THE SILVER CONVENTION.

The silver convention brought to a close on Friday evening. The executive performances and speeches were which cannot fail to be productive of great good. The volume of sentiment by the convention to give to the subject of the future and the creation of every factor in currently circulated thereto. It is a most pleasing and logical presentation of the silver cause, and as such should be read by every person who is so.

In this, and the very business administration, the profession is the endeavor are to be congratulated.

In their respective displeasure of the delegates, the silver of their Lake have performed their part creditably. Some of the visitors are have other from the most kindly and favorable remarks of their visit was here, and of the world-wide reputation extended to them. Under these circumstances it is more than probable that they will want to come this way again, and that because of their influence other conventions of national importance will look hither for a similar place of gathering. We feel that Salt Lake has done its duty as the occasion and we wish the gentlemen of the convention this the highest success as from time to time, which we feel have their work done.

HIS FOOLISH CONTRADICT.

Now that Dr. Helen Newton, of 241 Sixth street, New York, has got through with his dispute with the New York papers as to what he actually did say in his sermon on the resurrection, preached on April 21, it may be proper to give some consideration to his statements as to what had transpired by himself. As to the disagreements between the newspaper reports and what Dr. Newton says he said, it may be remarked that he makes a distinctly without a difference. Here is some the substance of the subject claims to stated, and as he writes it he should be allowed to speak for himself.
