FEED YOUR WHEAT.

Interesting Suggestions From the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Editor Deseret News:

Wheat can hardly be said to have touched bottom yet, and is already selling at 35 cents per bushel. This is now a mere matter of fact and needs no explanation. At 50 cents a bushel wheat is not a very paying crop. Since wheat has become so cheap and corn so dear in the central Mississippi states feeding of wheat has been and is being carried on to a great extent. Already different men have reported their experiences in the different farm journals. Most reports show that by actual weighings men are realizing all the way from 75 cents to $1.25 a bushel for wheat fed to hogs. As far as my observation goes, only about two per cent report dissatisfaction with wheat as a feed.

There are two leading industries in Utah, mining and farming, and by farming I mean all operations connected with the crops of the soil. The conditions that confront us today are an abundance of good cheap grain and hay, with a great number of thin cattle and hogs. Owing to the short grain crop in Nebraska and Kansas, all indications seem to point to the fact that there will be a shortage of fat cattle and hogs in the spring. Never has there been such an opportunity for the farmers of Utah to make money as now. Every animal should be well fed, and when in good condition shipped to Omaha, provided our local dealers cannot or will not handle it at a price that will give a fair profit to the feeder. However, could a good packing establishment be maintained, it would be better for all concerned. Now our hogs are shipped to Omaha or Kansas City, there "packed" and re-shipped here, we paying the freight both ways. A good fat animal is always in demand, a good price will always be paid for it. Some men in Utah are feeding heavier than ever before. Should all join in, such a flood of money would pour our way that we would wonder how the hard times had so quickly vanished. In from six to eight months our vast surplus of hay, grain, steers and hogs would be turned off at a good cash profit.

If we do not do this some one will do it for us. Already it is said that here in Cache valley Nebraska people are buying the cheap grain, the cheap hay, the cheap steers, and cheap hogs, renting feeding yards, intending to feed our animals for us and then ship them to market. Moreover it is asserted that these people are even shipping cattle in for feeding them here. The Nebraska people will coin money at it, while we sit by and see how that is done. Welcome to our Nebraska neighbors, for many of them will likely stay with us, but the Utah people may as well make the money as the Nebraska people.

HOW TO DO IT.

For every steer fed have two hogs to follow it. Feed the steer all the grain and hay he will eat, beginning with but six pounds of grain a day fed in two rations. Increase this up to twelve pounds of grain per day or more. The hogs will pick up from the droppings of the steers a goodly portion of their living. However, it is well to feed the hogs enough more to keep them growing well.

If hogs only are fed there will be some waste, and more care must be exercised. They should have a dry place to sleep and eat. Feed them all the grain they will eat up clean and plenty of lucern, but do not mix this with the grain. Milk for the little fellows is worth nearly its weight in grain. Aside from this, hogs to do well should have charcoal or wood ashes and salt always before them. This is of the utmost importance during the winter season. Mix the salt and the ashes—one pint of the salt to a peck of the ashes. Feed the hogs grain but twice daily, and leave no sour feed around in the troughs, nor allow any sour, stinking food to accumulate in barrels or buckets. Watch the hogs eat every meal and see that no food is wasted. If there be any waste, arrange so that there is none. Never feed clear wheat; mix it with its weight of bran.

Wheat will not as a rule pay 10 per cent for grinding. Your miller should do it for 6 or 7 per cent.

If fed whole it is better soaked. The soaking tanks or barrels should be kept clean and sweet and the soaking can be done without freezing.

It is well for the farmers of a neighborhood to meet together often and talk over their successes and mistakes, and if a man has made a mistake let all profit by it. Study well bulletins 31 and 35 of the Experiment Station and send for some of the officers of the Agricultural College Experiment Station to meet and talk over with you the feeding problems. What is most needed now is an organization of the farmers, dairymen and fruit growers. We need the Farmers' Institutes.
