stuffed, putrid, impure or unwholesome meat or fish, bird or fowl shall be held, bought for food or sold or offered for sale for human food, or held or kept in any market, public or private, or in any public place in Salt Lake city.

Sec. 3. That every person being the owner, lessee, or occupant of any room, stall or place where any meat, fish or vegetables designed or held for human food shall be stored or kept, or shall be held or offered for sale, shall put and keep such room, stall and place and its appurtenances in a clean and wholesome condition.

Sec. 7.—If any person shall expose for sale in any market, house or elsewhere in said city any unsalubrious, tainted or putrid meat or provisions, which from some or other causes may be deemed unwholesome, such person shall upon conviction be fined as provided in this ordinance, and it shall be the duty of the inspector or health officer to forthwith seize and confiscate all such meat and provisions.

Sec. 8. That no person shall have or at any place where milk, butter or cheese is kept for sale, nor shall at any place sell or deliver, or offer or cause to be sold or kept for use, nor shall any person hired or send to said city any milk, butter, whitewash, washwash or adulterated milk, or milk known as swill milk, or milk from cows or other animals which for the time part has been kept in any distillery, or which feed on swill; or milk from sick or diseased cows or other animals, or any butter or cheese made from any such milk, or any unwholesome butter or cheese.

Sec. 9. That no person shall allow to run or pass into any water pipe any animal, vegetable or mineral substance whatever, nor shall any person do or permit to be done, having the right or power to prevent the same, any act or thing that will impair or impede the purity or wholesomeness of any water or fluid to be used or designed as a drink in any part of said city.

Sec. 10. That no cattle shall be kept in any place of which the sewer, ventilation and feed are not sufficient and wholesome for the preservation of their health and same condition and wholesome condition of food.

Sec. 11. That no cattle shall be placed or carried while bound or tied by their legs, or bound down to the necks, in any vehicle in this city, but shall be allowed freely to stand in such vehicle when transported and while being therein.

Sec. 12. That the keeping and slaughtering of all cattle, and the preparation and keeping of all meat and fish, birds and fowl shall be in that manner which is or is generally reputed or known to be best adapted to ensure and continue their safety and wholesomeness as food. The slaughtering of cattle shall not be permitted or conducted at any place in the city of Salt Lake, without a special permit from the City Council.

Sec. 13. No person shall bring or send in the city for sale, or offer for sale, any milk without a permit to do so from the health department, such permit to be furnished gratuitously by the said department on condition that some but pure, undiluted milk is kept within the city limits, subject to the approval of the milk inspector or health officer.

Sec. 14. All milk offered for sale in this city, unless sold as an inferior article, and plainly marked as such, must be of the following purity, (milk) fat, 3 per cent; solids not fat, 9 per cent; ash, .60 per cent, total solids, 12 per cent.

Sec. 15. All milk wagons shall have the name of the owner, the number of the permit and the location of the dairy painted thereon plainly and legibly.

Sec. 16. Any person who violates, disobeys, omits, neglects or refuses to comply with any of the sections of this ordinance, or resists any of the officers employed in the enforcement of this ordinance shall, upon conviction, be fined in a sum not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

Rich—Well, I don't know how the other members feel about it, but I confess that many of its provisions will not find their way into my food.

On the roll being called the ordinance passed on a strict party vote, the Democrats all voting in the negative and all the "Liberals in the affirmative.

CONSTRUCTION OF WELLS.

The following after being discussed for an hour was passed:

A bill for an ordinance regulating the use and construction of wells:

Sec. 1. All owners or agents of property abutting or having wells in, the city water system shall either connect with said water system within thirty days after the passage and approval of this ordinance, or shall within the same time construct a well in accordance with the rules and regulations of this ordinance.

Sec. 2. No person shall construct or have constructed a well within the city limits except the same be piped with iron and stuck below an impermeable stratum or formation, or otherwise is not less than 100 feet in depth. This does not apply to artesian wells.

Sec. 3. No well shall be constructed at less distance than twenty feet from any cesspool or privy vault, except it be that for some reason it is impossible to comply with this rule, in which case a special permit from the health department must be obtained.

Sec. 4. No person shall use or permit to be used, for drinking purposes, any water from any well within the limits of Salt Lake City except it be from a well that is constructed in accordance with the rules and regulations of this ordinance.

Sec. 5. No person shall construct or have constructed a well without first obtaining a permit from the health department, and said well must upon completion be inspected by an officer of the health department.

Sec. 6. Any person or persons who shall violate or who refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not less than five ($5.00) dollars nor more than fifty ($50.00) dollars.

Sec. 7. The health officer shall once in three months make an analysis of the water furnished by the city through its pipe system and report the result to the City Council.

POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT FRIDAY.

The case of the street railway and telephone companies was continued until Friday next.

POLICEMEN APPOINTED.

The mayor sent in a communication appointing Geo. Stevens, J. J. Hicks, Lewis S. Larsen, James Sanders, Geo. C. Johnson, C. S. Blackburn, John J. Peck, as policemen, and asked their confirmation. Confirmed as police.

BURGAN ROAD VETO.

