FRAGMENTS.

YESTERDAY'S clearings in the Salt Lake clearing house were $505,426, same day last year, $225,581.

THE charge of adultery against H. B. Nickerson, which was to have come up yesterday afternoon in Commissioner Greenman's court, has been settled, and the complaint withdrawn.

IT is expected that about $250 will be cleared by the garden party given last night on behalf of the Orphans' Home, and so successfully managed by Miss McCreight and Mrs and Miss Burke.

FUNERAL services were held at 3 o'clock this afternoon over the remains of the little son of President Harry Sherman and wife, who have the sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

AT a meeting of the Blue Jay Consolidated Mining Company yesterday afternoon the directors chosen for the ensuing year were W. H. Chamberlain, Jackson Bolton, W. A. Kinney, O. S. Hendricks, Jr., and F. S. Gunnell. The Board of directors elected W. H. Chamberlain president, F. Gunnell vice president, and J. T. Lynch secretary and treasurer.

AT a meeting of the County court at 1 p.m. yesterday, the committee on settlement of county offices recommended the following salaries for 1892: Treasurer, $1,400; clerk, $3,000; assessor, $2,200; sheriff, $3000; recorder, $1000; jail and gaoler commissioner, $500; attorney, $500. The report was adopted, Judge Hardy voting no, because he saw no good reason to raise any salaries at present. The committee to audit collector's accounts for 1891 reported that the accounts were correct. The sum of $1500 was appropriated to Assessor W. J. Lynch.

Amusements.

The second performance of Frank Daniels' company of comedians takes place tonight.

"CHIMES OF NORMANDY."

The next attraction will be the Eckert Opera company in the following repertoire: Friday evening, "Chimes of Normandy," Saturday matinee, "Pinafore" and Saturday night, "Olivette."

Sent to the "Pen."

W. E. Browning and Geo. Mitchell, the two men who were arrested last Monday night by Officer Chase and a party of citizens in the act of going through the house of James Anderson on the Harrisville road, near Ogden, were arraigned this morning before Commissioner Hulaniski, on the charge of burglary.

The men pleaded guilty, but the commissioner deemed it advisable to examine several witnesses in order that the defendants might not be given free board and lodging at the expense of the Territory unless there were good grounds for their detention.

The burglars were held in $2000 bonds each, and taken to the penitentiary last night by Marshal Rowe.

POOR "JEFF'S" FUNERAL.

The Coroner's Jury Say that the Deceased came to His Death by His Own Thoughtlessness.

Coroner Harris today held an inquest over the remains of unfortunate Jeff Clark, the colored man who was accidentally killed in the new McCornick building late yesterday afternoon as detailed in last evening's News. The jury found from the the evidence presented that the deceased came to his death by thoughtlessly putting himself in the way of an elevator which was in an unfinished condition. The jury exonerated Mr. McCornick "as the work was uncompleted and not yet accepted by him."

Clark was probably the best known colored man in the Territory. He was a great favorite among his own people and was widely respected by the white population of this city. He was an intelligent and affable gentleman, and his tragic ending is generally deplored by all who knew him.

His funeral will take place tomorrow, and the Afro-American friends of the deceased are making extensive preparations for the occasion.

ABOUT PRESERVING FRUIT, ETC.

The California Cold Process Dwelt Upon by a Correspondent.

Editor Deseret News:

We have noticed articles lately in several papers regarding the preserving of fruit by the California Cold Process. Some write as though it was a patent and difficult to obtain the right to use; but such is not the case. The material employed is the compound extract of saiya which any druggist, if he does not have it in stock, can easily obtain. It has been used for years, so that the system is well established.

It is not necessary to heat or seal the fruit, but just to put it in the vessels you wish to keep it in and pour the saiyah over the fruit until it will keep its natural color and taste for years. You can keep currants on the stem, green corn on the cob, and fruit or vegetables of any kind in a perfectly natural state. The cost is only about one cent per quart, and the labor is almost nothing. A capful of berries can be put up in ten minutes easily. We have put up hundreds of packages of fruit by the California cold process, and we never knew it fail to give satisfaction, and have shipped fruit to all points of the United States. The saiya is made especially for preserving fruit and vegetables, and the druggist from whom it is bought will give complete directions for using. We have berries, cherries, grapes and pears kept this way, and we do not believe any one could tell them from fresh picked fruit. Beside the plan is so cheap and so little trouble is involved that anyone can derive great benefit by adopting the California cold process. We feel that any person who once tries it will never put up another can of fruit or adopt any other method.

