VICTORIOUS AMERICANS.

The latest reports from Santiago where Admiral Cervera's squadron found a refuge, indicate that the work of annihilation or disabling of those Spanish vessels has commenced in earnest. [illegible] The Spanish war is not yet very old. Yet one Spanish squadron is at the bottom of the sea at Manila and another is rendered almost useless in a Cuban harbor. [illegible] the road for the invasion of Cuba is about to be opened up. The Madrid government is commencing to realize the futility of the struggle and is looking about for means to secure peace. This seems to be the situation now. Every new American advantage is bringing the close of the war nearer.

ANGELS OF MERCY IN WAR.

The progress of civilization in this century is perhaps best illustrated on a modern field of battle, where amidst carnage and death angels of mercy are busily engaged carrying all the aid possible to the wounded and dying. Formerly, organized assistance on the battlefield was not thought of. Medical aid after the engagement was generally insufficient. The victims of bullets, swords or bayonets were often left where they fell to die in agony. All this is changed. Even cruel war has been made to recognize in the soldier a human being entitled to the tender care of fellow-beings, and today a battlefield literally swarms with members of the Red Cross society, who take their own lives in their hands in order to save others.

The field hospital service of the American army has now reached a high degree of perfection. [illegible]
