TO CONFERENCE VISITORS.

I BELIEVE that the Citizens of the Territory could afford to pay a committee six per day to examine into the merit of machines offered, thus preventing the palming off of inferior articles on the market, and the consequent loss of thousands of dollars, to be repeated semi-annually by making a few changes in machines to suit machines. When this time comes the Branson Knitter and New American Sewing Machines will take a front rank for simplicity of parts, durability, ease of learning, utility, Etc.

You are respectfully invited to call at the Idaho Store, see them work, buy one on a guarantee, and be learned to operate free of charge if buying one.

EVENING NEWS.

Thursday - - March 25, 1875.

Chicago's Ruined Homes.

A resident of New York, who was, for many years, engaged in business in Chicago, met the Hon. Leonard Swett at the Brevoort House, a few days ago, and drew from him a picture of the desolation now afflicting that city. Mr. Swett is the ablest lawyer in Chicago, and is thoroughly conversant with the situation of affairs in that city. The conversation was briefly as follows:

"It is reported, Mr. Swett, that the people of Chicago are suffering terribly. Is it so?"

"It is all true, sir, and you can not imagine—you can not form any idea of the state of affairs in that city. It is worse than any man can conceive of."

"Does it affect the leading citizens?"

"Nineteen-twentieths of all the best citizens of Chicago are bankrupt. Of every twenty you can name I can show you that nineteen are utterly ruined. None have escaped but those who were dealing in money. The failure of half a dozen of the large merchants has swallowed up the small dealers. The property in Chicago wouldn't sell for the mortgages, and the original owners do not put a valuation on it now equal to the amount of the mortgages. The men who rebuilt Chicago are all broken up."

"How has this happened Mr. Swett?"

"You know," said Mr. Swett, "all about the rebuilding of Chicago. Her citizens could only rebuild by the aid of Eastern capitalists. They went forward, however, with an energy unparalleled; but the brick which they put into their buildings cost $18 per thousand, and the laborers received $4 per day. The property that cost $150,000 they mortgaged for $75,000 or more. Today I can get brick at $7, and laborers at any price. It is easy to understand, therefore, that the property can not be worth more than one-half of what it was valued at, and that it is not worth enough to cover the mortgages."

"Has property depreciated in every section of the city?"

"Yes, it is all alike. The other day I took a walk with Mr. ——, a prominent real estate speculator, and he directed my attention to a piece of property, and said: 'A few years ago I was offered $120,000 for that property. I refused it, and demanded $150,000. I have recently offered to sell it for $12,000, and I doubt whether I can get that much for it.' You will see from this that property has gone down very low."

Mr. Swett was asked as to the financial affairs of the Hon. J. C. Haines, the ex-Mayor and Senator, and of hundreds of others, and his reply was, "They are all ruined and have nothing left."

"And what about the Hon. N. B. Judd, the ex-Minister to Berlin?"

"He has not only lost everything—his beautiful home at Kenwood and all the other property—but he is mentally a wreck. It is hard indeed, to look upon this man in his affliction."

"Who were affected by the savings bank failures?"

"Mostly poor people. Those who read the papers and were in the habit of looking ahead saw what was coming and took their money out. The three large banks deprived thousands of their earnings of many years, and left them without a dollar."

"What of the city government?"

"It is conducted in an economical manner, and much better than 10 years past; but the Supreme Court has forbid their uttering any certificates of indebtedness, and it is very hard to conduct the affairs of the city. I don't know what they will do."

"Did Mr. Coolbaugh, the banker, who shot himself at the grave of Douglas, leave any property?"

"Yes, he left property to the amount of $300,000, and no cause can be assigned for the rash act, except mental derangement."

"I understood you to say that nearly all the men who rebuilt Chicago are ruined?"

"There is hardly an exception. They are all bankrupt."

The above is, truly, a sad picture, and it comes from the lips of one who knows whereof he speaks.—New York Star.