NEW CONCORD, Ohio, July 18, 1892.

SUPREME COURT.

The Rendering of Several Judicial Opinions This Morning.

AN INTERESTING POINT IN TO SUCCESSION.

The Judges Administer a Rebuke to Attorneys and Sound a Note of Warning.

An adjourned session of the Territorial Supreme Court was held this morning, all the Judges being present, namely, Chief Justice Zane and Associate Justices Anderson, Blackburn and Miner.

In the absence of Clerk Beebe (who is away on a holiday) Deputy Clerk J. M. Stipp officiated in his stead and read the minutes of the previous sitting of the court, which were confirmed and signed.

DEFERRED.

Judge Anderson rendered the opinion in the case of Ann Knudsen, plaintiff and respondent vs. Julius Hansberg, administrator of the estate of James Knudsen, deceased, James C. Knudsen, Ida Amelia Knudsen, and Nels W. Knudsen, by their guardian, James F. Dunn, appellants.

This was an appeal from Judge Blackburn's court (First District.) The point involved in the case was the division of certain real estate, including a homestead, in fee, by succession.

The real estate in question, occupied by the deceased and his widow at the time of the former's death, consisted of five acres of land in Provo City—farm land with a dwelling house thereon, appraised at $2000. This valuation exceeded the homestead limit. The personal property was appraised at $950.

The court held that under the statutes of the Territory the homestead right did not attach in favor of the widow or children unless the estate was insolvent and in debt or below the homestead allowance in value, and if it were not, it went to the heirs at once under the law of succession, subject to the widow's right of dower. As to whether the widow was entitled to dower in the husband's lands and also to one-third thereof by succession, by the Edmunds-Tucker law passed March 3, 1887, the law provided that a widow shall be endowed of one-third part of all lands, whereof her husband was seized of at any time during coverture, unless by the marriage unless she shall have lawfully released her right thereto. The Court could see no reason why the law of Congress and the law of succession passed by the Territory were in conflict with each other. The decree of the court below was modified accordingly, and the case remanded for further proceedings. Justices Zane and Anderson concurred.

Milton J. West, appellant, vs. W. O. Child, A. H. Child, John Reek and Morris Goldberg et al., respondents. This case came up from Judge Miner's court, and the opinion was given by Judge Anderson. It was an appeal from a judgment sustaining a demurrer to plaintiff's complaint and dismissing the action. The judgment of the lower court was affirmed.

Chief Justice Zane delivered the opinion in the case of W. T. Smith et al., appellants, vs. Martin Williamson, respondent. It was an appeal from Judge Blackburn's court, and was the outcome of a suit on a promissory note for $800. The respondent admitted that he signed the note, but averred he was so drunk at the time that he was incapable of understanding the effect of his act. The court now said that a person who executed a proposed negotiable paper while deprived of reason by insanity might avoid it in the hands of an innocent endorsee, and the same rule should apply when the person was deprived of reason by intoxication. If one is most fall upon one of two innocent persons, it should be borne by the one whose fault contributed to it, if either was in fault. The judgment of the lower court was reversed and the cause remanded with direction to grant a new trial. Justices Anderson and Miner concurred.

Judge Miner rendered the opinion in the case of Cynthia E. Jones, plaintiff and respondent, vs. Jane Monmott, defendant and appellant. It came on appeal from Judge Blackburn's court, and arose out of an action of ejectment to recover possession of a house and lot in Provo. Judgment being found for the plaintiff, the judgment of the lower court was affirmed with costs.

Judge Anderson delivered the Court's opinion in the matter of Valentine Thomas and S. W. Pulliam, appellants, vs. F. C. Martin, trustee of the Gladstone Mining Co., respondents (appeal from Judge Blackburn's Court). It was originally a dispute over a patent for a mining claim known as the Michigan Lode, situated in Juab County. A number of affidavits were filed on the case, among them one by the appellants signed by M. M. Kaighn and E. F. Colman. This the Court said was a flagrant violation of the rules of this Court, and of those which prevail in all Courts, and was stricken from the files. Counsel for the appellants were admonished that a repetition of the offense would be attended with consequences more than mere rebuke. In their printed brief they several times referred to the plaintiffs as "miners" and "poor men" with poverty and sickness in the house," etc., while the defendant in interest, the Bullion Back & Champion Mining Co., was referred to as "a rich corporation." It was intended that if this case should be affirmed by the court the "blistering measure" would be "still further stormed" at the power of wealthy corporations in the courts. All these questions referred to were wholly immaterial in the case and were not proper subjects of comment by counsel in this court. The order of the district court appealed from was confirmed. Justices Zane and Miner concurred.

