Judge Booth will be spoken to regarding the matter only leans back in his chair, grins broadly, and advises patience.

Wants to Build College.—President J. J. Guinan of All Hallows college proposes to address the annual session of the governing board of the Marist order in this country, next summer, and ask for $250,000 with which to build the long contemplated college plant on the east bench. The college now covers 40 acres down from the mountain where a large school could be built with plenty of room.

Lost a Turkey.—Rowell Hudson, of Salt Lake, has lost a turkey. He is a member of the Christmas dinner, but he has no turkey to dispose of. He is a member of the Christmas dinner, but he has no turkey to dispose of. He is a member of the Christmas dinner, but he has no turkey to dispose of.

Breaks a Window.—H. C. Peterson, of the city street bottling plant, and A. M. Peterson, a sewing machine man, a citizen, in some manner became involved in a quarrel about 9 o'clock last night in the Ware saloon, 501 South State street, with the result that an alarm was sent to the police department and Officer Rob Golding responded. He found the two men in a rough and tumble tussle on the sidewalk in front of the saloon. A large plate glass window shows the course of their fight. Neither man knows how the window became broken. The tussle was a very undesirable. Wickenberg was a physical pigmy compared to Peterson. Both were taken to the station and placed in separate cells charged with being drunk and disturbing the peace.

Badly Hurt.—A man whose name was given as Wickenberg, by occupation peddler, was put off a Sixth street car at 10 p. m., last night, by the conductor for alleged refusal to pay fare. It is claimed by the car gang that his general condition was such as to render his presence in the car very undesirable. Wickenberg was assisted from the car but ran ahead and look ahead at the curves. At Sixth and D streets, the man was hit by a pole and knocked into the street where he rolled in the mud for several feet. The car was stopped, and a search instituted. Wickenberg was found badly battered up and thoroughly soaked with mud, so that he was hardly recognizable. Fortunately, the man lived only a couple of blocks from where he fell off, and was assisted home where he was cleaned up and his wounds attended to.

Merchants and Manufacturers And Railroad Commission Idea

To the Editor:

Dear Sir: The Manufacturers & Merchants' association has read with much interest, the editorial item in Saturday's "News" headed "An Unpopular Proposition," and although we are glad to observe that the railroad commission question is being discussed from both sides, we cannot agree with everything in the editorial.

Is it fair to say that the railroad commission question is an unpopular proposition? The matter has been before the public for just a few days, but during that time it has received the support of some of the largest and strongest commercial organizations in this city, and a large number of our leading business men have expressed themselves as being most heartily in favor of it.

We are appreciative of the fact that the interests of some of the big Salt Lake papers are so closely allied with the interests of the railroads, that they cannot be expected to take up the people's side of the question. We have so much confidence in their broad and just policies, however, that we believe that they, like we, "think it just as well to look at both sides of the question," and that they will print articles from the people that may be written during the time this proposition is being discussed.

Is the proposition impractical? Thirty-one out of 45 states in the Union have said that it is not impractical, and have enacted laws to better railroad conditions with the respect to rates. The fathers of our state Constitution said it was not impractical when they decided that the matter was proper for legislative control, and made it the duty of the legislature to enact laws and enforce them with adequate penalties—to properly govern railroad affairs. If further proof is needed as to whether the matter is practical, it has been furnished by the supreme court of the United States. Its decision rendered in Washington, Dec. 16, 1906, in favor of a railroad commission, has forever settled the dispute, and shown emphatically that a railroad commission is very practical, and necessary.

There is no need to wrest from the railroads of the state the management of their own affairs or property. We would not place a straw in the way to hinder their progress. We recognize that they have been a very important factor in the development of our state and that they have helped us to become what we are. We consider it the plain duty of every citizen to encourage and support them that every city, town, village and hamlet in the state may be benefited with bands of steel, but we submit that the railroads are obligated to perform well and faithfully and without discrimination, certain duties towards the public. These include good service, reasonable rates and equitable treatment. In demanding these there is no intention or desire to work any hardship on the railroads. We submit, however, that the people cannot longer afford to be treated in this manner. The railroads are increasing the wrongs which we feel so keenly today.

A railroad commission will help the railroads by placing them in a position where they will not have to discriminate in the matter of freight rates and passenger fares. This will be a big saving, and will enable them to make a number of concessions for the benefit of all the people.

A railroad commission will help the railroads by placing them all on the same footing. Should it not be a big incentive to the people who enter our gates when they realize that we stand for equality to all? We are destined to become a "developed" nation, and we need more railroads. Why should we not treat all alike, and encourage them to contemplate the future by assuring them that they will receive franchises and concessions along the lines already here? I will not give the time to discuss the matter of giving the railroads a monopoly on all the gifts we have to offer. Let's give them the glad hand, and let them know that they stand for justice and equality to all.

The cost is only a very trifling matter when compared with the good that will actually result. We have a limited supply of coal and yet we have to pay the exorbitant price of $2.25 per ton; $3.50 will give the railroads a handsome margin on the coal, and that they will receive the coal at a price that will enable them to compete with the coal and in good service. Why the saving on coal alone would be much more than this, under our very feet, is a matter of common knowledge. We have to pay a price for the coal that we have to pay the exorbitant price of $2.25 per ton; $3.50 will give the railroads a handsome margin on the coal, and that they will receive the coal at a price that will enable them to compete with the coal and in good service.

