A Not Over Agreeable Meeting With a Bear in Weber Canyon.

SOME JOTTINGS FROM PARK CITY.

Fatal Accident at Manti.—The Curfew Law at Mount Pleasant.—Mining Notes.—Other Matters.

A branch of the Keeley Institute has been established in Logan.

The Coalville Chronicle is now issued as a seven column folio. Up to this stage it had been a six column.

The potato crop at Heneefer is to part a failure, very few having more than half the usual crop.

Box Elder County has between 800 and 900 voters. Nearly half of these are polled at Brigham City. This is the statement of the Brigham Bugler.

Pennsylvania oil men have fifty tons of machinery at Casper, Wyoming, which indicates renewed activity in the development of the oil fields in the vicinity of that town.

The cattle companies of Converse county offer Wyoming $5 additional bounty for gray wolf scalps. Wolves are especially destructive to stock this season.

Another movement to form a state medical association, the chief purpose of which, it is stated, will be to keep quacks and incompetent physicians out of Idaho, is on foot. No organization will be attempted until about January 1, 1893.

Night Police Lee says the authorities are determined to enforce the curfew law, and hereafter all minors found on the streets after 9 o'clock in the evening without sufficient excuse will take a trip with the peace officers.—Mount Pleasant Pyramid.

A petition is circulating asking the city council to appropriate an amount from the city funds to buy instruments and uniforms for a brass band, to be non-partisan. A private subscription list is also circulating for the same purpose, and receiving many signatures.—Spanish Fork Fisher.

Rattlesnakes are very numerous in the McIntyre Mining district, says the Idaho Daily Statesman. George McIntyre killed two of the vicious monsters yesterday and brought their rattles to Harry Parnell. Both the snakes were large, one having ten rattles and the other twelve.

A force of three men has been at work on the Whitehead group since the first of the month and will be increased to five men in a few days says the Park Record. The men are driving a tunnel and have cut some very fine ledge matter in so doing, some of which assays as high as fifteen ounces in silver.

Some good assays have been obtained from the blow-out on the Aytan claim, one of the C. W. B. group, in North Tintic, and last week the company began sinking a shaft at that place, employing two shifts. The company is also continuing work on the tunnel, where they have favorable indications.

From indications the potato crop in this county (remarks the Mount Pleasant Pyramid) will be much smaller than usual. The price of $1 per bushel at this time of the year is something unprecedented for a good many years. At Manti, it is said, the crop was in many respects a complete failure, the vines producing no tubers whatever.

Sixteen carloads of beets have been shipped to Lehi. Orders have been received for the raisers to stop digging beets for a while, as they were being received at the factory faster than they could be used up and consequently were rotting in the bins. This will only last a day or two however.—Payson City Enterprise-Chronicle.

An attempt will be made in about a week to organize a permanent literary and debating society at Price. The purpose of this society will be for the training of its members in oratory, declamation, composition, elocution, legitimate debate on educational, political and other topics, and more especially in parliamentary rules.—Eastern Utah Telegraph.

David Christensen, a 7-year-old boy of Newton, was thrown from a horse on Wednesday, receiving severe injuries by the fall. His left arm was dislocated at the elbow, and the bone of the lower arm fractured close to the dislocation, making it a very complicated and serious injury. The boy was brought to Logan, where Dr. Reed carefully set the fractured limb and restored the dislocated joint to its proper place. The boy rested comparatively easy.—Logan Nation.

Terry McFee of Four Mile was in the city this morning and brought with him some of the finest samples of barley and wheat that can be grown anywhere. The grain was raised on his place, without irrigation. The barley—two varieties—is estimated to yield fifty-five bushels per acre, while the wheat also indicates a heavy crop per acre.—Laramie Boomerang.