James Wilson, respondent, vs. Joseph W. Bight, appellant. This appeal came from Judge Blackburn's court, the action having been originally brought to recover the unpaid remainder of the price of plaintiff's interest in certain mining claims sold to the defendant. The judgment of the lower court was affirmed. Judge Zane delivered the opinion and Justices Anderson and Miner concurred.

MORE TO COME.

Judge Zane intimated that other opinions would be handed down tomorrow.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR.

On motion of Attorney W. H. Dickson, Mr. Willard B. Thompson, of Michigan, and Mr. Geo. H. Francoeur, of California, were admitted to practice at the bar of this court.

DISMISSED.

The case of H. G. Warner, appellant, vs. G. A. Barry et al., was dismissed under rule three and Int. Int. motion of Attorney Heyward, of Ogden.

BOND ON APPEAL.

Lindy vs. Salt Lake City on appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, the bond being fixed at $500.

SUBMITTED ON BRIEFS.

The case of the Nepui Irrigation company, appellants, vs. Richard Jenkins et al. was submitted on briefs.

ARGUED AND SUBMITTED.

The appeal of Lewis A. Scott Elliott, appellant, vs. George C. Whitmore et al., was argued by Attorney C. S. Varian for the appellant and by Attorney W. H. Dickson for the respondents. It involves a question of water rights.

APPEAL TRAVERSE.

W. C. Ansell et al. vs. Williams Garland (two cases). An appeal to the supreme Court of the United has been prayed.

WHAT ARE YOU?

That is the Question The Harrison Club Asks of Utah Citizens.

There was a large, earnest and enthusiastic meeting of the Harrison club in the G. A. R. hall last night. Republican principles were discussed and the following address issued:

WHAT ARE YOU?

Utah is now to vote with statehood in view for a man who is a Republican or Democrat. Which shall determine every citizen in the Territory.

For the first time in our history the citizens of Utah, whether Republican or Democrat, will be able to cast a vote for his party candidate for the delegate to Congress.

The national parties are drawn up in battle front. The flags are out. The banner of Republicanism is the "Protection for American Industry!" The flag of Democracy is "Free Trade" disguised as "Tariff Reform."

The Republican principle is to build up home industries by giving them protection against foreign competition and to protect American wage earners against competition with ill-paid foreign labor. The principle of the Democrat is to destroy our own products by the manufacture of countries employing pauper labor!

Which side are you on? This is a matter of the utmost moment to us in Utah. Our good industries, and indeed, our growing and vigorous infant industries, are doomed and condemned by the party of the Democratic party, and the promises that party has made to them by law.

Now and always the effort of Democracy is to take away from those industries the protection that gives them life and vigor. Shall we, who are young, give courage and support to those who have intrenched so and hunk from the law, so that our industries may be hunted down, gone wood, and make sugar. If you want the interest which is of our industries developed, and the money to prosper,

BE A REPUBLICAN.

If you want wool-growers to get a fair price for their wool,

BE A REPUBLICAN.

If you want to pay your neighbors for sugar and keep the money in the country instead of paying it to foreigners

BE A REPUBLICAN.

If you are a farmer and want to furnish farm produce, at good prices, to our coming mining

BE A REPUBLICAN.

If you are a merchant and wish to retain the trade you now enjoy by reason of the working of the tariff

BE A REPUBLICAN.

If you want all the good industries enjoyed by the East, and Europe,

Republicanism is the wheels of progress, Democracy is the brake. We must have one or the other. If we are to advance, the brake bar unless. Eight years ago we put on the brake. The suffers from the effect of it.

It is the duty of every Republican to work earnestly for the success of Republican principles, to whatever extent, in these principles, and to gain for his party all the success he can.

All thinking men must be convinced that early statehood for Utah is inevitable. If Utah is soon to be a State our material interests demand that it shall be a Republican State. The time is short! March shoulder to shoulder, and do your best to hold Utah to the union of States and have forever American industry, fostered American labor, and made possible the development and growth of our great mineral wealth.

By authority Harrison Republican club.

A Sad Ending to a Pleasure Trip.

About two months ago, Mr. John Hillhouse of Glasco, Kansas, with his son David, arrived in this city, where he formerly resided, on a visit to his relatives and friends in the Territory.

