Malad Stake Conference.

The Malad Stake quarterly conference convened at Malad City, Idaho, Sunday and Monday, June 16th and 17th, 1895, President Oliver G. Hoskins presiding. There were present on the stand: Elders Heber J. Grant, of the Twelve Apostles, Seymour B. Young, of the first council of Seventies, and George F. Gibbs, of Salt Lake, the Stake presidency, nearly all of the Bishops and members of the High Council, a good representation of the presiding officers throughout the Stake and a good attendance of members.

After the opening exercises Sunday morning, brief reports were made by a number of Bishops of the conditions of their wards, which to the mind were encouraging. The remainder of the session was occupied by Elders W. H. Gibbs, of the Stake presidency, S. B. Young and Heber J. Grant. Elder Young spoke upon the fulfilment of prophecy, referring in particular to the revelation on war contained in the Doctrine and Covenants. Elder Grant spoke upon the favorable condition in we as a people occupy through the blessings of God, and thought it a strange thing that any one could fail to see the hand of God in the history of the Saints.

The afternoon was occupied in the administration of the Sacrament, the presentation of the General and Stake authorities, who were unanimously sustained, as was also John Raymond Parkinson, and discourses by Bishop George F. Gibbs and Heber J. Grant. Elder Gibbs dwelt upon the importance of sustaining the brethren that were voted for this afternoon. Elder Grant occupied the remainder of the afternoon in a very pointed and powerful discourse on practical religion, pointing out clearly that a salvation could not be gained with good intentions alone.

Meeting convened in the evening at 7 o'clock. President O. G. Hoskins reported the Stake as in a prosperous condition; he urged the Saints to continued faithfulness in paying their tithes and offerings and to attending fast meetings, etc. He was followed by Elder Young on the importance of the Saints leading pure lives and having faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Elder Grant spoke upon false faith as found in the world, and showed the folly of the doctrine that belief in Christ would alone bring salvation.

Monday morning was partly occupied by reports from the Bishoprics and the remainder was occupied by Elders Young and Grant on the power of example and the advantages to be derived through the keeping of the Word of Wisdom, both financially and otherwise. Brother Grant suggested that the tabernacle should be finished; and it could easily be done if we would keep the Word of Wisdom and use the means thus saved and apply it in that direction.

At the convening of conference at 1 p. m., Elder Young continued the subject of observing the Word of Wisdom, explaining the effects of tobacco on the human system, and the Lord requires that the Saints do now observe the Word of Wisdom. The next speaker was Elder Geo. F. Gibbs, who referred to the great amount of good instructions that the Saints receive from time to time, and if they would only put them into practice we would become a great people. The closing remarks were made by Elder Grant, who dwelt on the necessity of leading pure lives and living our religion, guarding against a self-righteous feeling. When we hear the servants of God argument the truths of heaven and we go away and disregard their teachings, we become under condemnation.

Thus closed a very interesting and instructive conference, which was fairly well attended, considering the weather and the open condition of the unfinished tabernacle. It is to be hoped that it will be finished in the near future, and avoid exposing the health of the people and the visiting brethren, as we live in a very changeable climate.

Sunday evening we were visited by a killing frost, which decimated most of the fruit, and it is feared that the early wheat has been badly damaged.

The Pigs.

The prevailing high price of pork will induce farmers to promote the rapid development of all their swine, young pigs particularly will receive extra care and attention. One of the requisites is a warm pen, and it will pay to make it as cozy as possible. Give the pigs plenty of bedding, separating this from the remainder of the pen by a board six inches wide set upon edge. Give plenty of milk for the first few weeks, mixing in a little oatmeal or chop stuff, after which more solid food may be given. If skimed to feed some or other grain whole, it should be soaked six hours in warm water previous to feeding. Do not turn the pigs out to pasture until the grass is at least six inches high, and if the object be to produce fat they should be kept under shelter until the desired size is reached. When at large they spend a great deal of time and do not gain very fast in weight when coming of racing stock. Do not allow any other person but the herdsman to feed the swine, for
