25,000.

Thirty thousand shares of stock in the South Columbus Consolidated Mining company were sold this morning as the result of the recent assessment of 5 cents a share. The sale was held at the office of the company on the second floor of the Judge building, and was attended by a number of mining men and brokers who bought in the stock at prices ranging from 3½ to 6¾ cents per share.

This is the first assessment levied by the South Columbus Consolidated, and will give the company $25,000 with which to meet its indebtedness and prosecute the development work mapped out. Just how much the indebtedness is was not learned today, but as the company was in debt when the assessment was levied two months ago and the indebtedness has grown since that time, it is presumed that a fair sized sum is required to clear the present debts of the company.

The main development work now being done by the company is the extension of the lower tunnel to get under the surface workings of the old Rustler claim, where some good ore was disclosed at one time. It is expected to tap the same vein at a depth of about 1,200 feet. This is expected to be accomplished within the next 300 feet of drifting.

PRINCE CON. WEAKER.

Stock Sold Down to One Dollar Today—Sioux Con. Also Lower.

Further declines were recorded this morning in the prices of stocks on the mining exchange, few of the stocks showing any firmness. Colorado held around $1.50 with the opening sale at $1.47½, but Iron Blossom sold down to 90 with a slight reaction recorded at the close. Sioux was very active around 80, at which price 3,600 shares changed hands on the morning call. Lower Mammoth was thrown on the market at 31 and Mineral Flat was forced down to 2 cents, with small offerings coming out. Prince Con., which has held up well against the failing tendency of the market, today sold down to $1. South Columbus Con., came out to a bid of 6½ and a buyer 60 took 1,000 shares of Tintic Central at 6¾. Cariss dropped 100 at 60 and Swansea Con., loosened up on a bid of 3½. Seven Troughs fell back to 9½.

GRAPHITE VEIN IS LARGE.

Boxelder Discovery Gives Promise of Developing Into Big Graphite Mine

Continued development of the big graphite vein in the mountains east of Brigham City in Boxelder county is proving the recent find made by the Homber Mining company to be larger than ever, according to reports from the office of the company today. The vein has been crosscut at the creek level and found to be a little over twenty six feet wide. It has also been exposed in other places, and has been found to be strong, and in place, and of good quality for a distance of 4,000 feet from the creek.

A shaft has been sunk 30 feet on the vein and while it has not been crosscut at that depth there is every indication that the vein is going down strong. Three assays made in this city shows the ordinary vein rock to contain from 91 to 98 per cent of graphitic carbon, which is much purer than the graphite found in any other part of the United States. A car of 20 or 30 tons is going to be sent to Salt Lake within the next three weeks, it is stated, and arrangements have been made for grinding it here, when it will be put on the market as the initial shipment of Boxelder graphite.

Mr. Anderson, of the Homber Mining company says that the vein was tunneled into years ago by people who were searching for coal. At that time the graphite was taken home and used for blacking the stoves, but no one realized that the material was 20 time more valuable than the coal for which they were searching.

KEANE WONDER STRIKE.

Large Body of Gold Ore Struck on 200 Level of This Rhyolite Property.

A body of gold ore 35 feet wide has been exposed on the 200 level of the Keane Wonder at Rhyolite, Nev., according to The Goldfield Tribune, which says the vein assays $14 in gold per ton. When the news was sent out the hanging wall had not been reached although the crosscut had been run 35 feet in ore which is within two feet of the width of the vein in the upper workings, indicating that the vein is widening with depth. The ore is said to be practically identical with that found above and Superintendent Homer Wilson says it insures ore enough to run the mill for two or three years at least.

NEVADA CON. IS GREAT.

Rhyolite Dyke Struck Containing Native Copper—Daily Output.

Reports from Ely state that the Nevada Consolidated recently discovered a rhyolite dyke in the south end of the pit which contains native copper. The face of the dyke is said to be 25 feet wide and the average runs 4 per cent copper. It is thought to dip into the Weber claim of the Ely Central.

The Nevada Consolidated is one of the greatest tonnage producers in the world, the daily output being given at 6,400 tons of porphyritic ore carrying from 2 to 2½ per cent copper. Trains of ore run continuously day and night from the great open pit to the huge concentrator and smelter at McGill, about 17 miles away.