A little over a week ago he went to Hooper to where a large number of his relatives reside, and, while there, was taken violently sick, first with inflammation of the bowels and afterwards with pneumonia. He lingered in great agony until Monday morning of this week, when he expired. His son, who is but twenty-one years of age, remained by his father's bedside to the last, and in obedience to the wishes of his mother, telegraphed to him, started last evening, August 2nd, for home over the D. & R. G. R. R., with the remains of his father. A number of the old friends of the deceased, among whom was our respected townman, Charles Livingston, gathered at the depot to pay their last respects to the deceased and speak words of encouragement to the grief stricken boy.

Mr. Hillhouse was well known by the early Scotch residents of the Territory. He was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, in the spring of 1834. He served in the war of the Rebellion, on the side of the Union. He leaves a widow and a large number of grown up sons and daughters to mourn his sad departure. M. H. L.

THOUGHT SHE HAD A BARGAIN.

A Lady from the Rocky Mountains Meets with a Disappointment.

It was monday and lower Washington street was crowded with the usual throng of hurrying pedestrians. At the corner of Mill street a young man with a satchel slung at his side was trying to attract the attention of those who passed. In one hand he held a pair of pantaloons with the heaviest part down, and as he swung them slowly back and forth he called out at varying intervals: "Here they are, now, only ten cents a pair; they remove wrinkles and prevent baggy knees. Ten cents is all they are."

These and kindred remarks he varied from time to time by asking loudly, "Who's the next one to take a pair; only ten cents a pair?"

Presently there appeared on the scene a woman, somewhat past the prime of life, and evidently from the rural districts, on a shopping expedition. She stopped and looked at the young man, fixing her eyes on the suspended garment with a natural curiosity. Just then the previous statements of the young man were renewed with fresh emphasis:

"They're only ten cents—a dime. There all they are, gents, only ten cents a pair!"

He didn't notice the woman, and while he was looking the other way she took advantage of her opportunity to examine the texture of the cloth in the pantaloons. She felt of its thickness, adjusted her spectacles to examine the stitching and the color and seemed perfectly satisfied.

"I'll take 'em," she said.

The young man, not quite catching the remark, turned around, and seeing the woman standing there pocketbook in hand, he opened his satchel and handed her a pair of the curved wire devices that he was trying to sell. The woman looked at him in astonishment. As she bent over with her eyes close to the trousers—for she was very near sighted—the young man understood her mistake, and, half to her and half to the crowd, he announced in the same tone that he had used before:

"I'm not selling pants, but the latest improved knee stretchers; only ten cents a pair, that's all they are; one dime, ten cents!" and the woman, perplexed and disappointed, moved away and was borne along in the surging crowd.—Boston Journal.

They Never Took Mustard.

An Englishman, fond of roaming about the world, says that he was once on a large steamer where he had for his fellow passengers many Englishmen and Portuguese.

It was the first time that he had encountered individuals of either nation, and he noticed various

"What are those people do you find there?" he asked the captain one day as they paced the quarter deck together.

"Well, sir," he answered, "they're a queer lot, and that's the truth of it."

"How so?"

"For one thing," said the captain, "they all of them, man, woman and child, squeeze their feet into boots that it gives a man the cramp to look at."

"And what besides?"

The captain turned short upon the speaker, as if the second development of nationality was really at most beyond his patience.

"When they eat roast beef, sir, they won't take a bit of mustard with it. Now, that's a fact!"

Anxious to Be Stripped.

A man was trying to persuade a young store in the use of the yoke. He had slipped the beast's head through one side of it, and with a sudden impulse, to see what such bondage felt like, thrust his own head through the other side. The steer turned his head, and seeing a human face so close to his own took fright and started on a run, and with that, really idiotic, want the man down the hill, they passed along a pond at the foot, the steer only intent upon ridding himself of his companion, the man too absorbed in keeping the pace to waste any breath in speech. But as they were within a few rods of the water his agony found words, and he shrieked despairingly:

"Stop us! somebody stop us! two thousand feets of us!"

Splash!

The rest is silence.—New York Recorder.

Importance of Cheap Paper.

Without cheap paper the invention of printing would have benefited the world but little.

The newspapers read by every body and contributing to the general intelligence and advancement, are enabled to exist only by means of the cheap cost of the millions of pounds of paper they use every year. So with the cheap and attractive looking school books so essential to popular education. Our progress in personal art has been dependent upon the progress of papermaking.