The mayor sent in the following communication, which was ordered to lay on the table until Tuesday night next:

To C. E. Stanton, City Recorder:

I am unable to approve the motion of the Council adopted September 23, 1892, and forwarded by you to me on the 27th of September, authorizing the construction of a public highway up City Creek canyon for the following reasons:

The city has no legal authority to build such a road beyond the corporate limits, and the proposed road passes beyond such limits.

Among the greatest temporal blessings enjoyed by the community is the pure water drawn from the City Creek canyon; it is more precious than gold, and of much more importance to the city than any commercial advantage arising from the proposed road can possibly be. A highway along the course of this stream must necessarily befoul its present pure waters to a degree corresponding with the amount of travel, as the goes on and the population of Morgan City and vicinity increases there will be an increase of travel on said road, and with the increase the defilement of the stream will proportionately increase, that while the evil effects of such a foul upon the canyon stream at present would be trifling, in time this evil would be greatly augmented. The stance giving the mayor a qualified veto provides that any ordinance or resolve involving the expenditure of money shall be presented to the mayor for his approval. Since the vital notes by which money in the treasury of a city is appropriated and the uses contemplated by the Legislature, in the case under consideration, the building of the road, which involves the expenditure of money, cannot be entitled to be done by verbal motion. As this action is either in nothing more or less than a resolve of the council, it is necessary that it should be presented to the mayor for approval.

The council then adjourned.

Gems of the Oldest Journals.

Which among the nations in the world is entitled to the credit of the first newspaper? The oldest journal in the world, according to Mr. Underhill, is the London Gazette, which appeared first in 1666. This of course is a very erroneous statement, but Mr. Underhill would have been quite accurate if he had said that the London Gazette was the first newspaper in England that ever merited paid advertisements.

I remember many years ago turning up the first number of the London Gazette in the British museum and noting the advertisement of a patent medicine emanating from a firm which in the best of my belief was in existence in London less than twenty years ago.

That age very recondite authority, "Haydn's Dictionary of Dates," tells us that the ancient Romans had daily newspapers called Acta Diurna, which were issued in 691 B. C., that a journal called the Gazette was published in Venice in the year 1536, and that the first real newspaper published in England was The Public Intelligencer, issued by Sir Roger L'Estrange in 1663. I should say myself that if exhaustive research were made it would be found that the Peking Gazette enjoyed an extensive circulation some thousands of years before Rome was founded.—London Times.

A Painful Necessity.

When M. Carnot travels he takes with him a collection of decorations and other distinctions for distribution among the notables of the towns he will pass through. The president of the republic, in order to enhance the value of the decoration, is accustomed to pin it himself on the breast of the happy recipient. On his last provincial tour it appears that he made a mess of the operation. A statue had just been unveiled and the customary speeches delivered, when the persons to be decorated were invited to get onto the platform. Among them was a fat farmer to whom the Academic Palms were allotted. M. Carnot approached him and proceeded to pin the blue ribbon on his breast, but whether the pin was blunter on the cloth of the farmer's coat hard, he found the task difficult. However, at length he succeeded.

But judge of his surprise on seeing the farmer trembling and as pale as a ghost. He at first thought it was simply emotion, but the farmer getting worse General Brugere advanced and found that the pin had stuck in his breast, and that he was bleeding freely. To extract it was of course the work of a second, and the farmer recovered, but it will be a long time before he forgets the first day he wore his decoration.—London Globe.

So Sorry to Leave.

A tramp stood on the platform of the Santa Fe station at San Bernardino. A passenger train was all ready to leave. The guard about the place somewhat, selected a soft looking brakeman and accosting himself into a comfortable position on it prepared for the first stage of his journey. "All aboard," sang out the conductor and off went the train. It passed through bustling little and big towns, through the most charming valleys in the world, whirled by enormous orange groves and stretches of vineyard, by fields of strawberries and green peas, passing homes which were palaces, going through what every one admits is the most beautiful, the most fertile, most pleasing region on the footstool.

The tramp lay on his brakebeam enjoying the scene and regretting that the love of travel obliged him to leave such an earthly paradise. After several hours ride the train wearied quite a large town and slowed up as it approached the depot. "San Bernardino!" called out the conductor. "Hang it!" said the tramp, as he climbed up from under the car and stood on the platform from which he had started a few hours before. He had taken a belt line Santa Fe train over the kite shaped track.—Pasadena (Cal.) Star.

Equal to the Emergency.

A citizen popped out into his garden at a very early hour, and turning a corner discovered Patrick in the act of digging up a lot of vegetables. Patrick, seeing the game was up, advanced toward the proprietor and said: "The top of the morning to your honor! And what brought your honor out so early this morning?"

"Indeed, Patrick, I just strolled out to see if I could find an appetite for my breakfast." "Then, eying Patrick with some suspicion, he queried, "And now, Patrick, you tell me what brings you out so early in the morning."

"Indeed, your honor, I just strolled out to see if I could find a breakfast for my appetite."—Hartford Post.

Saved from Death by Quinos.

There has no doubt been more cases of children saved from death in croup or whooping cough by the use of quinos than by any other known remedy. Our mothers used to make pastilles of them, or a syrup, which was always effective in breaking up a cough or cold. Dr. Quinn's Quinos Syrup is made by combining a few simple remedies with it, which make it more effective as a medicine and destroys the taste and odor of the quinos. 50c. Sold by Z. C. M. I.