James Howarth who was out to a sheep camp in the mountains a few miles west of Vernal went out in the evening to assist the herder to round up the sheep for the night and as he was passing through a grove of timber a bear jumped at him and struck him in the face and behind the ear tearing the flesh badly and nearly gouging one eye out. The bear then shaking him vigorously dropped him as if satisfied with his cruel work and took his departure. The young man was brought to Vernal and Dr. Parks dressed his wounds.—Vernal Express.

A six-year-old child of Mrs. Arthur narrowly escaped death this week, having been given an overdose of morphine by mistake. The child had been ailing and was given what the folks thought was a fever powder, but in some way a morphine powder was used that had been prepared for an older member of the family. As soon as the mistake was found out Dr. LeCompte was summoned and after working with the child nearly all one day and night the effects of the drug were counteracted and the little one is now as well as ever.—Park City Record.

One of C. A. Tewksbury's men had a narrow escape from death or serious injury the fore part of the week says the Park City Record. He was working on the roof of Miss Moffit's house on Woodside avenue putting on a roof cap, and stepping on a brace that had been insecurely fastened he fell to the ground, a distance of about twenty-five feet. Had it not been that he struck the roof of the porch in his descent, which broke the fall, he would have no doubt sustained very serious injuries. As it was he was badly shaken up but escaped without any broken bones.

Mr. Robert Hill of Wellsville was badly hurt near the Logan bridge a few nights ago, while on his way home. Some time after the accident some boys found him near the bridge in a helpless condition. They reported the facts to the police, and Officers [illegible] and Smith went with a vehicle and brought him to the city jail, where he was cared for. His nose was badly broken, the bridge being entirely crushed in, and the cheek bone was broken in two places; the ear was also badly lacerated. The facial injuries show that the wagon wheel passed over his face. His arm was also badly hurt. It is said that Mr. Hill was intoxicated at the time.

Peter Hash, of Mill Creek, who is herding sheep in Weber canyon, had quite an encounter with a bear a few days ago. While walking along and viewing the beauties of nature he ran on to a large bear, so he climbed a tree just as he could get a good look at bruin and the bear seemed to have the same idea in his head. So they took a good square look at each other for some time until Peter was getting quite tired of his situation. At least he satisfied his curiosity, but the bear did not seem satisfied as he kept standing around and growling. If Pete had not had his violin and had it with him, he might have given some music to dance by. Finally he made his pathway bent him and told him to bring a gun, but before he got back the bear thought he would take a walk, and Peter was willing he should. So says the Coalville Chronicle.

George W. Davis was arraigned at Provo on Saturday on a charge of forging an order for $14, by signing the name of F. A. Walsey to the order directed to Southworth Brothers. He pleaded not guilty. His bonds were fixed at $1000. John Flemming pleaded not guilty to an indictment for assault with intent to commit murder. C. A. Caswell was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, committed by taking a watch from E. J. Ward, in front of the Cosmopolitan hotel last month. He took until Monday to plead. Charles Darling, of Lehi, was arraigned on an indictment charging him with obtaining from J. C. Whitney goods valued at $32, under false pretenses. He pleaded guilty, giving as a reason for his act that he was drunk. Judge Blackburn sentenced him to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary, at the same time advising him to improve his time while behind the bars and when he got out again to let liquor alone. The prisoner promised to heed the advice. The little murder case was resumed.—Provo Enquirer.

Says the Green River Advertiser: This town wants a flour, a first class bakery, dairy, sawmill, smelter, electric light plant and a large number more inhabitants who would go ahead and build homes for themselves.

Marriage in the Isles of Greece.

In Kaso, one of the most southern islands of Greece, the parents upon both sides take upon themselves all the responsibilities of courtship and marriage. Courtship as we understand it, is not in any way permitted to the betrothed couple. No moonlight walks or tete-a-tetes are allowed. Such a course would be deemed highly reprehensible, and all wooing, if there be any, must take place in the presence of the elders; but there is no great time for repining at these decrees of custom, for the marriage follows the offer as quickly as may be.—E. M. Edmonds in Eastern and Western Review.
