EVENING NEWS.

Tuesday, August 29, 1876.

The Tramp in California.

Very much has been said and written about the tramp nuisance, but very little has been done to remedy it. The tramps have become uncomfortably numerous in this State. We have been afflicted so severely in California this year with these roaming characters that the question is a serious one, "What shall we do with them?" When the crusade of the tramps began they were looked upon as unfortunate men out of employment, but they have lost this characteristic now, and appear to be an organized fraternity, moved by common impulse and acting upon a regular system of imposition and terrorism. Instances of this fact have come to our knowledge very recently, which show the tramps in this State to be acting in concert. They have mapped out the best begging districts, and allotted them by rotation to their straggling bands. They study the habits of denizens of cities and towns, and adapt their calls to the hours of absence from home of the masters of houses. They have hieroglyphic plats pointing out the weak points of approach to various houses and hearts, where strategy, force, supplication, demand or entreaty is of most avail. If these tramps are not to be treated as in an attitude of antagonism to society, hostile to industry, and as enemies of labor, then their classification is yet to be declared. It is certain the evil is increasing. It is one which propagates with marvelous rapidity. The tramp, every day he remains such, cultivates the desire to continue as a tramp, and live without honest effort. Their raids are not confined to towns and cities, but extend to rural districts, where, from the absence of police regulations, they prey with more boldness and often become a terror to the people. A disposition in some communities to organize for resistance to these professional gangs is manifesting itself, and is one to be encouraged, for the only argument for which the tramp has due respect is that born of bold resistance.—Sacramento Record-Union, Aug. 24.

A Cure for Hydrophobia.

The Salut Public of Lyons says: Dr. Bussion claims to have discovered a remedy for this terrible disease. In attending a female patient in the last stage of canine madness, the doctor imprudently wiped his hand with a handkerchief impregnated with the saliva. There happened to be a slight abrasion on the index finger of the left hand; but, confident in his own curative system, the doctor merely washed the parts with water. He was fully aware of the imprudence he had committed, and says: "Believing that the malady would not declare itself until the fortieth day, and having various patients to visit, I put off from day to day the application of my remedy—that is, vapor baths. The ninth day, being in my cabinet, I felt all at once a pain in my eyes. My body felt so light that I felt as if I could jump to a prodigious height, or if thrown out of a window, I could sustain myself in the air. My hair was so sensitive that I appeared to be able to count each separately without looking at it. Saliva kept forming in my mouth. Any movement of air caused great pain to me, and I was obliged to avoid the sight of brilliant objects. I had a continual desire to run and bite—not human beings, but animals, and all that was near me. I drank with difficulty, and I remarked that the sight of water distressed me more than the pain in my throat. I believe that by shutting the eyes any one suffering from hydrophobia can always drink. The fits come on every five minutes, and I then felt the pain start from my index finger and run up the nerves to the shoulder. In this state, thinking that my course was preservative, not curative, I took a vapor bath, not with the intention of cure, but of suffocating myself. When the bath was 52 centigrade (93 3.5 Fahrenheit,) all the symptoms disappeared as if by magic, and since then I have never felt anything more of them. I have attended more than eighty persons bitten with mad animals, and I have not lost a single one. When a person is bitten by a mad dog, he must for seven successive days take a vapor bath, a la Russe, of 57 to 62 degrees. This is the preventive remedy. A vapor bath may be quickly made by putting two or three red-hot bricks in a bucket for fifteen or twenty minutes. When the disease is declared, it only requires one vapor bath, rapidly increasing to 57 centigrade, then slowly to 53, and the patient must strictly confine himself to his chamber until the cure is complete."

For God's sake give this remedy a trial should a case present itself.

G. F. COLBURN,

Washington, D. C.

THE OSAGE ORANGE.—The Los Angeles Express, urging the cultivation of the Osage orange, says—

"It is hard, durable and never shrinks—and will bear an elegant polish. We have known wagon wheels, made and ironed when the wood was perfectly green, and in seasoning they did not shrink enough to loosen the irons. It is much harder, and equally as springy, as white oak or hickory, and less susceptible to decay. There is no tree in the world, except the willow, easier to raise. It grows rapidly from the seed, and a switch stuck in moist soil will grow as rapidly as if it had been transplanted with roots to it. In addition to all this, we believe it is as rapid a grower as the Australian gum, and as well adapted to a dry climate. In the Southern States it is used largely for hedges, but it requires a great deal of labor to keep it trimmed or topped down, so rapid is its growth. It should be planted at least ten feet apart for timber purposes—and if our farmers would devote each a small strip of land to the growth of this tree, they would soon find it a paying investment."

EASY PAYMENTS ON HARD TERMS.—The system of selling sewing machines and furniture on monthly payments to poor sewing women and householders has degenerated into a regular plan for swindling the unfortunate dupes who purchase on these co-called easy terms. The Bridget Barry case is still fresh in the memory of our readers, and we had hoped that the system had received a wholesome check; but we are compelled to record another instance of dishonest dealing, in which a poor widow woman has been the sufferer. It is to be regretted that the law does not empower the police justices to deal summarily with these knaves, who trade and grow fat on the misfortunes of the poor. The system is a disgrace to our community, and should be wholly suppressed as illegal and extortionate.—New York Herald, Aug. 20.
