A Colorado Town Flooded with Circulars from New York Sharpers.

LOST IN A TIMBER SECTION.

Plac[illegible] Fields in Montana.—
A L[illegible] Broker sacrifices—
Buck Hawley an idiot.

A number of bright young men of Boise, Idaho, have decided to organize a detective society.

Eddie Dougher, confidential clerk for a Fresno, Cal., firm, has not been heard from since he went to Sacramento, a week ago, and it is feared he has been murdered for the money he carried.

John Doyle's boarding house keeper at Fernier, a small place near Neville, Cal., told him she he would kill himself at 8 o'clock Friday morning. When the hour arrived he kept his word, shooting himself through the head.

The plant of the Daily Evening Star, published at Pueblo, Colo., was in possession of an Saturday by a mortgagee, and he will conduct it till it can be sold to satisfy the mortgage. It will be offered at public sale October 12th, if not sooner disposed of.

The Prescott (Arizona) Tribune says it is curious to note that there are only 1322 sheep in the county. Go down to Bill Springs in October, it says, about any time during the summer, a year ago, and you will see millions eating up the grass on the hills and in the valleys.

While on his trip to Roxbury, Idaho, last week, a Mr. Warner lost a package containing notes to the value of nearly $1000. He did not miss the package until his return, and it took quite a trip over the road in search of it, but could not discover it. He has since received a letter from the person who had found the package and "wanted to know if it was any value."

Scores of Nimrods were out at the mouth of Bear river last week slaughtering the feathery tribe. Teams are said to be without of ducks out at the grounds this year. Geese are also quite numerous. On the first day of lawful shooting three were sportsmen on the ground from every principal town in Box Elder county and from many distant places. Schools of sport is being had.

Harry Tennney, a D. & R. G. conductor, met with an accident out at the dock grounds in the other night, says the Brigham City Bugle. His foot got was accidentally discharged, the contents striking his right shin, which was swept the point of the shin, lacerating several inch of the foot and bored a deep hole in the ground. Tennney was taken to Brigham. One toe had to be amputated.

Considerable valley wheat from the vicinity of Albany, Oregon, is being sold to San Francisco buyers. The new established by the Oregon Pacific Railroad company is giving them an advantage over Portland buyers. Wheat is worth $1.25 per ton more in San Francisco than in Portland. It costs $2 per ton to ship it from Albany to Portland, and only $2.50 to take it via Yaquina to San Francisco. This gives San Francisco dealers 25 cents per ton advantage, which enables them to outbid the Oregon Pacific on bands.

O. L. Gibbs, a prominent banker, broker and capitalist of Pueblo, A. T., was found dead on Saturday morning at a dusty farm belonging to him about two miles northeast of that town, he having committed suicide. The cause is attributed to financial troubles. Gibbs has been handling other people's money and it is thought he has lost heavily in speculation. There was no suspicion that he was in financial trouble until two days before, when his father-in-law, A. Gunsenaugh, of Los Angeles, arrived, to whom it was learned he owed $21,000. Gibbs had a session trying to arrange his matters, but was unsuccessful.

Mina, Montana, is said to be full of nautical present. A few evenings ago a man was knocked down with a sand bag, but made his escape without being robbed of quite a sum of money which he had in his pocket at the time. N. St. Morning have bought what he had been running the town for several days hoaxed the passenger train and made themselves obnoxious to passengers and employes while the train stopped for breakfast, and upon being told to "keep quiet," showed fight. Two of them were afterwards sought and punished.

Mr. N. H. Green came near having a very serious fire the other morning. In some manner a fire got started in a pile of hay and rubbish near his barn and had it not been for the timely discovery of it by some boys before it fired the house and barn. The wind was blowing a gale at the time and it was very fortunate that no little damage was done. "It is strange that a pile of the size of Papson's should be allowed to remain so entirely without fire protection. "We'll wait, though, till a fire turns up about half the town, then go to work and put in a good system of waterworks."

Gilpin and Jefferson county, Colo., seem to be a new field for the great goods men. If the number of their agents tend to show that they have come out for a new district to overrun with great goods. Many circulars pertaining to the business have been received by residents in this vicinity. They come through the mail sealed, and contain lists of the real estate owners of the amount of money in the treasury, filled with the claims that one is among the country in the present financial crisis by putting more money in its mines. The circulars cite the fact that times are hard and that the mines in Gilpin—among the population of the country, given the most direction, which is of N. Zeist, New York.

C. A. Crane and his son, accompanied by a friend from Kansas, have just returned from a hunting trip to the Hassayampa country, says the Lamoille Democrat. While traveling through the great timbered region of that section they came across a young man. He was lost and had been six days without food as they afterwards learned. All means can tell him and he was tottering along to a road when they found him. He was in his shirt sleeves and a straw hat. He was taken to camp and fed and nursed carefully during the night, the food being administered in small quantities, and when daylight came he was able to ride. Although very weak he was able to tell them that his name was George Lloyd. In fact he said that he came in on Monday with a party of friends, [illegible] their camp four or five miles off [illegible] and in trying to find their way home lost. He had a rifle to use and the gold rifles in the mile he shifted from to [illegible]. McClure and party took Lloyd to his home, who were terribly in no doubt. Lloyd was found alive four days and hundred at the time he was found. Another child in the hills and he would have perished.

The Helena, Montana, Independent thus records the discovery of [illegible] gold mines near Missoula. Near the eastern boundary of Washington county, and only four or five miles from Mineral, Idaho, are the Hall and Rainer gold mines. Where a small stream issues from the hills, which stream flows gradually to the narrow valley, there the gold bearing gravel is found, very fine, but numerous, and in the time to have a rewarding for miners, who little thought that not only a few feet from the surface were ten dollars to the pan, the surface were ten dollars to the pan. Gold was found away in the innumerable rolls of the hills, yet which no trace of the country, great or great, was which would enrich the pioneers of the country to an extent never even thought of by those early pioneers. In digging wide doubtfulness knowing had to be done to reach the water below the low foothills, and the rock so shaled was piled about the city walls. On one place a small hut placed in one of the limited places and taking it to Missoula and it is a jewelry or a pretty one. The jewelry, including the ladies of the beautiful little gems which were embedded in the stones, and for rock to experts in San Francisco and they were determined the nature of the stones. Speaking to the locality, the San Francisco experts were serious where these gems came from and found several pieces in the rock pile outside the wall. They at once proceeded to locate the ground and prepared to open it up, but were soon shown that the title of the ground was protected by patent, and so lost all.

At the remarkably low price of $250 per lot, one half cash, the other at the regular $325 per lot. Better times are in sight. A better feeling has now come. Our vast and varied resources MUST be appreciated. Outside capital will seek Utah investments; several large irrigation companies are now formed, and thousands of acres of rich land will be redeemed—hundreds of new homes will be added to our Territory. Utah is in its infancy, her population will rapidly increase, wealthy people are seeking our genial climate for homes, they are pleased with the beauty of our surroundings and the enterprise of our people.

Strangers appreciate our advantages, why should we not?

If you will call we will add more, which space here will not permit.
