PROVO, UTAH, - JAN. 30, 1894.

Divorces Wanted.

John Egan has commenced proceedings to obtain a divorce from his wife Mary A. Egan, on the ground of adultery, alleged to have been committed with a Mr. Blackley, alias Ed. Pusey, at P. V. Junction, last December. It is further alleged that Blackley and Mrs. Egan are at present cohabiting adulterous relations in each other at Fort Worth, Tex.

Mrs. Abby Lewis of Fairfield has commenced suit against Joseph Lewis for a divorce on the ground of desertion and failure to support.

Notes.

M. I. district conference is to be held at Payson on Saturday and Sunday next and at Pleasant Grove the following Saturday and Sunday.

John Carson was discharged from custody by Commissioner Dudley. The commissioner advised Mr. Carson to discontinue boarding at the hotel of his former second wife.

Mr. Sam Schwab, the clothier, will soon start a grocery store, to be superintended by Mr. Chas. Peterson, formerly salesman in J. H. Bonham's store.

David Jaks, of the stake presidency, was the recipient of a pleasant surprise by some forty of his friends on Saturday evening, the occasion being his 63d birthday.

Elders Asa Hotchings, Leo Bird, George Houtz and David Pace of Springville left yesterday for Salt Lake city preparatory to starting on a foreign mission. Elders James R. Andersen and Albert H. Jones of this city today.

A Provo gun club has been organized. A challenge has been received from the Payson club, which will promptly be accepted.

Stake Conference.—An Impressive Funeral—Sales and News.

HEBER CITY, Jan. 26, 1894.

Editor Deseret News:

The sixty-third quarterly conference of the Wasatch Stake of Zion convened in the Stake house at Heber City on the 27th inst. at 10:30 a. m.

After the usual devotional exercises Elder Abram Hatch opened conference with a few timely remarks, saying the Stake was in a good condition; abundance exists, and good health prevails as a general rule. He compared our prosperity with the adversity of most of the cities in the United States.

Elder John T. Giles, from Provo, on a visit to relatives, bore a strong and eloquent testimony of the Gospel truths, and of his missionary labors in the Sandwich Islands.

The next speaker, J. T. Giles (a cousin of the former speaker), gave a few timely remarks to the young, and related a few incidents of his late missionary labors in the state of Kentucky.

Elder Geo. H. Booth occupied the remaining time of the morning service relating some of his experience and incidents while serving as physician and surgeon in the Hindostan army.

The afternoon service was devoted to the several bishops, who reported their wards as being in a prosperous condition.

Sunday morning conference convened at 10 a. m. Some 700 persons were present. After the usual devotional exercises, Bishop Henry Clegg presented the Stake authorities while the sacrament was being passed around, after which four lately returned missionaries (three from the Southern States and one from Ireland) were called upon to address the audience in the following order: Andrew Jenson, E. D. Clyde, J. E. Moulton and Mount Gerber.

Bishop Henry Clegg then announced that the funeral service would be held, commencing at 1 o'clock in this town, over the remains of the wife of Thos. Hickens, Jr., whose body had lain in state for the last ten days waiting for the return of the husband from his missionary labors in the state of Tennessee.

Conference adjourned for three months.

At 1 o'clock the funeral procession left the residence for the Stake house, a quorum of Seventies preceding the sleigh containing the corpse, following which were 117 other sleighs.

Service commenced at 1:30. After devotional exercises Bishop Henry Clegg delivered a funeral discourse over the body. He dwelt upon the good character and amiable disposition of the lady who was a devoted wife and loving mother. He gave consoling words to husband, children and relatives.

Elders A. Hatch and J. M. Murdock also gave a few appropriate and consoling remarks to the many friends and mourners.

The house was filled to overflowing, many having to stand, others could not find seats standing outside and in the street. There were in the house at 1:30 persons and all of 200 outside; 55 sleighs followed the corpse to the city of the dead. Preceding these were the quorum of Seventies. This was the largest funeral ever known in Heber City. The good lady has left a devoted husband and seven small children, the oldest child is some 12 year old, the youngest two weeks old.

NOTES ON THE FLY.

Plenty of the beautiful snow, two feet deep on the level; three feet deep in snow fell this month, up to date. From the 15th to the 20th some snow fell every day. The 5th and 6th last were the coldest mornings of the season so far—19 and 21 below zero respectively.

A slight accident occurred to two of our girls the other night, by being knocked down with a team and pushed along in front of the sleigh; nothing serious, only a few bruises.

Justice courts are lively and interesting to the lawyers—several cases being on the docket lately.

John Giles, late sexton of Provo City, also eldest son John I. and wife, have been visiting with friends and relatives the past week.

Thanks to friend Jeques for correction of the hand cart incident. A mistake in identity of figures, I expect, by the printer. I think I write I pound of flour per day; he mistook for 1 pounds of flour, no doubt.

Whitening Onions.

The chief difficulty in wintering onions is in keeping them too warm and too moist. This is the trouble usually when they are kept in cellars. Any place where they can be dry and held at a nearly uniform temperature about the freezing point is best. Onions may freeze without being injured, provided they are not allowed to thaw and freeze again. Where, however, the winters are too warm to make the method of keeping safe, it is better to prevent freezing, but keep the onions where they will be at all times very near the freezing point.

A Handy Road Scraper.

Why spend money in buying elaborate road machines? The 20 inch disk harrow is found on every well regulated farm. First go over the road, just in the ruts, cover them with dirt and take out stumps and rocks. Bolted a 20 inch disk harrow in the hill width of the road by bolting a 2 by 4 piece to the weight box, and another in front for blocking. Put a team and driver in front of each gang as I go along, followed by another 20 inch harrow spread to run inside the first, to the edge of a third. New Yorker.
