JOURNALISTIC ENTERPRISE.

THE New York Herald has a foremost name among daily journals for enterprise, but the New York Times in some respects is superior, especially in mechanical neatness, perspicuity and beauty, in which particulars the Herald does not sustain a first class position.

The Times has just completed extensive improvements on the paper and in the offices thereof at an expense of $150,000, and now presents an appearance which causes it to be generally considered the neatest, clearest, and most handsome paper in America.

The Times appears in an entirely new dress, the only objection to which is the smallness of much of the type, but it is certainly very distinct, the figures exceedingly so, because of their specially broad and open face. One other peculiarity they have, which is that the numerator and the denominator of the fractional figures are not separated by any dividing line.

The Times has cast aside the American Hoe cylinder press as behind the times, and has procured two new English-made Walter presses, similar to those employed by the London Times. The Walter press is held to be the best and fastest newspaper press and one of the most perfect pieces of mechanism in the world. It is a self-feeding press of great steadiness, working with wonderful rapidity, printing both sides of the paper at the same time, from a continuous roll, and capable of producing 15,000 to 16,000 perfect copies of an eight-page paper in an hour, or ordinarily 12,000 copies an hour, a capacity said to be nearly double that of any other press. For stereotyped forms it is claimed that no other press equals the Walter in the matters of compactness, dispatch, accuracy, and economy. With this press the latest news may be printed at the latest moment on any page of the paper.

Two new horizontal, double-cylinder "Bulger Engines," of 45-horse power each, weighing 4,500 lbs., connected by a wrought-iron shaft of eight inches diameter, with band driving wheel of 12 feet diameter and 20-inch face, and cylinders of 14-inch bore and 30-inch stroke, drive the presses.

The Times is made up with much care, taste and judgment, is edited with great ability and force, and it is said was never more prosperous than at present.

DECEASE OF DR. S. S. WOOD.—The Chicago Journal of Commerce of July 10 contains the following announcement—

OBITUARY.—Late on Saturday evening we were shocked by a telegram from Hannibal, Missouri, announcing the death of Dr. Samuel S. Wood. The dispatch was from George Storrs, of the Planter's House, of that city, dated the 5th inst. It stated simply that Dr. Wood arrived during the morning of the 5th, was taken sick in the evening, and died of a congestive chill on Saturday at 5 p.m.

For the last eight years the Doctor has been a travelling correspondent of this paper, during which time he formed many agreeable intimacies with numerous business men in the North-Western States, and in the Territories of Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming. He was a most agreeable, social and genial gentleman, and very many will sympathize with us in the loss of so active and efficient a worker. We shall greatly miss him as a successful canvasser for the Journal, and our many readers will long remember his numerous "Jottings by the Way," so faithfully descriptive of towns, cities, men and things, as they appeared to him in his travels and familiar intercourse with the people.

We presume he was on his way to Chicago when so suddenly stricken down. He was doubtless the bearer of many documents designed for us. These we shall endeavor to procure, and so soon as they can be arranged for publication, they shall find a place in the Journal.

Many of our business men will remember Dr. Wood, who was in this city early last spring in the interest of the paper he represented.

CROFUTT'S WESTERN WORLD.—The publisher of Crofutt's Western World, published monthly in New York and San Francisco, announces that he has purchased of Messrs. John H. Carmany & Co., publishers of the Overland Monthly, the West, a monthly, eight-page, 64 column paper, devoted to the development of the west. The West and the Western World will be consolidated under the title of Crofutt's Western World, and will be specially devoted to the interests of the country west of the Mississippi. The regular correspondents of the West will be retained, also the editorial manager, Mr. David C. Pearson, who will be the Pacific coast editor, and general manager of the San Francisco office. In the interest of the Western World and also of Crofutt's Trans-Continental Tourist's Guide, Prof. T. J. Sedgwick, M. A., will make an extended tour of the far west Territories and States, particularly Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, California, Oregon, Washington and Arizona.

DRIED FRUITS.—The climate of this Territory is favorable to the production of dried fruits, and those properly prepared in Utah have had an excellent reputation at a distance, as they are superior to the dried fruit from the East. As the time for drying is at hand, the following, which we find in the Chicago Journal of Commerce, will be interesting and useful:—

DOMESTIC DRIED FRUITS.—E. D. Robinson, Commission Merchant, 5 Coboes Slip, New York, says: All dried fruits sell principally by color, which should be bright; and to obtain the same in apples and peaches, they should be prepared for drying before fully ripe. Sliced apples, if not bright, do not pay for the trouble of slicing, and the finest qualities should be packed in new barrels, top and bottom lined with paper. Bright quartered apples, well cored, uniform in cut, are always most salable in fair demand, and more attention should be given to them. Peeled peaches should be sliced or cut in eighths, and invariably of a bright color. Dark qualities rule low and are slow of sale. Unpeeled peaches should be cut in halves or quarters. The largest peaches should be selected for halves, size being a consideration in them, while the smaller fruit is fully as desirable to be cut for quarters. They should be kept entirely separate, as when mixed they will not generally sell at over the prices of quarters. Blackberries should be particularly well dried, and they are liable to sweat or sour, and pack only in new barrels. Cherries should be packed in new barrels of about equal parts, red and black mixed; any syrup or sugar put on them, detracts from their value, as they sell at much better prices and are more desirable when free from any such mixture. Unpitted Cherries will hardly pay for drying, the price ruling usually low. Black damson Plums and Black Raspberries are more or less in demand, at all times at good prices, which will fully pay when care has been taken with them; they are better packed in barrels.

INFALLIBILITY.—This is how the Catholic Telegraph puts it—

The syllabus and the dogma of infallibility belong to the body of Catholic faith, which can never be mutilated or changed. Both are the voice of God never to be recalled. Whoever may be chosen to succeed the reigning Pontiff will be the representative of God, and will proclaim anew these decrees of the Holy Ghost. God cannot contradict himself, and no Pope can ever revoke the dogmatic decree of the Vatican Council.

The Cincinnati Times thinks there is just a possibility that Providence and the Vatican Council are not identical.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

EASTERN.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—The regatta, to-day, was a success in every detail. The weather was cool, and although it sprinkled occasionally, things generally were conducive to sustaining good humor, among the large crowds that flocked by rail and carriages to the scene of the contest on the Connecticut, five miles south of this city. The water was as smooth as could be desired, and there was nothing that the most fastidious oarsman could object to in any respect. The Freshman race was timed to begin off at three o'clock, but did not come off till seventeen minutes past four, when a successful start was made, Harvard taking the lead, but the Wasson was left in the lurch by Yale and Amherst, and Yale finally passed the stake boat ahead, gaining the race in seventeen minutes and fifty-three seconds, Amherst coming next, in eighteen minutes and thirty-four and a quarter seconds, and Harvard bringing up the rear in twenty-three minutes and thirty-four seconds.

The start in the University race was made at about 6 o'clock. It was a hotly contested affair, and it at first appeared that the Harvard had won, and by a mistake the colors were adjudged to her. The error soon became evident, however, and Yale was finally pronounced the winner. Time: Yale 16 mins. 55 secs.; Wesleyan 17 mins., 1 sec.; Harvard 17 mins., 11 secs.; Dartmouth 17 mins., 27¼ secs.; Amherst 17 mins., 32 secs.; Columbia 17 mins., 53½ secs.; Bowdoin 18 mins., 7½ secs.; Massachusetts Agricultural 18 mins., 19½ secs.; Cornell 18 mins., 24 secs.; Trinity 18 mins., 42 secs.; Williams 19 mins., 25¼ secs.

NEW YORK, 17.—The Tribune furnishes the following description of the scene at the University race:

"Notable for propriety was the multitude that this p. m. thronged the river banks. Stretching along for two miles to the finish, and its grand stand over the breadth of Long Meadow, and a gentle undulating plain, were scattered vehicles of every kind and age, bringing to the bank clusters of gaily dressed ladies in all the bravery of their favorite colors. The majority of masculine spectators grouped themselves with that noble disregard of the picturesque, which is so characteristic of the Anglo Saxon race, and patiently waited. Presently a few drops of rain sent everybody to their carriages. Then there were cheers high up the river, that brought everybody to their feet and [illegible] the Freshman race. Then we knew by the peculiar yell from the bank opposite that Yale was leading, and there drifted across our prospective three centipedias, one with a suggestion of blue about it, whereby we knew Yale had won. Yet there was but little enthusiasm, somehow we all accepted the result of the Freshman race as a logical conclusion. Then we all waited for the real feature of the p. m. A shout on the opposite bank, where the band had been playing a number of things, but nothing intelligibly, brought us to our feet with more or less excitement. The great race was coming. It came with a faint tumult increasing along the opposite side into the roars of Rah, and yells of Yale, like the bore on the Hoagly river, and then, after straining our eyes to the uttermost, a toothpick drifted into sight in the surface of the river. At this utterly novel sight we all went into convulsions. We were positive it was Harvard, we would wager our existence it was Yale; if there was anything we were certain of it was that it was Amherst, and then the toothpick changed into a shade, and we held our breath and it then went into a centipede, and our pulses beat violently, and then into a mechanical toy and we screamed, "Of course it was Harvard." It was nearly two miles away, but we knew it. A few other protean shapes slipped across that shining disc, but our eyes were fastened on the first boat hugging opposite the shore, and yet somehow the great distance, the smallness of the object, and mayhap a lingering doubt of the color abstracted all human and vital interest from the scene. We hurrahed because it was the proper thing to do. We grew excited and carefully felt our pulse while doing so, and then suddenly and without warning, at our very feet dashed a boat, light and graceful and beautifully handled, rapidly and palpably shooting ahead of its competitor on the opposite side. There was no mistake about it this time. Here was the magenta color and "Rah" arose from our side that must have been heard at Cambridge. Then Yale on the other side, Yale the undistinguishable, Yale the unsuspected, won."

The Herald has the following account of the race—

"The scene of eleven six-oared crews abreast was thrilling. As the cautionary signal was called it appeared as if all held their breath. The word came at 6 p.m., 9 minutes 30 seconds. There was just a noticeable interval of silence, eleven seconds, and the oars rose in the air, and a short sharp splash followed. All took the water at the same instant, and a shout like the bursting of a thunder cloud succeeded. For the first five hundred feet all seemed in a line, then the great moving panorama seemed to change in an instant. Harvard and Yale were on the west shore in front and rather first. King, the stroke of Cornell, knowing that the prospects of the race depended upon securing better water than lay close in the west bank, called on his crew, and Cornell made a beautiful spirt, showing clear of the Bowdoin on the left, and before the end of the first quarter of a mile taking the water. This brought King's crew to the front, but they did not retain this coveted position for more than 100 yards. Dana, of Harvard, and Cook, of Yale, could be seen settling down for safe rather than brilliant work. Columbia got off exceedingly well, and was along foremost, but at half a mile Williams fell to the rear more than four lengths. Before they had made a quarter the Amherst crew did royal work, but the Agricultural crew suffered badly by one of the men catching a crab and very nearly capsizing the boat. Dartmouth, Trinity and Wesleyan got off together, and were neck and neck at the first quarter. Cornell still held the Bowdoin's water, and pressed hard after Harvard and Yale. The struggle at the mile station was mainly between Harvard and Yale, Amherst and Bowdoin, with Columbia close at hand, hard pressed by the Wesleyan and Agricultural. Harvard kept to about thirty-eight and Yale averaged 40 the minute. Cooke evidently knew the strength of his men, and exactly what they were equal to. The Harvard men appeared very cool and confident, and although Yale had secured a trifling advantage in the lead, it was yet a fight between Harvard, Amherst, Cornell and Columbia. Each man seemed to be doing his very best. Harvard, Yale, Wesleyan, Cornell, Columbia, Dartmouth and Aggie's were all well up, and pulling strong. Passing the third half mile Harvard had a clear lead, with the Wesleyans pushing forward for the second place, and Yale third. The latter were pulling a steady stroke, about thirty-nine to the minute, and pushing their boat pretty fast through the water. The rest of the crews were all pretty close together, with Cornell, Columbia, Dartmouth and the Aggies about a length ahead. For the first mile and a half it was one of the best contested races ever rowed in the Connecticut River. As the leading boats came ahead of the Wesleyan quarters Harvard had a clean lead of a length and bow, and was steering a course towards the east shore. The Wesleyan appeared next, with the Yale crew pulling a little astern and bow, and on the west side. The Columbia was then doing well, and considering their disabled man were pulling a very game race, closely pursued by Cornell, Dartmouth, Amherst and the Aggies. The latter however soon began to improve their pace, and closing up with Amherst forged ahead and challenged Columbia. The Biglings and Grants were also astonishing everybody, as they appeared to be pulling a livelier stroke than usual, and their boat was getting through the water fast. Williams and Trinity were not making good work. Harvard led, hugging close to the eastern shore and pulling about forty strokes to the minute, the Wesleyan and Yale crews in the middle of the stream still hanging close to one another, and followed by Cornell, Amherst, Columbia and Dartmouth. There was then a gap of about a length and the Aggies and Bowdoin followed, with Williams bringing up the rear. At this point the race became intensely exciting, as it looked like a very close thing between Harvard, Yale and the Wesleyans. At the half mile flag the positions still appeared about the same, with the exception that Cornell gained about half a length on the Dartmouth and Columbia. The voices of the students on the shore now rang their changes, and as if catching the excitement, Cook called on his crew and the Blaike boat showed great quality, and shot away like a horse suddenly, and proved the excellence of the English stroke, in which Mr. Cook has drilled himself. The Wesleyans struggled gamely, but could not close on Yale, who were now a length ahead. Harvard, in short, was doing well, and Dana and his gallant men were struggling nobly. Cornell and Amherst were next followed closely by Dartmouth and Columbia. The crews shot by the stands amid deafening cheers in about the same order, passing the lines as follows: Yale ahead, leaving the Wesleyans three lengths, Harvard next, almost five lengths behind the second boat, and Amherst was a length astern of the third; Cornell made a good fifth, closely followed by Columbia and Dartmouth in the order named. The Aggies were some five lengths ahead of Bowdoin, who led Trintiy by about six lengths. Williams brought up in the rear, nearly a hundred yards astern.

NEW YORK, 17.—The Herald's cable special, dated Bayonne 17, says that at 10 o'clock on Wednesday a.m. Don Carlos entered Spain amidst indescribable enthusiasm. Starting from Pau and Bayonne he reached Ustaritz at 5 in the a.m. on horseback, accompanied by two French legitimists, one Carlist officer and four correspondents, and left immediately for the Spanish frontier. The party wore no arms or uniforms, all being in citizens' clothes, and carrying foreign passports, but not a single gen d'arme was encountered. A halt was made at a small inn on the Spanish side of the line. Near the foot of the Peña Plata the Marquis of Naldaspines and Gen. Dizzaraga were waiting with a staff and escort. All kissed the hands of the king. Here Carlos donned a brilliant uniform, and the party proceeded to Gengarramuldy, where several thousand Carlists troops were encamped. A te deum was chanted in the church, and after the religious ceremony nearly every soldier kissed the king's hand. All the republican prisoners were released. The cannons of the fort were fired, and the day was given to universal hilarity. There are 4,000 troops here, but the main force is under Elio, on the coast of Biscay, to cover the landing of a cargo of arms and ammunition from an English ship. A proclamation has just been issued in which he says he will now fight them.

WESTERN.

SAN FRANCISCO 17.—Last night Edward Lemon and Ben Palmer engaged in an affray on Drum St. Lemon received several cuts on the head from a cane, when he drew a bowie knife and stabbed Palmer in the left thigh, inflicting a severe wound. An officer separated the combatants, when Palmer was taken to the hospital and Lemon lodged in jail.

The matter of the training ship and the subject of teaching the arts and trades in common schools, came before the mechanics' deliberative assembly last night, and a resolution was adopted favoring such a system. A letter from Sargent to the secretary of the navy was read, recommending the sale of some vessel out of the service, for use as a training ship in this harbor.

A meeting was held in the 4th District court room this afternoon, by accepted and excused grand jurors, to consider and take some action relative to the charges that Sheriff Adams had tried to pack the jury. F. M. Pixley addressed the meeting on behalf of Mr. Adams, saying the latter believed that the whole thing was a political trick to defeat his renomination. Several district judges and the probate judge had told him, Adams, that his administration had been without fault. Judge McKee has requested the charges to be laid before the grand jury, but the district attorney is so busy that he cannot do so for ten days.

Ellen Fleming and Michael Fleming have sued the California Pacific R. R. company; a son of the plaintiffs, in 1872, went on an excursion train to Calistoga, and by the carelessness of one of the defendants' agents, he was instantly killed near St. Helena.

Captain C. M. Patterson, of the ship Edward James, was fined fifty dollars for cruelty to a seaman, and $1,700 for bringing to this port thirty-four more Chinamen than the size of the vessel allowed.

B. F. Davenport, who died in the city prison last night, was a resident of Sacramento, and recently a guard in the State Prison. It is now thought that he was a victim of foul play.

It is stated that private detective Phillip Smith, notorious through his connection with the case of the escaped nun, is tending bar in Virginia City. He was indicted here for perjury and jumped his bail.

The driver of an express wagon to-day, in Howard St., deliberately drove a wagon over a Chinaman in the street, injuring him severely. The brutal rascal was pursued, but got away. His name was given as Henry Armstrong.

The Leviathan Mining Company has commenced a suit in the United States circuit court, against the segregated Belcher, to recover possession of the mining lode known as the Leviathan, containing 2,600 lineal feet, together with surface ground.

At the annual meeting of the Savage Co., this p.m., an entirely new board was elected, with one exception. James A. Pritchand president, J. H. Boalt, R. Sherwood, J. D. Caughlin, and S. A. Raymond, trustees, A. E. Hamilton superintendent, and E. B. Holmes, secretary. The report that an assessment had been levied is denied at the office.

A post mortem examination of the body of B. F. Davenport, who died in the city prison last week, showed disease of the kidneys and extravasation of blood over the brain sufficient to produce apoplexy, from which the man died.

VICTORIA, V. I., 17.—Mr. Richardson while exploring the island in the vicinity of Horn Lake, ascended the Donaldson river, which makes into a deep bay, a few days ago, for the purpose of ascertaining the features of the country, with a view to the ultimate construction of a branch railroad to Albernewood. Cook & Co., of Queen Charlotte Island, are loading a sloop with gold bearing rock of astonishing richness. The colonists say that the island, in the light of recent discoveries, may yet become one of the most important gold producing sections of the world. In the Van Bremen claim, near Hope, ore has been discovered exceeding in richness all previous strikes.

NAPA, 17.—Yesterday a Spaniard named Carrila got into a difficulty with a German named Julius Stock, when the latter beat the former with a club, fracturing both bones of the fore arm.

Last evening Jno. Smith, a German working on a thresher at Carneros Creek, was accidentally caught in the cylinder, and had his leg mangled in a frightful manner; the leg was amputated below the knee.

Mrs. Jacobson, while jumping from a wagon, fell upon her left side, fracturing two ribs.

A son of Captain Baxter, while driving a cart, fell off and broke his left leg above the ankle.

Robt. Crosby was tried yesterday on a charge of throwing acid on the clothing of his niece, Mary Ann Crosby, and found guilty and fined $35, promising to pay Miss Crosby $50 damage.

EUROPEAN.

MADRID, 17.—The report of the capture of Estella, by the Carlists is confirmed. Contreras has levied a forced loan of $80,000 on the citizens of Carthagena. The Carlists are marching on Logrono. The International Society of Barcelona has been dissolved. The authorities are apprehensive of an outbreak at Valencia, and the commander of the garrison there has been ordered to use every measure of precaution to maintain order.

LONDON.—Reports have reached here that several cases of cholera have occurred at Nienna, and the authorities are endeavoring to suppress the particulars.

BAYONNE.—The Carlists declare that all arms and ammunition shipped for them have been safely landed on the coast of Biscay. Colonel Auzpurua has taken the command of the force formerly led by the Cure of Santa Cruz, and which now numbers one thousand men. Lizzaraga, with four thousand well disciplined infantry and some cavalry and artillery, is operating in Guipuscoa. The Carlists, after capturing a company of carbineers near Puerto la Reina, occupied that town and are reported crossing the Toro at all points, and recruiting, foraging and levying requisitions in the province of Burgols. It is said that the Spanish government intends to form a recruiting camp near Loida, also that the Republican troops have received orders to shoot all priests taken with arms in their hands. The priests are endeavoring to bring about a fusion of the Alfonzists and Carlists.

LONDON.—In the House of Commons this evening the right Hon. Lord Otho Fitzgerald, member for Kildare County, produced and had read the Queen's reply to the address of the Commons on the subject of international arbitration. It is as follows:

"I have received the address of my faithful Commons, praying that I would be graciously pleased to instruct my principal Secretary to enter in communication with foreign powers, with a view to further improve international law, so as to establish a general and permanent system of arbitration. I am sensible of the force of the philanthropic motives dictating that address. I have at all times desired to extend the practice of closing international controversies by their submission to impartial friends, and to encourage the establishment of rules intended for the equal benefit of all. I shall continue to pursue a similar course with a due regard to times and opportunities, whenever it is likely to be attended with advantage." The house received the document with party cheers.

BAYONNE.—Don Carlos has issued orders that the Cure of Santa Cruz shall be treated as a rebel.

BRUSSELS.—Ex-queen of Spain, Isabella, has arrived in this city.

FLORENCE.—Prefect Perugia has forbidden pilgrimages to the cathedral of Assissi, for sanitary reasons.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

EASTERN.

NEW YORK, 18.—A correspondent of the World, under date of Berlin, June 29th, makes public a most remarkable conversation with Prince Bismark, in which the Prince, after giving expression to his weariness of spirits, is made to say: "The truth is, there are not half a dozen men in Germany on our side, I mean, who clearly comprehend the real meaning of the conflict in which we are engaged and in which, notwithstanding our success thus far, I believe we shall be beaten. The Emperor does not understand it, if he did he would change sides in a moment. The Crown Prince, perhaps, does understand it, but he will put himself on the other side, if indeed he is not already there. The fight is the Empire against the Church. It is a fight of the state, empire, monarchy or republic against God, and in this fight the state will get the worst of it unless it succeeds in destroying the idea of God, and placing itself in his place. Men say that they must have something to worship, well then let them worship the State, let it be all in all, let it take the place of the family as well as the Deity, let it be the Deity. In two generations if we had the field wholly to ourselves, we could so obliterate the idea of God and of the imaginary rights bestowed on man by him as their Creator, that the substitution of the State would be effected, and the State, as in Pagan Rome, would be all in all." The correspondent, giving in his own language the spirit of the continued conversation with Bismark, says the seminal idea of the whole was that the aspiration for liberty grew out of a belief in God; that it would be impossible to make a perfectly subservient people out of men imbued with the dogmas of Christianity, and that while all forms of Christianity were alike fallacious he carried war against none but that of the Roman Catholic Church, for reasons that it alone was formidable. He said, "Nothing has amused me more than the praises which I have received from the Protestant churchmen of England and America. I have wished to crush Rome that I might crush Christianity, they praised me for my services in the cause of what they call reformed Christianity. If any one thing could console me for the chagrin which I foresee I am to endure for some time to come, it would be to witness the amazement of these good friends of mine when they understand the truth. But understand it they never will."

The Republican County Convention meets this evening.

A statement is published that Bishop Alemony, on the occasion of his recent birthday anniversary, caused masses to be said on behalf of the condemned murderer, Chas. A. Russell. Nine hundred little girls under the charge of the sisters, publicly prayed for the condemned man.

WESTERN.

SAN FRANCISCO, 18.—Last night Robinson, the man who caused the arrest of Gordon, at Oakland, for incest with his own daughter, Katie Gordon, married the girl in this city. She is 14 years old and Robinson 34. The consent of the girl's parents to the marriage was given in writing. No relatives of either party were present at the wedding. The Rev. Mr. Jewell performed the ceremony.

A crowd of hoodlums, near the corner of Dupont and Green Sts., last night, pelted a Chinaman with stones, one of which struck him in the face, cutting him in a frightful manner. No arrests. The police had better protect these people from these constant brutal assaults than spend so much time and energy in efforts to secure a certain amount of fresh air for them. It is a disgrace to the city that such cowardly and savage performances are permitted every day and allowed to go unpunished. The perpetrators of such acts are worse than heathens.

SAN FRANCISCO, 18.—Ah Heffean, alias Ah Hop, the old Chinaman who mutilated a Chinese boy in a horrible manner, was held to answer to-day for mayhem, in bail of $5,000. The boy, his nephew, it is believed, cannot possibly survive.

Smith and Earle, attorneys of Salt Lake, are about to commence a suit in this city against Wm. M. Lent et al, to recover $10,000, alleged to be due them out of the celebrated Arizona diamond enterprise. The complaint is now preparing by their attorneys.

It is understood that the directors of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co., have been advised by their counsel, Edward Pierrepont, not to sue Stockwell, as requested by Aaron Freeman.

A Buenos Ayres correspondent narrates the particulars of the discovery, in a province of the Argentine Republic, of a wonderful gold mine, said to be the richest in the world. One half of the site of the mine has been sold, according to the narrator, for one hundred million dollars.