The idea of having a commission or an officer regulate those things in which the public is deeply concerned, is a proposition that we have a food and dairy commissioner, a board of horticulture, a state game and fish warden, etc. These officers are chosen by the people, and they are not to be trifled with. We have been very careful to protect these small interests, why have we not had some one to protect our interests in the valuable franchises that have been given to the railroads? These franchises are worth millions of dollars, and it is the duty of the state to the people to attend to that the people receive full value for all that has been given. Let's cease to strain at a gnat while we swallow a camel.

The Manufacturers & Merchants' association desires only that which will be for the best good of the largest number of people. We say by all means let's hear both sides of the question fully discussed. We have shown our good intentions in this matter by offering to discuss the question publicly in the Salt Lake Theater with any representative who the railroads may choose. We want the people, as far as possible, to understand fully all the facts, that they may judge for themselves from a fair and impartial viewpoint.

Thanking you in advance for giving this article space in your valuable paper, we remain, Sir, very respectfully,

Yours very respectfully,
MERCHANTS & MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION.

A HOME MADE HAPPY BY CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.
About two months ago my baby girl had measles which settled on her lungs and at last resulted in a severe attack of bronchitis. We had two doctors but no relief was obtained. Everybody thought she would die. I went to the drug store and bought a certain remedy which had been recommended to me and failed to get it, when I went to the drug store and bought Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did so, and my baby is alive and well today. I am a mother of four children, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is always on hand and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

About The Christmas "News": "Beautiful," "Superb," "Best Ever."

Salt Lake Telegram: The Christmas edition of the Deseret News is a most beautiful number. It is printed on splendid paper; the illustrations are magnificent; the printer's art was exhausted in its preparation, and the material is most interesting. Altogether it is a very great credit to the News Publishing company, to Salt Lake City and to Utah. We congratulate our friends on the issue, and hope to print Christmas editions all the time.

Truth: The Christmas number of the Deseret News issued a week ago is the finest annual edition of any paper ever published in Utah. In size it is a giant. In variety of information about Utah, it is a treasure. It is a credit to its publishers, to Salt Lake and to Utah.

Park Record: The Christmas edition of the Deseret Evening News is a magnificent number. It is perhaps the very best holiday edition ever published in the state, and covers every phase of the wonderful resources and the varied industries of marvelous Utah. It is printed on excellent paper, profusely illustrated, and the workmanship is superb. It is a paper that should be sent to friends all over the world, for it is a story of growth and development that is truly inspiring. It is a credit to its publishers, to Salt Lake and to Utah.

Emery County Progress: The Christmas number of the Deseret News, issued last Saturday, is just as big and as handsome as any paper published in the state. It is a magnificent number. The year's progress in Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and Nevada are attractively presented, and the stories are wonderful but not overdone.

Wyoming Press: The Christmas edition of the Salt Lake Deseret Evening News, which was issued last Saturday, PURE FOOD LAW.

Adolph Levy, a Grocer, Accused of Violating the Ordinance.

Adolph Levy, a grocer of 74 West First South, was arrested again before Judge Diehl, charged with violating the pure food ordinance. Levy has been up on similar charges several times before, and has usually been successful in getting off on a technicality or a small fine. Saturday he was arrested, charged with selling and offering for sale decayed and unwholesome fish. A. R. Thurman, attorney for the defense, made strong objection to the taking of testimony on the grounds that the complaint was improperly drawn and that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant the arrest. The case is on to test the validity of the city ordinance prohibiting the sale of tainted and impure fish, fowl, meat and foodstuffs. Judge Diehl has taken the matter under consideration and will hear the testimony on Jan. 10. Prosecuting Atty. P. J. Daly is determined to stamp out the illegal practices of some merchants of Salt Lake who are frequently disposing of food in violation of the law.

AGREEABLY SURPRISED.
Many sufferers from rheumatism have been greatly relieved at the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It makes sleep and rest possible. For sale by druggists.

was a very beautiful and elaborate production, containing 112 pages, excepted to the four cover pages. The "News" has sent out a Christmas edition annually for many years, and is to be congratulated upon the improvement with each succeeding issue. Saturday's edition is a souvenir well worth preserving.

Iron County Record: The Deseret News leads off this year as usual with a splendid holiday number, consisting of about one hundred pages, devoted to Utah and the contiguous states. The cover is a beautiful piece of art, and the number, from the hurried inspection we have been able to give it, seems to be quite up to par with the other "News" seems to be "the first and the best."

Caldwell, Ida., Tribune: The Deseret News of Salt Lake got out a magnificent Christmas edition. Much space was given to Idaho, which the people of the state should duly appreciate. The "News" was handsomely illustrated and filled to the brim with good things.

Current-Journal, Rexburg: The Current-Journal takes great pleasure in calling attention to the excellent Christmas number that the Deseret News has gotten out this year. It surpasses all previous editions, and that is saying a great deal. We congratulate the "News" on its enterprise in publishing such a magnificent number, and we hope to see it published every year. The people living in the Mountain states have come to look forward to the Christmas News as the great newspaper publication of the year. Each year they expect a better edition than the last, and so far they have not been disappointed.

We advise all our readers to get this great paper. It contains a splendid write-up of Rexburg and other towns of Fremont county, and matters of general interest to the people in this vicinity.

THE BEST DOCTOR.
Rev. B. C. Hurston, Supper Springs, Tex., writes, July 19th, 1906: "I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Household Syrup, and they have given me the best relief I have ever known. The cough syrup has been sold and paid. The cough syrup has been sold and paid. The cough syrup has been sold and paid."