At the Ruth workings which lie to the east of the Ely Central and belong to the Nevada Consolidated a 300-horsepower electric hoist has been installed at the Star Pointer shaft, and everything is in readiness for the extraction of ore at short notice. The Ruth and Star Pointer shafts are connected by a 2,400-foot tunnel which has developed several million tons of ore. It is said that the extraction of this ore is not contemplated at the present time owing to lack of reduction facilities.

CENTURY GOLD MINE WILL SOON RESUME

Directors Will Meet Next Week to Levy an Assessment to Overhaul Mill and Develop Mine.

After more than a year of idleness, during which the mine and mill have been closed down, the Century Gold Mining and Milling company is making preparations to resume operations. With this object in view a meeting of the directors has been called for next Tuesday, October 19, at which time an assessment will probably be levied with which to overhaul the mill and put the mine in good shape for development work. Pat Sheahan, the well known mining man, who is connected with the Johnny gold mine, has spent several days at Park Valley making an inspection of the Century. Upon his report will depend in great measure the action of the directors. It is said that Mr. Sheahan believes that the mine can be made to pay, and he will have some suggestions to offer, which will in all probability be followed by the management.

The Century produced more or less gold for several years, the total production being a little over $212,000. Of this sum $49,000 was produced during the years 1898 to 1902 under the management of Dr. White, the balance being produced under the management of P. W. Madsen, who is still one of the largest owners of stock in the company. Other large owners are Pat Sheahan, James Rosevear and Samuel Paul. The property is equipped with a stamp mill, and should give a good account of itself if properly handled.

LOWER MAMMOTH SHAFT.

Reports from the office of the Lower Mammoth are to the effect that the company is making so much better progress with the new shaft than was anticipated that it will be at the 2,000 level by Nov. 1. It is now down 1,925 feet. Thus far no signs of water have been met with in the lime, but some water is expected when the drift off the 2,000 level intercepts the vein. No new developments are reported on the upper levels on which drifting is being carried on simultaneously with sinking. The assessment of 5 cents a share becomes delinquent on Saturday.

The Daly Judge Mining company has removed from its old quarters in the Commercial block to rooms 618-19 Newhouse building.

The assessment of the East Tintic Gold King of ⅛ cent a share became delinquent today.

In order to put its 1,500 foot tunnel in good shape and do other necessary work on its group of 25 patented mining claims in Gold Mountain mining district the directors of the Trapper's Pride Mining company will meet shortly and levy an assessment. The company has not done anything in the way of development work for the past four years or more.

LOCAL MARKETS

In today's markets there are no special features, beyond a fall of 20 cents in the retail price of sugar, and a slight advance in the quotation of family flour. Rhubarb and beans are out of the market. The fish list is increased by the addition of barracuda, selling at 17½ cents per pound. Notwithstanding the advantage of handling oysters in cans rather than in bulk, some of the hotels and restaurants are calling for the article in bulk so strongly that dealers fear they will have to return to this class of shipment. They deprecate it, as oysters handled this way lose their goodness, as they are all soaked out in ice water until they become almost tasteless. However, they are cheaper.

It seems that Boston people are complaining of high prices of meats and other articles of food, as well as Salt Lake, as witness the following paragraph from the Boston Transcript:

"High prices have ruled the meat market in Boston so long that housekeepers are beginning to ask if there is no relief in sight. It may be answered briefly that there is not. All kinds of meat within the range of ordinary quotations are high. They have been so since the middle of August, and will remain at the present level for weeks more, unless they go still higher. Pork is almost at a premium. Unlike beef, it did not strike a firm level and stay there, but went up a little week by week and is going higher. Eggs are bringing much more than usual at this season, and butter is costing more than people are accustomed to pay in October."

The local receipts today include car lots of sweet potatoes from southern California, which are selling well; a car of Valencia oranges as part of the wind-up of the season; also, prunes from southern Utah, which are good, but come so wretchedly packed that the percentage of loss through deterioration is quite heavy. A special feature is the receipt of a lot of Bartlett pears, the first of the season, and so scarce are they that they are selling at $10 per box, or 20 cents per pound. Utah apples are being received in goodly quantities, and in excellent condition—thanks to the pure food laws. There are wormy spots, but the fruit is in prime shape. New figs continue to arrive from California. Irish potatoes are way down in price, selling at 60 to 65 cents per cwt., or about 40 cents per bushel. There is plenty of good celery; also new cranberries selling at $10 per barrel. The quotations obtaining today, are as follows:
