THE U P. TROUBLE.

No Violence on the Wyoming Division of the Union Pacific.

THE SITUATION AT CHEYENNE

Section Men Laid Off—Passenger Trains for the West.—Perishable Freight Sent East.

Special Telegram to the NEWS.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 2.—The strike situation on the Wyoming division of the Union Pacific road is unchanged. The two sections of No. 3 which were sent out from Cheyenne at noon yesterday, were held at Rawlins from 8:00 o'clock last night until 9 o'clock this morning. No firemen could be secured at that place. The officials brought a number of men from Green River and the trains were permitted to proceed without interference. No violence has been attempted at any point on the division.

Judge Riner telegraphed Marshal Hamlin last night to arrest any one who attempted to interfere with the trains or tamper with the hands of the receivers. This morning the engine wipers and machinists employed in the round house at this place joined the strikers. There are about fifteen of them. All the section men on the division were laid off yesterday. They are members of the Railway union. Passenger trains Nos. 1 and 2 from the east and south and the overland are being doubleheaded here and will be dispatched west at 2:45 o'clock in two sections. One train of perishable freight went east last night.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF RAWLINS CREATES A SENSATION.

A telegram sent to the officials here from Rawlins is to the effect that the city council of Rawlins met this morning and ordered United States Marshal Hankin and his deputies to leave the city at once. In view of the fact that Rawlins is the strike center in Wyoming, this news has created a profound sensation.

FORT RUSSELL TROOPS FOR DENVER.

Two companies of the Seventeenth infantry, U. S. regulars have been ordered from Fort Russell to Colorado. A train consisting of three coaches and a baggage car is now at the fort and will soon be flying on its way to Denver.

Blast Furnaces Closed.

JOLIET, Ill., July 2.—The blast furnaces of the Illinois Steel company closed down last night on account of no coke and the other departments will close today.

Cleveland's Firmness.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 2.—President Cleveland's firmness in the matter of carthing in July, 1894, at a rate of 24 cents is certain and absolutely necessary in order to protect the credit of the republic. The treasury now holds a reserve of $1,500,000 and the bitulate fields not of October next are expected to realize nearly two millions.

James H. Field Dead.

CHICAGO, July 2.—James H. Field died last night, aged 63. Fifteen years ago he was city editor of the JOURNAL. Later for nine years he was advertising agent for a reaper company and at the time of his death was president of a spring wagon company. He was a thirty-third degree mason and the funeral services will be conducted by that order.

The New President Threatened.

LONDON, July 2.—A dispatch from Paris says a placard was found in the Marie street Honore last evening which threatened President Casimir-Perier with death. Placards similarly golden up were found a few days prior to the assassination of President Carnot.

A Steamer Ashore.

LONDON, July 2.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Venetia from Christiansand, June 29, for New York, is ashore at Strouen island off the northerly coast of Scotland. She is likely to float the next high tide.

THE MIO REGATTA.

A Race Between Several Famous Yachts.

LARGS, Firth of Clyde, July 2.—Betweened Hills, from London, Britannia, Valkyrie and Santanita started this morning in the big race. The course is about fifty miles. The Valkyrie, since she carries 1,200 feet of increased sail, allows the Britannia nine seconds. Santanita allows both Britannia and Valkyrie two minutes and twenty-six seconds. At Skelmorlie, nearing the first buoy, the Valkyrie was leading, thirty-five seconds; Santanita second. In the ten miles race the American built yacht Deerie, left all of her class behind, although she started last.

The result was another victory for the Prince of Wales's cutter Britannia, which crossed the finishing line one minute and forty-five seconds ahead of the Valkyrie.

The Valkyrie continued to increase her lead, off Gourock. When nearing once around the four-cornered course the Britannia overhauled the Samanitha. The first round was timed as follows: Valkyrie 2, 33, 33; Britannia 2, 38, 51; Santanita 2, 39, 41.

A Lost Finger Ring.

A gold finger ring with dark stone setting (representing a female head) was lost on South East Temple street today. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at the office.

The Republican Club.

The Workingmen's Central Republican club will hold one of their regular meetings on Friday night, the 6th inst., at the G. A. R. hall. A fine program has been prepared, consisting of songs, recitations, speeches, etc. Among the speakers announced are Judge Zane and W. F. James.

Prof. Whiting's Lecture.

The first of the series of lectures under the auspices of the Summer school was delivered last evening at the Deseret Museum building by Prof. C. A. Whiting. Choosing for his theme "The Relation of the Teacher to the Thought of the Age," the speaker said in substance: The teacher should stimulate thought. The human mind is developed by the process of drawing out. The tendency of the teaching of the present is to instruct by the most approved methods. That of the past has savored of the pouring in process—one in which the teacher has done too much of the work. The teacher cannot be a substitute for the pupil; growth comes from the unfolding and development of all the powers of the mind. The laboratory method is superseding the work of the past. All over the country biological laboratories are being established, and one genius has devised a method of teaching history by this agency. The district school, the university, the college, should radiate light to the most remote parts of the section embraced respectively by each. The teacher should direct thought. It is his province in his sphere to act as a conservator of public opinion—to stand between that doctrine of liberty which is too radical in either extreme and that which good judgment and sound principles dictate. No time should be spent in speculating. Old thoughts are being displaced by more intelligent philosophy. The teacher should be in advance of his constituency. Four hundred years ago the earth was considered the most important body in the universe. Science afterward revealed the fact that the planets move in their orbits by a fever-changing force—an immutable law. Antiquity promulgated certain laws which the light of a more intelligent age dispelled. In country districts, a homogeneity of thought is prevalent. The environments tend toward this condition. The religious problem in a community is solved with much difficulty. The teacher should be religious, should have high ideals, should live right, act right, be right. The eternal principles of truth prevail. Nature is a great teacher, yet much of the teaching upon nature as a basis is false, and should not exist. Much of the so-called teaching relative to temperance is wrong in its principles. Children should be taught the evils that follow indulgence in ardent spirits—the results are appalling. While these truths should be strongly impressed upon the mind, the student also should be taught that alcohol has its uses in the human economy. Its value is found in physical and nervous force, when the use of alcohol is properly understood.

The speaker then touched upon the tobacco question. The baneful effects of cigarette smoking, as well as the effect of tobacco upon the human system, were fully set forth. In bringing the address to a close, allusion was made to the strikes which are becoming alarmingly frequent. The struggle between capital and labor must be settled, and that in the near future. The rising generation should be thoroughly instructed in those principles upon which the safety of society and the perpetuity of the government rest. It is the sphere of the teacher to thoroughly inculcate these truths. Properly taught, all such problems will adjust themselves. In closing, an appeal was made to every citizen to do his duty, and in connection therewith, the beautiful poem of Clair ev Mackey was repeated, bringing the address to a most appropriate termination.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE WEBER TESTIMONIAL.—It was in all ways fitting that one of the rarest and most classic programs ever presented at a home concert, and one of the most brilliant assemblages on "off" season has yet drawn out, should have been reserved for the testimonial to Mr. W. E. Weber—the gentleman who, by common consent of both the social public and that "scattering, differing" class, the musical public—occupies the position of the first and foremost of our local musicians. Everyone seemed actuated by a wholesome impulse to make the event distinguished, in its program, in its attendance, in its management and in its results, and for once we are able to record a testimonial that testified; a benefit that benefitted. The box office last night showed the receipts to amount to something over $400; as the rent and other expenses were reduced to the lowest notch, it is safe to say Mr. Weber will be handed a purse of not less than $300 as the result of his friends' endeavors and his own popularity.

The program for the occasion was, as it deserved to be, simply admirable; with one or two changes, two at most, it could have been made the most ideal that home artists have ever yet built upon it was, it was only a notch short of ideal. It was a night of positive triumph for no other than Mr. Weber himself—Miss Viola Pratt. The audience came keyed up to rather a critical pitch as far as this young lady was concerned, the stories of her progress in the east having preceded her to her home and been generally circulated. High as expectations were, however, her performance not only equalled them but went beyond them. Her improvement in voice, in address, and in that inexplicable style which makes up so large a part of the success of the best artists, is surprising. In facing her audience, she showed a reserve strength, a grace and a charm of manner that won her her half the battle before she sang a note, and her beautiful voice and fine rendering of the difficult selection from Le Cid, completed the conquest she unquestionably gained. Her encore is the most wonderful thing about her new voice—for it is practically a new voice she has acquired. She sang from G below to B natural above, with equal clearness and fullness, and her register, we understand, is from F below to G. She can hardly be called a contralto with such a range as that, though it is as controllable as anything. What her limits will be in a few years it is hard to say, certainly her future is most brilliant. For the tremendous recall she received she sang Le Cid, which she rendered in French, she gave an English song. When the Heart is Young, with equal charm. In the Ave Maria she shone with admirable advantage, this, with such artists as Weber, Kronse and Mrs. Hamilton so far also, made the artistic gem of the night, and it was enthusiastically encored. Mr. Weber, of course, had the royal ovation of the evening, and after his admirable playing, he was quite smothered in a shower of flowers that descended upon his head from the upper stage box. At the same time Miss Adele Cummings advanced upon the stage with a huge floral piece and presented to him as a token of esteem. Mr. Weber, although nearly overcome, made a handsome and feeling response to the audience, after which he was called out twice more, once rendering a new and charming lullaby inscribed to himself by Prof. Kronse, and near the ever popular mazurka by Mazzoni.

Mr. Kronse also had a warm reception and a great recall after his beautiful rendering of Gounod's Dream; as an encore he gave Mary of Argyle in the style that only Eason can impart to a Scotch ballad, for which he was made to reappear and bow. Miss Eldredge was applauded for her rendition of Marie Dreaux, a very charming piece; we believe, however, her talents would have shown better in some light and bright selection, not given in character. Mrs. Hove sang up to her own standard in the beautiful Perle du Brazil selection as she does here by Louise Adler, and was rewarded with a handsome bouquet. Mrs. Edwards's beautiful voice told to rare advantage in the Jewel song from Faust; the Lucia sextette was vociferously applauded, and would have been encored had it not been the last number; as it was many people—among them the Lady Windermere's Fan company, who, held here by the strikes, were among the most enthusiastic auditors—rushed their seats and tried to catch to bring the singers back. Some parts of the sextette were excellent; in others it was uneven, the result of too few rehearsals. Mr. Stephens waved the baton over this number. Miss Morris and Mr. Krouse of course made all that was possible out of their fine hand selection, and Mr. Krouse had a warm recall for his solos. The arduous accompaniments of the night were in the hands of this gentleman, and no more cannot be said of the artistic manner in which he acquitted himself. The rare taste and skill with which he subordinates the instrument to the singer, at the same time lending him or her all the needed support, is the distinguishing trait of Mr. Krouse's work. The audience was charmingly received by a bevy of young ladies dressed in white, and the management was in the hands of a committee capably presided over and directed by Mrs. Hamilton and the indefatigable Fred Simon.

NOTES.

HALLEN & HART appear at the Theater Friday evening.

THE LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN CO., Were to have played at Pocatello tonight but the strikers ordered otherwise. The manner in which they enjoyed the concert last evening, shows that their enforced vacation in Salt Lake is anything but unpleasant.

MISS PRATT stated last evening that Mr. Weber, her leading, always made it a rule to let people who sing the event of their public appearance, and she repaired to the telegraph office for that purpose after the concert last evening. The NEWS representative asked the privilege of penning the impetus, but was laughingly denied.

MRS. PLUMMER'S REVIEW.—Among those in the audience last evening who were particularly pleased with the rare program, was Mrs. Ge. Plummer, the well known actress, who has just returned from a sojourn in London. Mrs. Plummer has done some hard studying since she went abroad. Her return will be a decided acquisition to our musical forces, and we join with her many friends in bidding her welcome.

SIGNOR BOSCO and his wife during their stay in Salt Lake, sat for a number of portraits to Salisbury and Johnson. Each one of those executed of the lady is the largest photograph ever made here, and is a decidedly handsome piece of work.

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

Meals for Delayed Passengers — Movement of Trains.

The condition of the strike, so far as the O. P. is concerned is unchanged, except that it is continually growing weaker.

The Rio Grande southbound last night was delayed about ten minutes caused by the fireman refusing to go with the train with Pullman's attached. He had no sooner stepped from his place to the cab than the master mechanic stepped in and the train pulled out like a streak of lightning. Several deputies stood close by in order to protect the men who were taking out the train, but no disturbance was raised and their services were not needed.

Arrangements were made yesterday by the several railroad companies to provide for the footsore passengers who are delayed here; those of them who have second class tickets were given meal tickets on the Central hotel, while those who have first class tickets receive nothing, they being thought able to care for themselves.

The posting of the order from Judge Merritt last evening resulted to a great number of strikers returning to their work this morning.

The delayed passengers held a meeting at the depot last evening to decide what steps they should take in order to be relieved of their present situation. Two committees were appointed, one to wait on Superintendent Knapp and ask that a train without Pullmans be provided them without delay to carry them to their destination, the other to call upon the A. R. U. and secretary of that body if they would be willing to man such a train and carry them through.

After the close of this meeting a rousing meeting was held by the strikers at the A. O. U. W. hall. Miss Becks, of Chicago, delivered a speech to the crowd assembled on the "situation at Pullman," or the "curse of the strike." After this meeting adjourned the A. R. U. met in private session to consider the question put before them by the delayed passengers.

A number of orderly marshals were sworn in last night and at 7 o'clock this morning were at the depot for the purpose of protecting the men who went to work this morning in place of the strikers.

The Union Pacific from Salt Lake this morning arrived on time bringing Marshal Brannon and a number of deputies. The officers went for Salt Lake pulling out on time and unmolested. The Utah Northern pulled in and was held here (this).
